INQUIRY INTO $18,000,000 TAX CUT FOR STANDARD OIL

Senate Committee Calls for Report by Revenue Bureau on Details of Reduction Disclosed in Testimony of a Former U. S. Expert.

QUIT $5000 JOB FOR $75,000 A YEAR

Bureau Auditor, Summoned as Witness, Intimates Officials Have Attempted to Curb Freedom of Employes' Testimony.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Senate committee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau proceeded with its inquiry today while awaiting a reply from the bureau to its request for a report on the circumstances of the reduction from $23,000,000 to $5,000,000 of a tentative additional tax assessment against the Standard Oil Co.

Intimations that Internal Revenue Bureau officials have attempted to curb the freedom of bureau employes in testimony before the Senate committee investigating bureau affairs were made to the committee today by A. J. Bradley, a bureau auditor, summoned as a witness.

Bradley said he received today "a suggestion from his section chief that testimony which reflected on the bureau heads might adversely affect his position."

"Were you threatened?" asked Senator Watson (Rep.) Indiana. "No," Bradley replied.

He then described a rambling conversation with his chief, after the committee summons reached him. He characterized the five section heads in the bureau as "a very close corporation."

Watson asked if the witness had ever asked for promotion or salary increase and been denied. "Only for what I had a right to expect," Bradley said.

"Did you kick about that?" "Yes, I kicked like 40 steers," was the answer.

Has Nine Other Clients.

Testimony relating to the Standard Oil assessment was given yesterday by E. V. Rossmoore, former section chief in the bureau and now a tax accountant practicing before the bureau, with the Standard among his clients, and the committee asked the bureau for a report on the case, if not incompatible with the law requiring secrecy as to the tax returns. Field Agent Guernson of the bureau, who proposed the additional assessment against the company, later resigned and now is employed in Rossmoore's office in New York.

Rossmoore told the committee that on resigning from the bureau in 1919 he accepted a three-year contract with the Standard Oil Co. which brought him $10,000 a year for handling its tax accountant work, and that by taking on nine other clients he had earned an average of $75,000 a year for the last four years. He said his salary in the bureau had been $5000 a year, and that he might not have resigned if it had been increased to $7500. He informed the committee he already had filed a denial to charges made before the bureau alleging improper use by him of information obtained while he was an employe.

One Levy Cut $400,000.

Senator Couzens rbought the matter up when he called Rossmoore to the stand, first mentioning $5000 as the amount by which the assessment was reduced. Subsequently, however, he said the reduction had amounted to $18,000,000. The proposal for the additional assessment involved a number of complicated tax questions, including that of the allowance to be made on the company's property for "depletion."

Senator Watson, chairman of the committee, asked the witness if he cared to say whether any of the tax cases in which he has been engaged since his retirement from the

STAMMERING MAN HOLDS UP AND ROBS TWO PEDESTRIANS

Revolver Gives Emphasis to Halting Orders of "Hands Up" and "Give Me Your Money."

A stammering robber held up two pedestrians last night, profiting $4.90 thereby.

"H-h-h-ands up," was the order hoarsely whispered to Joseph Markley, 5232 Vernon avenue, in front of 5105 Lindell boulevard at 9:30 p. m. "G-g-give me y-y-y-our m-m-m-oney." A flourish of a revolver gave emphasis which the words did not. Markley took 90 cents in change from his overcoat pocket, handed it to the man and walked on.

Half an hour later the same stammering orders were whispered to Glenn Pagett, 4494 Forest Park avenue, at Forest Park and Euclid avenues. He surrendered $4.

TOKIO, March 21.—Divers engaged in efforts to salvage submarine 43, sunk off Sasebo, have reported that signals from the interior of the vessel had ceased. Reports to the Navy Department from Sasebo placed slender hopes on the efforts of the rescuers to raise the submarine to a position which would make it possible to rescue any survivors.

The submarine, which is 200 feet long, lies in 26 fathoms of water.

BROWNS TRYING TO GET HIGHER RENT FROM CARDINALS

American League Club Said to Want $37,500 Instead of $20,000 to Help Pay for More Seats at Park.

MOTIVE REVEALED IN INJUNCTION CASE

Hearing Resumed on Plea of National League Club to Prevent Cancellation of Lease of Playing Grounds.

An increase in the Cardinals' annual rental, from $20,000 to $37,500, is the underlying motive in the Browns' effort to cancel the National League club's lease on Sportsman's Park, it was revealed in testimony in Circuit Judge Frey's court, where hearing of an injunction suit continued today.

There is no thought of evicting the Cardinals from the only "major league" stadium in the city. The only motive is to force an increase in rental in order that a fair return may be realized on $250,000 in improvements on the park which the Browns intend to make if successful in breaking the lease. A material increase in the present seating capacity of 18,500 would be the result of these contemplated improvements.

Testimony for Cardinals.

James C. Jones, attorney for the Cardinals, testified that before the filing of the present suit to restrain the Browns from voiding the Cardinal lease, he had a conversation with Sol Swarts, attorney for the Browns, in which Swarts told him that litigation might be forestalled if the Browns received an increased rental.

Jones testified Swarts then produced a copy of a letter written by Philip de C. Ball, president of the St. Louis American League club (Browns), to Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis National League club (Cardinals), in September, 1922. Ball suggested in the letter that the Cardinals agree to an increased rental and that the Dodier Realty and Investment Co., which holds title to Sportsman's Park, would then install $250,000 in improvements. Both teams were near the top in the championship races that year and the Cardinals made $130,000 profit and the Browns cleared more than $200,000.

The Cardinals did not believe that the extra seating capacity was needed and declined to agree to an increase in rental. The lease expires in 1930.

Swarts on Stand.

Swarts, who took the stand later, testified that he had made no such proposition to Jones, inasmuch as he was without authority to do so. He admitted showing the letter to Jones, but said it was merely an incidental feature of a great deal of "lawyers' talk."

Since Ball wrote that letter in 1922, it has been common knowledge that he waited for an opportunity to break the lease, force a higher rental from the Cardinals and then put in his improvements. It was what baseball men call a "bone play" that finally gave him his opportunity.

Breadon was out of town on Jan. 1, last, when a quarterly $5000 payment on the lease fell due. H. W. Mason, secretary and treasurer of the Cardinals, forgot all about it, although Breadon had called his attention to it before leaving the city. Feb. 5, Mason recalled his failure, and told Breadon that he had "pulled an awful bone." Breadon hastened to pay the installment, but the next day was notified that his lease had been canceled.

Cancellation on Two Grounds.

The cancellation was made on two grounds. The first recited that the Cardinals were 37 days late in payment and the check was returned. The second charge set out that the Cardinals failed to procure proper indemnity insurance protecting the Browns from liability in the event persons were injured at Cardinal games or in the event of property damage.

Attorney Hocker for the Cardinals, in cross-examining Swarts, asked if the insurance matter was not something discovered accidentally and enlarged upon, merely to break the lease. He said that in-

MOTLOW'S ARREST HERE ON MURDER CHARGE ORDERED

Sidener Issues Warrant After Distiller Is Released on $25,000 Bond on East Side.

NO BAIL TO BE TAKEN, PROSECUTOR SAYS

East St. Louis Coroner's Jury Names Tennesseean as Slayer of Pullman Car Conductor.

An order for the arrest of Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, on a charge of first-degree murder, was issued by Circuit Attorney Sidener today, following Motlow's easy release on bond in East St. Louis last evening.

Motlow, while drunk, shot Clarence T. Pullis, a Pullman conductor, on an outbound L. & N. train, near the Eighth street entrance of the tunnel, Monday night. Pullis died in East St. Louis, and Motlow was arrested there.

The Circuit Attorney said that Motlow, if placed in custody here, would not be admitted to bail. He expressed surprise at the action of the East Side authorities in accepting a $25,000 bond, in the nature of a common-law bond, after State's Attorney Lindauer had announced that Motlow would be held in jail.

In St. Louis Last Night.

Motlow, who was in St. Louis last night, returned to East St. Louis before the order for his arrest was issued here, and a Post-Dispatch reporter saw him this afternoon in the law office of Lester Grigsby. Attorneys Frank P. Bond of Nashville and Dan McGlynn Jr. of East St. Louis, who were with him, would not permit him to be questioned, and they said they would not advise him to go to St. Louis voluntarily. Bond said Motlow needed medical treatment, and that he would either be placed in a sanitarium or taken to his home in Lynchburg, Tenn.

John Kelly, a professional bondsman, called on the Circuit Attorney today to ask whether bond would be accepted for Motlow here and Sidener answered in the negative. He said the case would be placed before the grand jury next Tuesday, and that following an indictment, the arrest and extradition of Motlow would be sought.

Inquest Verdict.

A Coroner's jury, in East St. Louis yesterday afternoon, declared Pullis' death to have been due to "a gunshot wound, with murderous intent, at the hands of Motlow." Following this verdict, State's Attorney Lindauer of St. Clair County declared that he would not turn the prisoner over to the St. Louis authorities, but that he would be prosecuted under Illinois law. He said the State of Illinois had jurisdiction over a crime committed in another state, the consummation of which occurs in Illinois.

Two representatives of the St. Louis Circuit Attorney's office had gone to the inquest, to ask that the prisoner be turned over to the St. Louis authorities. Lindauer assured them that Motlow would be held in jail, as he said the case was a wanton murder, and not bailable.

Representatives of the Pullman company also declared that, on instructions from the company's general offices in Chicago, the case against Motlow would be pressed "to the limit of the law." Henry Miller, an East St. Louis lawyer, was at the inquest as special counsel for the company.

Bond Agreed Upon.

Soon after the inquest Motlow's lawyers appeared before Judge Boders in the East St. Louis City Court, with Miller and with one of Lindauer's assistants. Almost without discussion, the acceptance of a $25,000 bond was moved and agreed to. "It was all fixed up by the lawyers beforehand," Judge Borders said today, "and theer was nothing for me to do but approve it."

Lindauer said today that, as the

SINCLAIR RESISTS PLAN TO PUT HIM ON GRILL AGAIN

Holder of Teapot Dome Leases, Backed by Counsel Headed by Martin W. Littleton, Challenges Committee's Right to Continue Oil Inquiry.

ARGUMENT BASED ON WALSH RESOLUTION

"You Propose to Force Us to Odium of Pleading a Privilege That He Is Afraid of Being Incriminated."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair waged an inconclusive two-hour legal battle with the Senate oil committee today in an effort to have their client excused from further questioning. Challenging the committee's authority to proceed with the inquiry after the validity of the leases already had been passed upon in a resolution of Congress and contending that in "fairness and justice," Sinclair should not be compelled to testify while charges of fraud were pending against him in the courts, Martin W. Littleton of the Sinclair counsel told committee members that their course was a "monstrous proposition" and an "outrage."

Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montant, the committee "prosecutor," did not agree with the Sinclair attorney but some committeemen wanted more time to think it over and adjournment was taken without a decision. The argument will be resumed tomorrow, probably in open session.

While today's discussion was in progress, the oil operator, whose lease of Teapot Dome was the starting point of the oil inquiry, sat at the committee table. His counsel did not predict what other legal privileges might be invoked later in his behalf, but Littleton repeatedly accused the committee of attempting to drive him into a position where he would have to assume the "odium" of refusing to answer, like Albert B. Fall, on the ground that it might incriminate him.

Attorneys for the operator, carrying in a heavy load of records and other documents, based their objection on the Walsh resolution adopted by Congress, directing annulment of the oil leases. They pointed out that the resolution declared the leases were made under circumstances indicating fraud and corruption, and said that, if this be true, the committee had ascertained what it was directed to ascertain.

In a long argument presented immediately after the witness was called to the stand, Littleton of the Sinclair counsel contended that, by the resolution, Congress not only had brought to an end the jurisdiction of the committee, but had defined the policy of the Government "that the oil shall be preserved for the Government."

Littleton's Argument.

"You have passed upon the validity of these leases," Littleton said. "And as far as the legislative adjudication can be effective you have legislated the leases to be void and have legislatively imposed an injunction with regard to the property.

"You have established a policy of the Government on this subject, and anything you claim would be only a detail which would not warrant the further examination of my client in this matter.

"You not only say that the leases

SENATOR ADMITS ENJOYING 'GOOD VIRGINIA LIQUOR' AND HOPES TO REPEAT SOON

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.

SENATOR BRUCE (Dem.), Maryland, admitted readily in the Senate yesterday that he recently enjoyed an offer of "some good Virginia liquor" and noped to repeat the experience. The statement was made as an interlude to the debate on the latest proposal for a constitutional amendment.

"I am reminded," said Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, "that in the interesting address delivered by the Senator a few days ago he referred to the fact that during a recent visit to the State of Virginia he was hospitably offered some of the good liquor of that State."

"Indeed I was," replied Bruce, "and I enjoyed it to the very highest degree, and hope to repeat the experience just as soon as possible."

U. S. ATTORNEY'S AID AND MANNINGTON GOT SHARE, WITNESS HEARD

Senators Demand That Daugherty's Counsel Produce Mannington, Said to Be With Dawes Committee — Permits Said to Have Gone to New York Bootleggers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—More collections of $1000 bills were unearthed today in testimony before the Daugherty investigating committee.

This time they were for illicit withdrawals of whisky from Federal warehouses.

John Goroni, president of the Alps Drug Co. of New York, testified that after being refused withdrawals by Proohibition Director Hart, he had paid Owen Murphy, a partner of Will A. Orr, $150,000 and to Orr himself $50,000 for withdrawal permits. Orr, Goroni testified, was selling withdrawal permits for $15 a case, and he understood Howard Mannington, a friend of the Attorney-General's, who had a desk in the "Little Green House on K Street" got $2 a case for his part.

Fifty thousand dollars in $1060 bills, Goroni testified, was collected from "other parties," among them a liquor dealer named John Lynn, who later hanged himself.

"How much of this $200,000 was for liquor?" Goroni was asked. "No liquor at all," he replied. "That was just for the permits."

Went Into Bootleggers' Hands.

The transactions were between May and August, 1921, Goroni said, and for signing the withdrawal applications the drug companies got a fee of $1 a case.

After the drug companies got the permits, anybody could get the liquor. The fee of $1 a case was for the use of drug companies' names, he said, to get the permits into the hands of bootleggers.

Goroni, asked regarding the division of the money he said was paid to Orr, testified he was told that the whisky fees ($15 a case) were divided as follows: "$2 to Mannington, $1 to the druggist, $1 to myself, $4 to the Prohibition Director, 50 cents to a lawyer named L'Esperance, and the balance divided between Orr and Murphy."

Goroni said L'Esperance now was an Assistant District Attorney in the office of United States District Attorney Hayward at New York, and used to have an office at 120 Broadway with Hayward.

Orr and Murphy told him how "the money was to be split," said Goroni, and they also told him L'Esperance was the attorney Goroni said Orr told him that he could always call on L'Esperance in case of any trouble.

"L'Esperance was the attorney for the combination," said Goroni.

Mannington had to split his $2 three ways, Goroni said Orr told him, and that some of it went to the late Jesse W. Smith, Attorney-General Daugherty's "bumper and friend."

Demand for Mannington.

"This committee needs the evidence of Howard Mannington," Senator Ashurst said. "I have reason to believe that there is a conspiracy with the Attorney-General to spirit Howard Mannington away in Europe, where he cannot be reached. I have demanded that Secretary Hughes be asked to furnish the original application for Mannington's passport and that he be caused to be returned."

"I understand he is on the Dawes committee in Europe," Senator Wheeler put in.

"I deny every implication of wrongdoing on the part of the Attorney-General in this proceeding," Howland put in.

"Then I demand you produce Howard Mannington," returned Ashurst.

Promise to Produce Mannington.

"Don't worry, Mannington will be here if we want him."

Howland said he would endeavor to produce Mannington.

"We will bring him here if we can," Howland explained, "and we want no implication that we are suppressing evidence."

The committee was suppressing evidence favorable to Daugherty, he said. Wheeler told him he had "uttered a lie."

"We're getting pretty low," said Howland.

"And you know it is a falsehood," continued Wheeler.

On the ensuing discussion Wheeler told Howland that "framed up evidence won't go on the witness stand here."

"Ever have dealings with W. A. Orr?" Goroni was asked at the beginning of his examination. "Yes—a liquor transaction along in May, 1921."

A man named Paul Lindy told him, the witness said, that if he wanted to do business he should "see Bill Orr."

"Who is Lundy?" "A theatrical agent—he told me if I wanted to do business I should see Bill Orr." The date was May, 1921, the witness said; the place, New York City.

"Did Orr tell you anything?" "He said he had influence in Washington with Mannington and Jess Smith, and I wolud be protected. I met Jess Smith with Bill Orr."

Said Smith Could "Help."

"Did they tell you Smith was the man who could fix things?" "They said he could help a lot. Howard Mannington, Orr said, was getting $2 a case from every case that went through."

"Who did they say Howard Mannington was?" "They said he belonged to the crowd from Columbus."

Goroni said he came to Washington when 7000 cases of Scotch were seized.

"Whom did you see?" "Thomas B. Felder. He told me to go home—it would be all right—he would get the liquor sooner or later."

"Did you pay money to Orr?" "Once—$50,000."

"How did you pay it?" "I collected for him from another party—it was in 50 $1000 bills."

"Where did you get it?" "From John Lynn."

"Who was he?" "He was in liquor—he hanged himself."

"What did you get the $50,000 for?" "It was a balance that Lynn owed to Orr and Murphy on liquor withdrawals."

"I was running the business for five drug companies," Goroni said. He named the Central, the S. & B. Drug Co., the Alps and others.

"Was this $50,000 paid to fix things?" "Orr was selling the permits for $15 per case and each of Tells of Paying $200,000.

"Did you pay any more?" "To Murphy I paid about $15,000."

"That was for influence?" "It was for these withdrawal papers."

"When was it?" "From May to about August, 1921."

"In those three months you paid Orr and Murphy $200,000?" "Yes."

"That was for liquor?" "No, for the permits."

"And you were not able to get any permits without that?" "No."

"How much whisky in a case?" asked Chairman Brookhart. The room rocked with laughter. The answer was inaudible.

Goroni was led on with his explanation.

"This $150,000 you paid was bootleggers' money?" Senator Jones asked. "Yes, sir."

"Now, the $200,000 to Orr and Murphy, it was for these permits?" "Yes, sir."

"You were paid back some money from Felder's offices?" "Not me—some people were. I insisted that Orr give it back to me."

"Did you meet Mannington?" "Yes—in Murphy's office in New York."

"It Was the 'Columbus Crowd.'"

"And they told you he was the Attorney-General's friend?" "They didn't specify the Attorney-General. It was the 'Columbus crowd.'"

"What did they say as to Smith?" "That he was in the Attorney-General's office."

"Didn't you offer to turn State's evidence?" (This referred to Goroni's trial in New York with Orr for conspiracy on liquor charges. Both were acquitted). Goroni answered that he had not.

"Did what you tell today come out then?" "No, the District Attorney and the prohibition director claimed the permits were stolen."

"Did Howard Mannington turn back some of the money? How much was paid back?" "About $40,000 or $50,000—it was paid through Thomas B. Felder."

Goroni indicated that the permits were "called back and canceled through Haynes."

"Some permits went through?" "Yes, about 60,000 cases."

"At $15 per case?" "Yes."

"You had trouble with Felder?" "Yes. I paid him $5000, with a promise I would not be indicted. I asked for my money back when I was indicted."

"W. J. Flynn recommended Felder to me—said he was an honest man," remarked Goroni. The committee identified Flynn as former head of the secret service.

Goroni said he imported 7100 cases of Scotch whisky from Scotland "in a legitimate way," but that "W. J. Fallon, the distillers' agent," wanted him to sell it to bootleggers.

Asked to Sell to Bootleggers.

"He offered me a quarter of a million dollars," Goroni went on, "to sell that to bootleggers. I refused. The whisky was in the White Star warehouse. Heilbronner and Co. exporters, tried to get possession of it. They failed. After that they came to me with Felder, and said they would give me $42,000 to ship the liquor back to England.

Then Felder threw him out of his office, Goroni said, because he refused to accept the $42,000 to relinquish his claims to the 7100 cases of Scotch.

Bootleggers Sold the Same Kind of Whisky After He Had Lost It

There was litigation and "by order of the Attorney-General the whisky was reshipped to England." Goroni tried to stop that unsuccessfully.

"Did you have any information as to what actually became of it?" "The same kind of whisky, in bottles and cases, was selling by the bootleggers around New York." He was not positive the bootleggers' whisky was his own, but "it was the same brand and that kind had never been there before."

"What did you lose?" "Between $30,000 and $35,000—litigation and all."

The 7100-case shipment was sent to the Alphs Drug Co., Goroni explained, and he had a permit to export it.

"I did not pay anything for that permit—it was a legitimate transaction," Goroni said. "Orr came to me," he went on. "I wouldn't give up the shipment. He told me to go to hell." This was in June, 1921.

"Didn't you know that the goods were never reshipped outside the port of New York?" "I know the rumor," Goroni said. "There was a plan to steal it from the warehouse—and I got detectives to watch it. Then it was ordered removed to the concentration warehouse—where the bootleggers have everything in their power and I couldn't stop it."

From the concentration warehouse the 7100 cases were ordered to reshipment.

Changed His Attorney.

"I changed my attorney—went from Felder to Barnes," Goroni said, telling of his fruitless attempts to stop the reshipment.

His attorney told him, the witness said, that Gaston B. Means would go from Washington to New York, acting for the Attorney-General and stop return of the whisky to Scotland. Means got there on Monday, but the whisky moved out on Saturday.

There was a plan to "take the whisky out with army trucks and replace it with bricks," Goroni said, and when the liquor was put aboard an outbound ship, he was told that it appeared as if empty cases were being tossed about.

Wheeler got Goroni to identify Nick Cimino as a "friend of Orr's" in New York. There were other liquor shipments in the Anchor warehouse, Goroni said.

"Any dope?" "Not that I know of."

Attorney Howland for the Attorney-General took up the examination.

"Hart, Prohibition Director, refused you a permit to release 500 cases of whisky, and then you tried to get someone of influence to get it allowed?"

"Orr sent for me," Goroni said, "and told me he wanted to do business and it would be all right."

The permits were for liquor for "medicinal purposes," Goroni said.

"But the liquor never came into your possession, but was distributed around by your agents to bootleggers?" Howland asked. "He was supposed to sell it to other druggists."

Daugherty Lawyer Hissed.

Howland, for the Attorney-General, took the witness over his conversation with William J. Flynn, former head of the secret service, who had told him he was in bad company.

When Howland asked if Flynn was not a Democratic appointee, there was hissing from the crowd in the room.

"Do you know, as a fact, that Harry M. Daugherty ever sent any telegram telling Judge Hand to order these 7100 cases of liquor sent back to England?" Howland demanded.

It was on recommendation of the Attorney-General's office, Goroni insisted. He named George B. Hayes, a New York attorney, as the lawyer he retained.

"After you got $1 a case for applying for liquor permits," Howland asked, "Why did you handle and more money?"

"It was for Orr."

"Who gave it to you?" "John Lynn gave me some; Orr sent me there to get it."

"When was Prohibition Director Hart dismissed?" "Some time in 1921."

"Was this business of handling permits continued after Hart retired?" "I don't know—I was out of the business."

"All these matters were handled by the District Attorney's office in New York?" "Yes."

The witness was excused, and Senator Wheeler proceeded to read telegrams of Jesse Smith and Roxie Stinson. Most of them seemed purely personal. One telegram from Smith to Miss Stinson told her to call him on long distance telephone; another to M. S. Daugherty told of the Attorney-General being en route to Florida, nad "stood trip well." The series of messages appeared to be principally about Attorney-General Daugherty's health.

$75,000 Account in Sinclair and Mexican Oil Stock Under Inquiry

A brokerage account in which $75,000 in Sinclair and Mexican oil stocks were traded in was delved into today by the committee.

William R. A. Hays, manager at Columbus, O., of Ungerleider & Co., Cleveland brokers, told of the account, which was carried on his books as W. R. A. Hays No. 2. He said it was merely a "miscellaneous account" and he had no recollection o fthe dealings in oil.

Hays told of the accounts of Jesse W. Smith, confidant and aid of Attorney-General Daugherty, who committed suicide last June, and of Roxie Stinson, Smith's divorced wife, who gave the committee sensational testimony in regard to Smith's relations with the Attorney-General and of "blind accounts" with brokers. Daugherty, Hays said, never had an account with Ungerleider & Co., although he had been one of Hays' customers with another firm.

Hays failed to confirm Miss Stinson's testimony that he had seen Smith with 75 $1000 bills on one of his trips to Ohio from Washington. Hays told the committee he had no recollection of any such incident.

A miscellaneous account under his own name, showing $75,000 in Sinclair and Mexican oil stock within a few months, was identified by Hays, but he said he could not recall the customers trading in it. Hays said that Attorney-General Daugherty had traded with him in another brokerage firm before he went with Ungerleider.

At this point Wilton J. Lambert, attorney for the McLean newspapers, said that Jap Muma, connected in testimony with fight film "deals" who failed to appear yesterday had not been served with a subpena, but would appear. Former Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, of Daugherty's counsel, asked that a subpena be issued for Frank A. Vanderlip. The question was postponed for later consideration.

Tells of Smith's Account.

Jesse W. Smith, Hays resumed, had a brokerage account at Ungerleider's.

"What was the account WRA Hays No. 3?" Senator Wheeler asked. "That was the account of Miss Stinson, former wife of Mr. Smith," Hays said.

There was an account "WRA Hays No. 2" in the Ungerleider books. Hays said that was "merely a miscellaneous account."

Wheeler read transactions in the No. 2 account, showing purchases and sales of oil stocks. There were transactions in Sinclair and Mexican oils aggregating $75,000, Senator Wheeler said.

"I have no recollection whatever on those," Hays asserted.

"Jesse Smith opened Miss Stinson's account," Hays went on.

"What did you do with the money in it?" "Just before Mr. Smith's death, he told us to close it out, and put the money in Liberty Bonds. We did it."

"What did you do with the bonds?" "I turned them over to Mel Daugherty."

Wheeler emphasized that, though the account was Miss Stinson's, the money went to Mel Daugherty, as executor of Jesse Smith's estate.

"What transaction caused this money to lose its character as Miss Stinson's money?" Senator Ashurst (Dem.) Arizona asked. Hays did not know.

Ashurst's Comment.

Ashurst told him he was "an unfaithful trustee who ought to be sued for embezzlement."

Chairman Brookhart suppressed the applause in the room.

"Mel Daugherty was an officer of the court," Hays expostulated. "I turned it over to him."

Among Smith's deals in 1920 and 1921, according to the broker's records, were 200 shares of White Motors, 216 of Pure Oil, 100 of United States Steel common and a small amount of Central Leather.

Smith's account was closed on Jan. 23, 1912, before the "No. 3" account for Miss Stinson was opened, Hays testified.

"There were 216 shares of Pure Oil and 100 of Steel Common, deposited on Oct. 15, 1921, and withdrawn Oct. 21," Wheeler began. Hays agreed.

Smith's personal account was closed in June, 1923, 208 shares of White Motors, 212 of Pure Oil, 100 of Steel Common, and other securities being delivered to Smith.

"Now the No. 3 account showed on its face that it was the account of Miss Stinson?" Wheeler said. "It was."

"Possibly I was too vigorous a moment ago." Senator Ashurst remarked, declaring he would change his word "embezzlement" to "unlawful conversion."

"Why did you assume this was Jess Smith's account?" "He brought in money and took money out," Hays said. "Both he and Miss Stinson gave me orders on it. I though it a joint account."

Matter in Litigation.

Attorney Paul Howland, for Attorney-General Daugherty, asked Hays if the matter of "turning over these Liberty Bonds to Mal Daugherty from the Stinson account had become a matter of litigation."

"It has," he replied, adding that the Probate Court found the bonds to be the property of the estate of Smith, and that the case now was in process of appeal.

"Did you ever see Jess Smith with 75 $1000 bills in his possession?" Howland asked. "I never did."

"For the purpose of refreshing your memory," Wheeler put in, "do you remember Jess Smith coming to your office with Miss Stinson in a taxicab, and having a long talk with you?"

Hays did not recollect. He likewise asserted he had never told Miss Stinson he remembered Smith's possession of the $75,000.

Ashhurst asked for the name of Miss Stinson's attorney in the probate proceedings.

"Smith W. Bennett, eh?" the Senator excalimed "No wonder she lost her case. He was the man who refused to go further unless Miss Stinson promised not to buow the lid off in Washington."

Check Sent to Mrs. Stinson.

Samuel L. Landon, who identified himself as an "ex-broker" in Ohio, was called. He testified that Miss Stinson in September, 1922, mailed 25 shares of White Motor stock to him for sale at $50 a share. Miss Stinson sent the letter from Atlantic City and got back a check for $1250. The certificate was issued to Roxie R. Stinson.

Landon agreed that his testimony was from the record, and that he had actually not seen the stock certificate.

"I don't know whose name was on it," he said finally when Ashurst pushed the examination.

"Would it have gone through blank on its face?" Howland asked. "No, sir," Landon said.

The committee agreed to look up the stock books of the White Motor Co.

"I'll now read into the record Jess W. Smith's telegrams," Wheeler said.

Former Senator Chamberlain objected.

"I understood last evening that the committee would look over these in executive session," said he.

"I'll let you look them over after they are in the record," replied Wheeler.

Miss Stinson had testified that the stock was in blank and given to her by Smith with the statement that it "hadn't cost anything."

"I submit because I have to," replied Chamberlain, but he asked for courtesy of seeing the telegram.

Wheeler and Lawyer Clash.

Wheeler agreed to let him look them over, while another witness was put on. There was a heated argument, nevertheless. Wheeler said it was "almost a universal rule in Senate investigations" to rule out counsel. Senator Chamberlain said he had been in Senate investigations also, and that attorneys had been allowed to intervene.

"We were stopped from getting the truth at Mal Daugherty's bank," Wheeler broke in. "Our man was literally knocked out. You talk about courtesy! We are confronted by the spectacle of the Department of Justice and the Burns Detective Agency covering up on everything, following up our members.

"The Attorney-General every day issues a bulletin blackening the character of every witness."

Brookhart pounded for order as the audience broke into applause.

"If you charge us——" Chamberlain began.

"I don't—you wouldn't resort to the tactics of your boss—your client in this matter," Wheeler replied.

Chamberlain took up the bank investigation.

"We can't permit you to inquire into every private account," he said.

"That is what we are going to do, where more than $25,000 is concerned," returned Wheeler. "You can't unless the law permits," replied Chamberlain.

"We will see," retorted Wheeler.

Chairman Brookhart intervened. The committee was seeking evidence of a conspiracy, he said, and under rules of law that allowed latitude.

George B. Hayes, attorney, New York City, who appeared for Goroni in New York at his trial for conspiracy, was the next witness.

"Do you know about the purchase of 10,000 cases of Scotch by Goroni from David Heilbronner & Son of Glasgow?" asked Wheeler. Hayes had some knowledge of the transaction.

Request From Hayward.

"Part of the whisky was entered in the name of the Alps Drug Co., of which Goroni was vice president," Hayes said. "Thomas B. Felder and other attorneys represented the company. I made a demand for the consignment. There was an absolute sale of the goods to the Alps Drug Co. There were some allegations of conditions on the sale. The Federal District Attorney filed a libel on the goods. An assistant in Mr. Hayward's office requested that I discontinue the proceedings. I refused. Mr Wolf, the assistant, said they had word from Washington that the goods were sold on conditional sales."

He recounted fruitless efforts to get control of the whisky for Goroni.

Federal Judge Hand told him, Hayes said, that he had received a telegram from Washington which influenced him in giving a decision in the libel suit over the return of the whisky. Hayes could not recall whether the communication came from the Justice or Treasury Department.

The committee went into executive session and will meet again tomorrow.

M. S. Daugherty to Fight.

In executive session today, the committee and Daugherty's counsel fought over the question of examining the books of the Midland National Bank at Washington Court House, Ohio, but reached no decision. Both sides said a hard fight, which probably would reach the Senate floor in a contempt case, was in prospect.

The committee today decided to issue a new subpena upon M. S. Daugherty, president of the bank and brother of the Attorney-General, to require him to permit inspection of all accounts. The Attorney-General's counsel insists that only specified accounts, of persons regarded as involved, shall be opened to examination.

Counsel for the Attorney-General said that M. S. Daugherty probably would come here and refuse to respond to the new subpena. It was said to be probable that he would then be cited for contempt, requiring the Senate itself to consider a contempt order. The Attorney-General's counsel said if this was done, a habeas corpus writ for M. S. Daugherty would be issued and the question of the committee's power fought out in the Federal courts.

The committee also decided today to subpena Attorney L'Esperance, named in the "split" in the $200,000 whisky fund.

FEDERAL TAX REFUNDS TOTALING $420,078 TO CURTIS & CO.

TWO refunds of Federal taxes, totaling $420,078, have been made to Curtis & Co., manufacturers, at Wellston, according to information given out in Washington. One refund of $368,477 was announced today, and a refund of $51,601 was announced recently. The former was for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1917, and the other for the following year.

E. H. Steedman, president of the company, said today that the company was a large manufacturer of Government war products, and that numerous tax settlements were necessary in the conduct of the business.

Challenges Committee's Right to Continue Inquiry

were void, but the language you use is very broad and the policy you have established is very dennite. You have declared the policy of this Government is that the oil should be maintained in the ground as a great reserve supply to meet a national emergency. You have thus discharged all the duties placed in your hands.

"What is it your committee is investigating that entitles you to take my client, who has been here time and again with his books and papers, and say, 'You must testify further'? Have you any jurisdiction which entitles you to do so under the standards and precedents of the American Government?"

Right to Call Witnesses.

The right of congressional committees to call witnesses and papers from all over the country to aid in framing legislation, the attorney argued, never had been sustained in the courts.

"Has it ever been denied?" asked Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, committee "prosecutor." "No, but it has been questioned," was the reply.

There was a long colloquy between Littleton and Senators as to the rights of congressional committees to summon witnesses. Sinclair's counsel contended that the committee was without any vestige of power.

Views of Dill and Walsh.

"If your ideas should prevail," said Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, "this committee might as wel close its doors and quit."

"It should either quit or do its work in constitutional fashion," replied Littleton.

"As I understand Mr. Littleton's position," said Walsh, 'it is that members of Congress are obliged, for the purpose of informing themselves concerning contemplated legislation, to depend upon the press, their talks with individuals and other voluntary information which anybody may be willing to give them, but they cannot compel any body to come before a committee and tell it the facts."

"Senator, your statement is facetoius." Littleton said. 'Oh, it is not," returned Walsh, "it is a statement of your argument."

Spencer Makes a Suggestion.

The argument grew more and more heated. Finally Senator Spencer (Rep.) of Missouri suggested that the power of Congress to compel attendance of witnesses should be passed upon as quickly as possible. Littleton agreed but was unable to advance a method by which the question could be settled.

Calling attention that the Government had brought civil suit in Wyoming against the Mammoth Oil Co., in which fraud was charged against Sinclair, Littleton said this was another reason why his client should not be questioned further.

"He (Sinclair) is personally charged in this bill (the Government bill of complaint) with a conspiracy to defraud the Government." Littleton said, adding that it was doubtful that Sinclair could be compelled to testify even in a court because of that charge.

As a mater of "fairness and justice," the attorney said, Sinclair should not be compelled to testify under the existing circumstances. The rules of evidence, he said, are not observed by congressional committees. He then declared flatly he did not believe the committee had a right in law to go now into matter already before the courts and "prejudge the case."

The announcement of Government counsel that there is to be criminal prosecution in the oil cases, Littleton said, constituted another reason why the committee should not question Sinclair. He added that it was safe "to assume" from the charge against Sinclair in the bill of complaint in the civil suit that an effort would be made to have him indicted.

"What harm would be done to Mr. Sinclair if he testified here, if he has a just cause?" asked Walsh

"Just the harm you would suffer if you were subjected to present your case before a mob in the street," returned Littleton. "You tell me you want to examine my client when he has been sued and may be indicted and compel him in an ex-parte proceeding to make a statement."

"If he is afraid of an indictment, he has ample protection," said Walsh.

"Yes," replied the attorney, "you want to bring him before you and compel him to take refuge under the plea that he might incriminate himself."

"Should we excuse him on that ground?" asked Walsh.

"You propose," Littleton returned, "to force us to the odium of pleading a privilege, of driving a man who has been driven to plead to a complaint in the courts and may be indicted—that he must come here before the whole country and make the statement that he is afraid of being incriminated. You propose to drive him to that humiliation. It is an outrage, a reversal of all traditions of the law."

"We do not agree with that," said Walsh.

"It is a monstrous proposition," shouted Littleton. "We will meet you in the courts where you have sent us and fight it out toe to toe. Do not drive us into a foul atmosphere and make a declaration which will throw odium upon us to the ends of the earth."

When Littleton had finished Walsh said Sinclair had been called for examination on "matters which he might have testified about when he was on the stand before."

There was an argument among Senators as to whether the committee should decide the questions raised in public or private. Spencer suggested an adjournment to study the matter but Walsn declared that was unnecessary.

Senator Bursum (Rep.) of New Mexico said he believed the committee "should proceed with the examination of the witness." Senators Kendrick (Dem.) of Wyoming and Cameron (Rep.) of Arizona, said they wanted time to consider it. Chairman Ladd (Rep.) of Nebraska declared he favored bringing the witness before the committee.

Walsh said he wanted to give Sinclair every right that he would have in a court of law, but he did not think the question of "fairness so eloquently presented to us" carried any weight. The committee adjourned without deciding whether Sinclair should be questioned.

Committee to Go Into Story of Sinclair's Gift to G. O. P.

The committee has completed arrangements to question Will H. Hays, former Postmaster-General, about reports that Sinclair helped wipe out a deficit incurred by the Republican National Committee in the 1920 campaign.

Committee members have denied having any knowledge of the story concerning the subpena for Hays, who was Republican campaign chairman in 1920 and who now is the movie "czar." This story is that 75,000 shares of Sinclair stock were turned over to the Republican National Committee to concel its deficit. Senator Walsh said the purpose in calling Hays was to ask him about his firm's engagement as attorney for the Sinclair Consolidated after leaving the Cabinet.

A number of witnesses summoned by the oil committee in connection with gossip of an "oil deal" at the 1920 Republican national convention were released from subpena today, having notified Senator Walsh they knew nothing about the matter. Those so released included Rudolph Hynicka, of Cincinnati, Republican national committeeman from Ohio; Charles H. Gerrish of Columbus, O.; Harry MacKenzie of Chicago, and Norman J. Gould of New York. Walsh said the release of these witnesses did not mean that the committee would drop its inquiry into the "oil deals" story. Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland has been summoned for tomorrow in this connection and Al Jennings of Oklahoma also will be questioned.

GIRL PSYCHIC AND MOTHER 'GUILTY' OF FORTUNE-TELLING

Eugenie Dennis, Kansas "Wonder," Convicted in New York on Woman's Complaint.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Miss Eugenie Dennis, 18-year-old psychic of Atchison, Kan., whose clairvoyant powers have been demonstrated before scientific organizations and high police officials here, was found guilty of fortune-telling by a magistrate today. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Dennis, also was found guilty.

At the request of the defense lawyer, sentence was postponed until next Thursday. A $250 fine or six months' imprisonment or both, may be imposed under the law.

A new lawyer represented mother and daughter today, Mrs. Dennis explaining that she had been unable to pay an extra $500, demanded by their first attorney, last night.

The complainant was Mrs. Mary W. Foley, who charged that the girl demanded $25 for giving what proved to be wrong information concerning the whereabouts of Mrs. Foley's missing son. She charged the girl definitely stated her son was in California, whereas he never was further west than Pittsburg.

Psychology students crowded the courtroom and one of the principal witnesses for Miss Dennis was Dr. Hereward Carrington, head of the American Psychic Institute and Laboratory.

Miss Dennis denied she had demanded $25 from Mrs. Foley. She said she never made definite statements because her powers depended upon circumstances, such as the atmosphere of the room, the mental attitude of the questioner and other conditions. Miss Dennis said that in her pronouncements she always used the word "guess" as a prefix.

Dr. Carrington said the American Psychic Institute and Laboratory was paying Miss Dennis' expenses because they wanted to experiment with her strange psychic powers.

PARTY OBJECTING TO HYDE'S KEEPING HEBER NATIONS

Governor Admits Receiving Number of Letters From Republicans Protesting Against Labor Commissioner.

BEER SCANDAL CAUSES WORRY

Three Wings of State Administration View Retention of Nations as Political Liability.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21.—Gov. Hyde yesterday admitted that he has received letters from a number of Republicans protesting against his announced decision to retain State Labor Commissioner Heber Nations as a member of the State administration, despite Nations' prominent place in news of a Federal inquiry being conducted into the sale of "protected" beer in St. Louis. The Labor Commissioner's name was introduced into the beer news by his brother, Gus O. Nations, Missouri chief of field forces, prohibition enforcement division.

Hyde had determined to get rid of the Labor Commissioner, his intimates declared, but that official met the Governor in Kansas City and in an interview which has been described as "short and snappy," changed Hyde's intentions. Before proceeding westward to meet the Governor, Commissioner Nations had given out in St. Louis an interview which charged that old guard Republican politicians had instigated the inquiry and branded it as an attack on the Hyde administration.

Four Wings to Administration.

The Republican State administration here consists of about four wings. The larger attaches to the Governor. One is led by State Auditor Hackmann, a third consists of Secretary of State Becker and his friends, and the fourth contains the rest of the Republicans.

Lieutenants of the Hyde group have accepted the Labor Commissioner's statement as their text on the beer inquiry.

"Didn't Heber hand it back to them?" the Hyde votaries inquire.

Political Liability.

The three other wings are not so chipper about the matter. None of them pretends to pass on whether Nations is innocent, but they see a considerable political liability in his continued connection with the Republican State administration until the matter is cleared up. None of them will consent to be quoted but in private conversation they are rather outspoken.

It is believed, however, that the Governor will play out the hand which has been dealt to him. He declared that the letters objecting to his retention of Nations were fewer than those received from ministers and others in St. Louis espousing the Nations cause, and that he had determined to disregard the letters which were political in their reasoning.

$18,000,000 TAX CUT TO STANDARD OIL UNDER INQUIRY

bureau had passed over his desk while he was a Government employe. It was here that Rossmoore expressed his desire not to take up the question.

Rossmoore also said he was employed by the Fulton Bag Co. of New York, which had protested against a $600,000 tentative increase in assessment that later was reduced to $200,000. This company and the Standard Oil Co., he added, were among the 10 clients before the bureau he now had.

Explaining his employment by the Standard Oil Co., the witness said that when he resigned in 1919, after two years' service, he was tendered a contract to do tax accountant work for the Standard Oil, after having refused a salaried position with the company.

Couzens pressed the witness to say what he was now earning, after having brought out the fact that Rossmoore received $5000 a year as a section chief of the Bureau. "I have averaged $75,000 a year for the last four years," Rossmoore said.

"I had heard that it was $200,000 a year," commented Couzens.

Taking up the Fulton Co. case, Couzens asked what the witness expected in the matter. Rossmoore replied that the matter was not settled and his compensation had not been fixed. He assented, however, to Couzens' suggestion that it "might be as much as $40,000."

Hammering along the same line in his attack on high fees paid for tax expert services, Couzens recounted, with names or places omitted, the story of a farmer who had discovered an oil well on his farm and paid $600,000 in taxes. On a "tip" from inside the Bureau, Couzens said, it was reported, an attorney had visited the farmer

Governor Admits Receiving Number of Letters From Republicans Protesting Against Labor Commissioner.

BEER SCANDAL CAUSES WORRY

Three Wings of State Administration View Retention of Nations as Political Liability.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21.—Gov. Hyde yesterday admitted that he has received letters from a number of Republicans protesting against his announced decision to retain State Labor Commissioner Heber Nations as a member of the State administration, despite Nations' prominent place in news of a Federal inquiry being conducted into the sale of "protected" beer in St. Louis. The Labor Commissioner's name was introduced into the beer news by his brother, Gus O. Nations, Missouri chief of field forces, prohibition enforcement division.

Hyde had determined to get rid of the Labor Commissioner, his intimates declared, but that official met the Governor in Kansas City and in an interview which has been described as "short and snappy," changed Hyde's intentions. Before proceeding westward to meet the Governor, Commissioner Nations had given out in St. Louis an interview which charged that old guard Republican politicians had instigated the inquiry and branded it as an attack on the Hyde administration.

Four Wings to Administration.

The Republican State administration here consists of about four wings. The larger attaches to the Governor. One is led by State Auditor Hackmann, a third consists of Secretary of State Becker and his friends, and the fourth contains the rest of the Republicans.

Lieutenants of the Hyde group have accepted the Labor Commissioner's statement as their text on the beer inquiry.

"Didn't Heber hand it back to them?" the Hyde votaries inquire.

Political Liability.

The three other wings are not so chipper about the matter. None of them pretends to pass on whether Nations is innocent, but they see a considerable political liability in his continued connection with the Republican State administration until the matter is cleared up. None of them will consent to be quoted but in private conversation they are rather outspoken.

It is believed, however, that the Governor will play out the hand which has been dealt to him. He declared that the letters objecting to his retention of Nations were fewer than those received from ministers and others in St. Louis espousing the Nations cause, and that he had determined to disregard the letters which were political in their reasoning.

$18,000,000 TAX CUT TO STANDARD OIL UNDER INQUIRY

bureau had passed over his desk while he was a Government employe. It was here that Rossmoore expressed his desire not to take up the question.

Rossmoore also said he was employed by the Fulton Bag Co. of New York, which had protested against a $600,000 tentative increase in assessment that later was reduced to $200,000. This company and the Standard Oil Co., he added, were among the 10 clients before the bureau he now had.

Explaining his employment by the Standard Oil Co., the witness said that when he resigned in 1919, after two years' service, he was tendered a contract to do tax accountant work for the Standard Oil, after having refused a salaried position with the company.

Couzens pressed the witness to say what he was now earning, after having brought out the fact that Rossmoore received $5000 a year as a section chief of the Bureau. "I have averaged $75,000 a year for the last four years," Rossmoore said.

"I had heard that it was $200,000 a year," commented Couzens.

Taking up the Fulton Co. case, Couzens asked what the witness expected in the matter. Rossmoore replied that the matter was not settled and his compensation had not been fixed. He assented, however, to Couzens' suggestion that it "might be as much as $40,000."

Hammering along the same line in his attack on high fees paid for tax expert services, Couzens recounted, with names or places omitted, the story of a farmer who had discovered an oil well on his farm and paid $600,000 in taxes. On a "tip" from inside the Bureau, Couzens said, it was reported, an attorney had visited the farmer and helped him collect a $300,000 refund for "depletion," the attorney getting $80,000 as his fee.

Commissioner Nash of the Bureau admitted that such a happening was possible if the source of income was not shown on the face of the return. He insisted, however, that Bureau field agents were as much required to see that taxpayers got refunds due them as they were to see that the Government got fair assessments on large holdings.

Found Things "Particularly Rosy."

E. H. Batson, a former Deputy Commissioner in the Bureau, now engaged in legal practice in Washington, also was examined as to his practice before the Bureau since his resignation. He declared flatly, that while he had handled a number of cases for taxpayers, the largest involving $90,000 in claims, that none of the cases on which he was employed had ever come before him while in the department.

"You do not depend on any influence with persons you may know in the Bureau, do you" Watson asked Batson.

"Absolutely, no," he replied. "I try to get along on what I know."

Batson testified he had also been a $5000 Government man, adding that he had made "about $20,000 last year" in private practice. He declared he had found things "particularly rosy" outside the Government service.

After Rossmoore had testified Batson was recalled to give his recollection of the Standard Oil case. He said he remembered that when the $23,000,000 assessment came in from the field agent, reviewing authorities in the bureau had come to him with the statement that the assessment was "wrong down to $10,000,000" and questionable below that down to a $3,000,000 figure. He had informed the Standard Oil officials, he said, that the Government believed the company should pay $3,000,000, leaving the balance to be finally determined after careful examination of the facts. Company representatives had agreed to this, he added.

Only an "Ex Parte" Expression.

Questioned as to whether he had ever been employed by the Standard Oil Co. or handled any of their tax or other cases, Batson said he had not. A discussion with the two witnesses and with bureau officials and Prof. T. S. Adams, committee adviser, as to the intricate problems involved in such cases as that of the Standard Oil Co. followed, the officials indicating that field agent assesments were as a general rule reduced on review at the bureau. The agent's suggestions constituted only an "ex parte" expression of their personal views, the committee was told.

Both Batson and Rossmoore agreed that their former connection with the bureau, aside from the knowledge it gave them of the tax laws, did not help them in handling tax cases for clients before the bureau. Asked specifically by Couzens if his acquaintanceship with bureau officials who were his former associates had helped "speed up" the Fulton Bag Co. case, Rossmoore replied: "I should say not; it dragged terribly. It began in 1920 and is not cleaned up yet."

Couzens said the evidence made it "obligatory on Congress" to devise means of making it unnecessary for taxpayers to employ high-priced representatives to straighten out their affairs with the bureau.

Discuss Legal Limit on Fees.

"The taxpayers should know about these tentative assessments," he said. "They invite the taxpayer to retain attorneys."

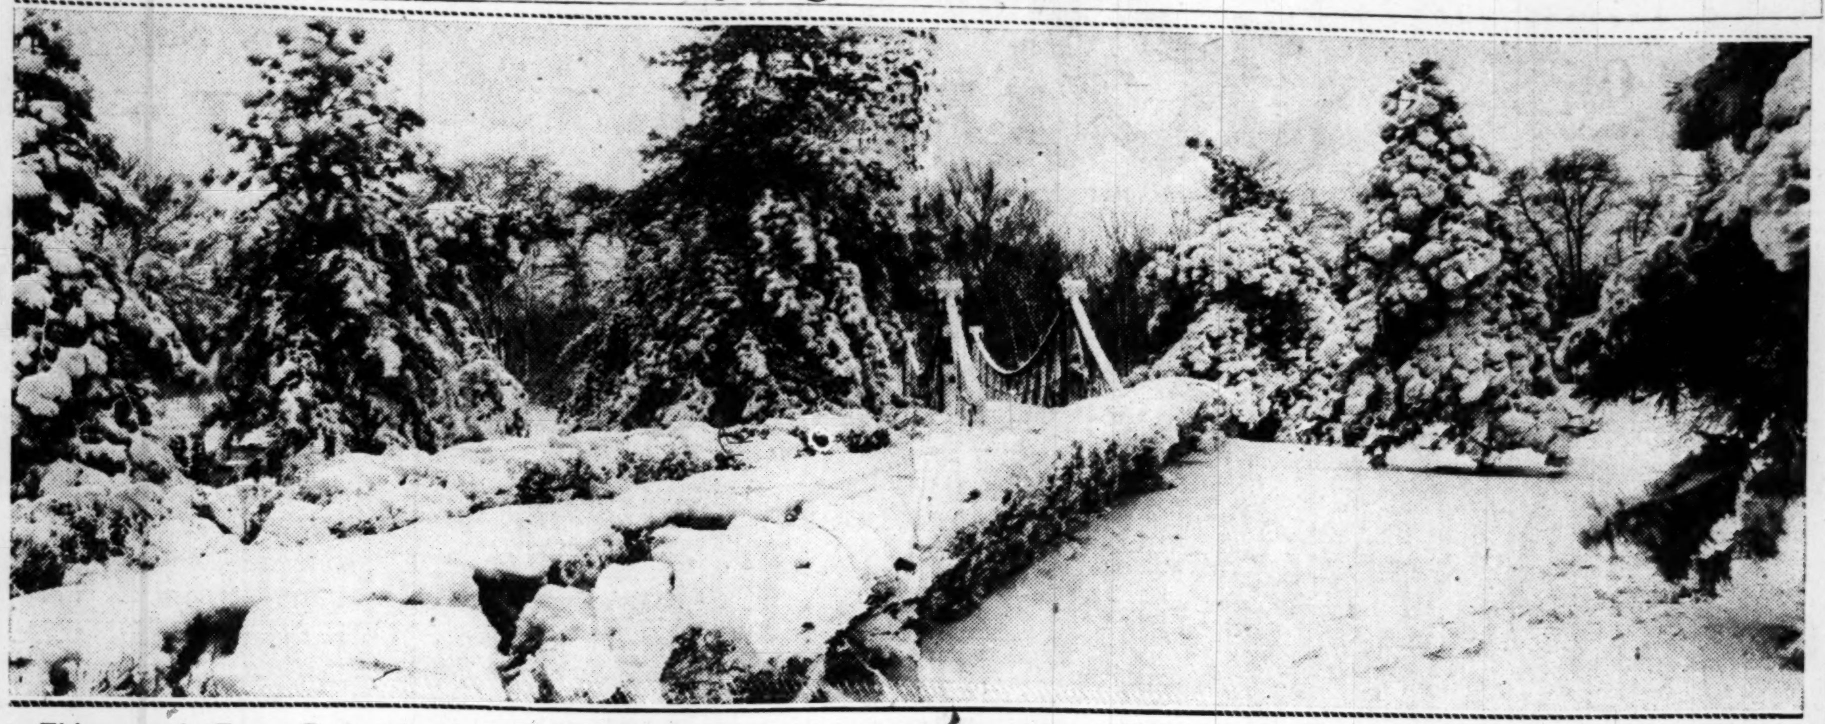
Discussing the possibilities of making a legal limit on fees tax attorneys might charge, Couzens was cautioned by Rossmoore that the problem might prove difficult of solution.

"If you fixed a percentage limit —say 5 per cent of the claim," Rossmoore said, "I should say that in such a case as my Standard Oil case, the fee would be very large."

Prof. Adams sought the views of the two witnesses on what would be the result if the Government decided to "close out" the 1917-18 tax return cases which are still under audit. Rossmoore said "close audit" undoubtedly brought in more taxes, but added:

"An able auditor can find in three days almost as much as in three months."

Spring in St. Louis



This scene in Forest Park, taken by a Post-Dispatch photographer yesterday afternoon, after the steady 8-inch fall of snow had ceased, is typical of the way this sticky stuff coated all sorts of objects. This bridge carries a footpath across the River des Peres, south of Grand drive and west of the Wabash embankment. Spring began at 3:20 p. m. yesterday, having been brought forward a day, the Weather Bureau explained, because of leap year.

Secretary Weeks and Mellon Concern Got Refunds on Taxes

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Fresh impetus was given the senatorial investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau today when evidence was turned over to the special Couzens committee showing that $200,000,000 had been paid out by the Treasury Department in the last three years on refunds of Federal taxes.

Heading the list of persons and corporations benefiting by the refunds were found the names of Mrs. Adelaide C. Blair, wife of Internal Revenue Commissioner David H. Blair, several members of her family, Secretary of War John W. Weeks and the Gulf Refining Co., of which Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon was a principal stockholder.

The refund records gave no indication of wrongdoing, but the large totals and the identity of beneficiaries led to a demand by Democratic Senators for a thorough investigation of the entire administration of the bureau.

The list of refunds was gathered from official sources by Senator McKellar (Dem.) Tennessee, and turned over to the Couzens committee for investigation. The list included only those refunds in excess of $20,000, but several of the repayments ranged above $1,000,000. In addition, McKellar declared he had positive evidence showing that $3,300,000 was repaid to the Gulf Refining Co. and its subsidiaries in 1922.

Two Refunds to Secretary Weeks.

While reporting the totals of refunds for each of the last three years, McKellar gave the committee the names of individuals and corporations which benefited only during the years 1922 and 1921. The annual total repayments were $28,655,357 for 1921; $48,134,127 for 1922 and $123,000,000 for 1923.

The official records, McKellar said, showed that Mrs. Blair, wife of the Commissioner, received a refund of $31,798 in 1922. Her home was given as Winston-Salem, N. C., and the account carried under name as Adelaide C. Blair. Four other members of her family, including brothers and sisters and a corporation owned by the family also were given refunds in excess of $20,000.

Two refunds were paid to Secretary Weeks during the same year, according to McKellar's figures. The amounts were $21,151 and $6366, or a total of $27,517.

The largest individual beneficiary under the 1922 tax refunds was William Rockefeller, who was repaid a total of $1,451,044 by the Treasury. A close second was William D. Hunt of Boston, who received refunds totaling $1,057,774.

$2,038,326 to Cudahy Company.

The largest single amount refunded to a corporation was $2,038,326 turned back to the Cudahy Packing Co. of Chicago. Three other refunds to the Cudahy company gave them an additional return of $147,519.

Nationally known Republican leaders were found among the beneficiaries. An example was Edwin H. Vare, late Republican leader in Pennsylvania, who was given three refunds, for amounts of $173,490, $69,120 and $22,212 — a total of $264,822. Another was the refund of $56,226 to Proctor & Gamble of Cincinnati, headed by Col. William C. Proctor.

Other individuals given big refunds were E. G. Stillman of New York, repaid $264,387; the estate of Zenas Crane of New York, $306,448; Rodman Wanamaker II of Philadelphia, $25,560; the estate of Richard J. Reynolds, Salem, N. C., tobacco king, $410,691; and Adolphus Forstman, of Passaic, N. J., $34,714.

Refunds to corporations included $104,300 to Sears, Roebuck Co., Chicago; $841,842, Northwest Steel Co., Portland, Ore.; $80,661, E. I. Dupont de Nemours Co.; $522,477, East Coast Car Ferry Co., St. Augustine, Fla.; $75,000, Singer Manufacturing Co.; $453,396, Maas & Waldstein, New York; a total of $368,840 to the Southern Pacific Co.; $152,165, Locomobile Co. of Bridgeport; $219,540, Carnegie Steel Co., and $368,477 to Curtiss & Co. of Wellston, Mo.

SENATOR DILL CHARGES BIG INTERESTS SEEK TO STIFLE THE OIL INVESTIGATION

Points Out that Sinclair Resists Just as Committee Prepares to Go Into Story His Oil Stock Wiped Out G. O. P. Deficit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, started a debate on the Senate floor today in which he declared Martin W. Littleton's appearance in the oil investigation today demonstrated that powerful influences were at work to stop further investigation.

Recalling that Littleton had questioned the authority of congressional committees to summon witnesses before them, Dill said: "It was extremely significant that this move should be made just when we were about to question Mr. Sinclair and Mr. Hays (Will H. Hays) regarding the reported fund of 75,000 shares of oil stock to pay campaign debts."

It also was to be noted "that the great Eastern newspapers all began to find this inquiry nauseating on the very day we exposed the telegrams from the White House to McLean—the man who confessed he lied to the committee."

"They didn't think so," he continued, "until we began to get close to big Republican officials. Until then with comparatively small culprits involved, they were content; now we find the most brilliant member of the New York bar retained to head off the committee."

Department "Paralyzed."

Senator Reed (Dem.) Missouri, suggested that "the sickening effect" was heightened by "the fact that the Department of Justice is paralyzed and actually is used to protect some of the culprits; that the chief executive has failed to put some one at the head of the bureau who would put its machinery in motion."

Declaring an effort was being made by certain "portions of the press" to discredit the Senate," Senator Heflin (Dem.) Alabama, said he felt "complimented, when one of these pusillanimous sheets attacks me."

"They do not attack anybody unless he is on the firing line fighting in the interest of his country," he added.

"These interests are not going to intimidate the Senate. They may have the Speaker of the House go up to Massachusetts and talk about how the Senate has lowered its standards, and remind them of the old days when the Senate used to discuss constitutional questions. Those were the glorious days. They would have us to understand.

"I thank God the time has come when the people can elect their Senators and have them responsive to their will."

Senator Dill read into the record extracts from an article in the New York Times indicating that Will H. Hays would tell the Oil Committee that Harry F. Sinclair turned over 75,000 shares of Sinclair oil stock to the Republican National Committee to wipe out the $1,600,000 deficit left after the 1920 elections.

The Times article, as read by Senator Dill, said there was reason to believe Hays would tell the committee that Sinclair supplied the stock. In November, 1920, it said Hays appealed for funds to wipe out the Republican campaign deficit. On Dec. 1, 1920, it continued, the Sinclair oil stock was valued at $25 a share, which would make the 75,000 shares worth $1,875,000 at that time.

special counsel, Miller, was willing to accept a bond, he decided it would be all right. Miller said it had seemed expedient, "for technical reasons," to consent.

The bond, which was signed by Finis P. Ernest, William F. Belz and Mrs. Mary E. McGee, requires Motlow to appear to answer any indictment that the St. Clair County grand jury may return. Lindauer said the case would be taken before the grand jury the second week in April, and that he would endeavor to have the case brought to trial at the April term. He said he understood that a plea of insanity might be made. Motlow's lawyers, at the inquest, asked witnesses if Motlow seemed to have been drugged, but they replied that he appeared to them to be drunk.

Pullis' funeral was held at his home in Kirkwood yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Pullis today said she had heard nothing of a reported tender of a check for a large amount, by Motlow, to lawyers representing her.

Japan Increases Ship Building.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—To encourage trade with South America the Government has decided to increase the subsidies granted steamship companies maintaining South American services from 650,000 yen annually, the present figure, to 900,000 yen. The Osaka Shosen Kaisha and the Toyo Kisen Kaisha are the principal lines affected.

PROGRAM TO SPEED LEGISLATION HOPE OF CONFERENCE

President and G. O. P. House Leaders to Discuss Situation Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Republican leaders in the House devoted much of their time today to working out a legislative program preparatory to their conference with President Coolidge tonight to discuss plans for speeding up action on important measures. The President is planning to hold a similar conference later with Senate leaders.

During their preliminary study of the situation, House leaders have decided to call up Monday the resolution introduced by Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, appropriating $10,000,000 for relief among German women and children, and dispose of it in one day under a special rule limiting debate. They plan then to take up, in turn, the army bill, the independent office appropriation bill, the Johnson immigration measure and the other supply bills. Votes before adjournment of the session on a child labor amendment to the Constitution and also on the amendment already approved by the Senate advancing the date for inauguration of Presidents and convening Congresses also are contemplated.

President Coolidge, among other subjects, is expected to emphasize at tonight's conference his desire, shared by the House leaders, that Congress complete its work in ample time to adjourn before the June conventions. His guests will include Speaker Gillett, Representative Longworth, the party floor leader; Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee, Chairman Madden of the Appropriations Committee, and members of the Republican Steering Committee.

surance men had told the Cardinals it was impossible to secure such an inclusive policy as the Browns sought. Swarts indignantly denied that Hocker's assumption was correct.

Hocker then pointed out that the insurance carried by the Cardinals in favor of the Browns was the same as that carried by the majority of major league clubs. Swarts said he did not know as to that. He was interested only in this particular policy.

The Cardinals first carried insurance of $100,000 for any single accident involving any number of persons with a limit of $10,000 protection in any one case. Later this was increased as to individuals to $20,000 and later to $100,000.

Breadon and Mason testified yesterday as to the facts leading up to the notice of cancellation. Breadon said that he had attempted to look for another site for a baseball field "because relations with Mr. Ball are not the nicest I have enjoyed." He said the prohibitive costs of labor and materials made such a step inadvisable at this time.

Breadon and Ball Converse.

For the first time since the trial started Ball and Breadon, heads of the two clubs, had a conversation today, and that not a very friendly one.

Breadon and a reporter were discussing the case when Ball walked up and said:

"Say, what's this I hear about you saying I'm not giving you a square deal in this case?" "Well, I don't think you are, Mr. Ball," Breadon replied.

"This is a business proposition and not a personal matter of sportsmanship," Ball rejoined. "I still think there's ground for fairness in it," Breadon said in conclusion.

Argument Among Attorneys.

In an argument among attorneys for both sides regarding the Cardinals' lease, Attorney Hocker said the lease stated the Cardinals were to have the benefit without extra expense of any improvements made during the term of the lease. He said the lease was executed when the Cardinals had their own park, and added: "Now they have us in a box. We must either come to the captain's office or submit to the captain's will." He asked the court for a liberal, non-technical interpretation of the lease.

Attorney Rassieur for the Browns asked the court to interpret the lease "closely.' The only desire of the Browns in the matter is to have the Cardinals bear a fair share of improvements which are to be made in the interests of the St. Louis public, he said.

The case will probably be taken under advisement by Judge Frey late today.

SNOW CONTINUES TO DELAY TRAFFIC

Motor Vehicles Find Difficult Going After 8-Inch Fall Yesterday.

Outdoor objects of all sorts today were outlined or coated with white and everywhere formed gay reminders of the eight-inch snowfall of yesterday, which came as winter's defiance to the advent of spring.

There was nothing gay, however, about the big piles of grimy snow that lay in the streets, impeding traffic. Thirty United Railways snow sweepers cleared paths yesterday along car tracks, shoving the wet mass to the sides. On the four routes of the People's Motor Bus Co, small plows attached to the front of busses cleaned vehicle paths that were of aid to traffic.

Towards noon today the inevitable melting process began, to the dismay of pedestrians. Downtown, melting snow on office buildings caused showers almost like rain.

Conditions were worse on narrow country roads, where, in most cases, movement of vehicles alone kept paths open. A number of heavy trucks went into ditches in the vicinity of the city as a result.

There was a considerable reduction of the city's milk supply due to a four-foot drift of snow for about a mile, on the concrete National Highway, just west of Troy, Ill., which stalled about 30 large trucks early today. A hundred men with shovels and scrapers were put to work to open the road, which is the main highway to the East. Efforts were made to transfer some of the milk to trains. It was expected tomorrow's supply will be normal. The drift occurred where the road is open to the wind.

There was little interference with railroad traffic and street car schedules were fairly well maintained. Some telephone and telegraph wire trouble was reported because of the heavy snow breaking wires.

It was the heaviest snow of the season here and one of the heaviest in years. Incidentally, there has been more snow this season than for many winters past. Stickiness characterized the downfall yesterday, this explaining why the snow clung so tenaciously to walls, lampposts, trees, automobile tops and fenders, overcoats, street car roofs and other things.

Spring usually starts on March 21, which is today, but, the Weather Bureau explained, leap year brought its beginning yesterday, at 3:20 p. m.

RIB-BREAKING HUSBAND DEFENDS HIS METHOD

Only Way to Get Loose, Testifies John Cochen, and Court Is Satisfied.

It is only natural for a court and its attaches to become a bit indignant with a man who is brought in for trial because he insisted on breaking his wife's ribs, and wasn't satisfied with doing it once but repeated the process every time there was an altercation. Especially if the wife wrote several letters to the Court, complaining of the indignities she suffered.

So when John Cochen of 154W Russell avenue appeared in Police Judge Homer's court yesterday for disturbing his wife's peace he got numerous growls for his salutation.

Wife's Testimony.

Mrs. Agnes Cochen took the witness chair. She was married in September, 1921—to be exact, the last day of September, 1921—and she mused over the date in a manner which might have been interpreted as being remorseful.

Her husband first began breaking her ribs last Christmas, she said. The ribs mended and became well. He at least allowed them to get well—this time. And then on March 2—well, he broke them again. How many did she mean by them? Mrs. Cochen said she meant "one" by "them." And four days later, bandaged as she was, he started in again. All on the same rib.

The workhouse was beckoning to John Cochen.

But then Cochen took the stand. Yes, sir, he had once broken his wife's rib. Perhaps he had again injured it four days later. And he wanted to tell the Judge and everybody else why. In the first place, he hadn't intentionally ever broken anyone's ribs. But his wife had a habit of grabbing him and not letting go, and the only way he found he could get loose from her—and that only after the experience of several struggles—was to shove his elbow against her rib.

Anxious to Get Away.

He wished to inform the Court that he was so anxious to get away from her, that on one occasion he was forced to flee from his home—after elbowing himself from out of her strenuous embrace—and found succor at the home of a neighbor. A sympathetic patrolman went to his home and obtained some clothing he had left behind.

By this time the scowls had melted from the faces of the attaches and everyone else. In their stead were looks of sympathy—and perhaps in some cases, understanding.

And so did John Cochen leave the court a free man.

MAIL TRUCK DRIVER HELD IN MAN'S DEATH

Former City Employe Believed to Have Been Struck by Auto or Street Car.

John Weber, 1511 Hebert street, mail truck driver, is under bond pending an inquest into the death of John Dowd, 60 years old, of 2301A Chouteau avenue, last night, from skull fracture and other injuries, suffered presumably when struck by an automobile or street car.

Weber, denying his truck hit Dowd, said he was driving west on Chouteau at 7:40 p. m., when he noticed what appeared to be an overcoat in the snow at No. 2309. Stopping his truck, he got out and found Dowd, badly injured and unconscious. With the aid of two negroes, Weber carried Dowd into a nearby grocery and from there the man was sent to the city hospital, where he died two hours later without making a statement.

Samuel Wilson, 2619 Papin street, negro, who helped in removing Dowd from the street, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that a negress, Bertha Moore, who works in the West End, screamed as Weber's truck passed and later she said she had seen the truck strike Dowd. The Moore woman, however, told police she did not witness any collision and screamed merely because she saw the man lying in a snow rut in the street.

A few minutes before, Dowd had been sitting on a bread-box at the grocery and it is thought he was struck when he tried to cross the street. Dowd, a former railroad worker and city employe, had been out of work recently, and is not known to have any relatives.

Man, Walking in Street Because of Snow, Injured by Auto.

Price Hill, 62, of 5022 Wells avenue, a bricklayer, was struck by an automobile at Lawton boulevard and Beaumont street last night. He is in city hospital with fractured skull and ribs. Robert W. Newkirk, 41, of 1725 Mississippi avenue, a barber, was struck yesterday when walking in the street car tracks at 8332 North Broadway to avoid the slippery sidewalks. He is in city hospital with a fractured right leg.

Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 121 and the automobile of August Burgstead, 4368A Maryland avenue, collided at the Missouri Pacific tracks and Ecoff avenue. Burgstead was not injured, but his machine was wrecked.

A truck loaded with iron pipe that extended from the rear was backing out of an alley on Newstead between Chouteau and Gibson avenues when Walter F. Kennedy, 31, of 5228A Finkman avenue, drove by in his automobile, not seeing the truck. One of the pipes struck him, fracturing several ribs.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

YOU POOR KID, WHY ARE YOU SO SKINNY?

Don't your mother know that Cod Liver Oil will put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks!

Tell her every druggist has it in sugar-coated tablet form now so that you won't have to take the nasty, fishy-tasting oil that is apt to upset the stomach.

Tell her that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are chock-full of vitamines and are the greatest flesh producers and health builders she can find.

One sickly, thin kid, aged 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

She must ask Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co. or any good druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—60 tablets, 60 cents—as pleasant to take as candy.

ANNEXATION PARTY TICKET IN RICHMOND HEIGHTS

Oliver Hast Indorsed for Mayoralty and Slogan Adopted at Mass Meeting.

Carrying the slogan, "Lift Richmond Heights Out of the Mud," the ticket of the Annexation party of Richmond Heights for the election of April 1 was ratified last night at a rally at the schoolhouse on Bellevue avenue, near Clayton road. The Annexation party candidates are: For Mayor, Oliver Hast; Collector, Robert E. Ries; Marshal, Victor P. Noeth; Police Judge, John F. Maloney; Aldermen — First Ward, Henry J. Recker; Second, long term, M. E. Sweney; short term, Fred Hartmann; Third, H. L. Parsons; Fourth, Walter J. Horn; Fifth, George Wolf; Sixth, long term, John H. Bruggeman; short terms, M. O. Gannaway.

The Annexation party advocates active co-operation with the city of St. Louis for annexation of Richmond Heights to St. Louis, a policy of public improvements and a turnover in public office. The present Mayor, J. M. Jensen, has held office 12 years.

The Jensen party slogan in this election is, "Dam the Torpedoes—Go Ahead."

VENIZELOS SEEKS AID FOR GREEK REFUGEES

Former Premier Says 400,000 Are Destitute and Need American Help.

An appeal of Eleutherios Venizelos, lately Premier of Greece, for aid for destitute refugees in Greece, whose number he estimates at 400,000, has been forwarded to the Post-Dispatch from the headquarters of the Refugee Settlement Commission in Athens.

The statement signed by the former Premier is dated Feb. 25, and is:

There are still in Greece 400,000 refugees who require immediate assistance, if thousands of them are not to perish before spring. They need clothing, heat-giving food and medicines. They are undernourished, and destitute, and suffering from the effects of the severest winter in years.

Deathrate Is High.

In Macedonia especially, where large numbers are concentrated, the suffering is intense and the deathrate high, particularly among women and children who have no male breadwinner, and whose condition is aggravated by malignant malaria, which is widespread. Tuberculosis is also very prevalent, especially among refugees in the concentration camps and public buildings.

The problem which faces Greece has reached colossal dimensions, and in order to be able to face it, we still stand in urgent need of the active sympathy of the outside world, and look to the American public, the ever-generous and noble champion of humanitarian causes, to continue and complete the splendid work American organizations have so readily and efficiently undertaken to bring some measure of relief to so many hundreds of thousands of sufferers driven from hearth and home and thrown upon the slender resources of a war-shattered state.

The Refugee Settlement Commission is precluded by its statutes from devoting any of the sums at its disposal to relief or other charitable purposes. These funds are reserved strictly for the establishment of the refugees on a productive basis. The R. S. C. has, however, an efficient organization throughout Macedonia, and can immediately place food, clothing and medicines where most needed at no extra organization expense.

Origin of Problem.

The need for help for Greek refugees dates from the Smyrna disaster of September, 1922, after which about 1,500,000 human beings were driven from Asia Minor, and entered Greece. Many men were killed, and families were separated.

The Red Cross arrived in October, 1922, and left at the end of last July. Former Premier Venizelos and the Refugee Settlement Commission hold that this withdrawal was premature, and was based on reports which presented the condition of the refugees in a more favorable aspect than, in the light of subsequent facts, appears to have been warranted.

Besides asking that contributions be made to the Refugee Settlement Commission, in Athens, for immediate relief work, M. Venizelos is seeking medical aid to meet the serious malaria situation in Macedonia, where more than one-half the population is afflicted.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ-destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflamation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

AMERICAN SAILORS TO REMAIN IN HONDURAS

Instructions Sent to Commander of Cruiser to Protect Legation and Consulate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—American bluejackets are to remain in Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, until American lives and property are afforded adequate protection by the Honduran authorities.

Instructions to keep a detachment ashore with watchful eye on the American legation and consulate, within whose confines a number of foreigners and Americans have gathered during serious revolutionary disturbances, were forwarded to the commander of the cruiser Milwaukee yesterday by the Navy Department after consultation with the State Department.

Comparative order has been restored in Tegucigalpa, where an American naval landing force, comprising 176 officers and men, is on guard at the American Legation.

Capt. Asserson of the cruiser Milwaukee reported today that the de facto authorities had issued a proclamation notifying the inhabitants of the coming of the American naval force, whose presence at first had been objected to. Asserson said a detachment of 30 men had been sent by Commander Causey, in charge of the naval forces at Tegucigalpa, to the Tropical Radio Telegraph Co.'s plant, located about five kilometers from the capital, and had taken charge of that station to maintain communication between the capital city and the Milwaukee at Amapala.

Dispatches to the Navy Department stated that the landing forces, under Commander L. D. Causey, executive officer of the Milwaukee, were fired upon Wednesday by Government troops while passing through the lines outside the city. The fire was not returned.

The de facto officials apologized to Morales for the incident, and Commander Causey explained that he was satisfied the firing was a "mistake."

REAL FOOT COMFORT HERE AT LAST

ICE-MINT

The New Discovery Ends All Foot Troubles

Don't limp; swear; hump your shoulders nor suffer in silence with painful corns, callouses, bunions or with feet that just naturally tire quickly and hurt you. Just step into any drug store and get a jar of cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and the moment it touches those poor, tired, aching feet you will just sigh with relief. Real foot comfort, quick and sure.

Ice-Mint is a snow-white, creamy preparation that comes from Japan. It is absolutely harmless, yet it stops pain instantly, draws the sting out of painful corns, callouses and bunions, reduces the swelling and makes the feet feel cool, easy and comfortable. You just rub it on like cold cream. Ah! how good your shoes feel and you can dance all night or walk all day and your feet won't hurt a bit. Think of it, only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. It actually makes a pair of tired, swollen, corn-pestered, aching feet just glow with cooling comfort. Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high-heeled shoes and men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Get a jar of Ice-Mint today and give those poor, tired, aching, swollen feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better.

Pimply? Well, Don't Be

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

LORDS HEAR DIVORCE CASE OF MRS. RUSSELL

Barony of Lord Ampthill at Stake in Suit Over Child's Paternity.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 21.—Mrs. Christabel Russell began the last stage of her 20-months' fight for her honor and for the name of her 2-year-old son, when her appeal against the divorce granted to her husband, the Hon. John Russell, heir to Ampthill, opened before the law lords in the House of Lords yesterday.

If she loses the case in this final court of appeales, it means that her baby, Geoffrey Russell, will be a child without a name, and proceedings will then be taken before the House of Lords to prevent his succession to the Ampthill Barony.

In the opening statement, Mrs. Russell's counsel appealed on three grounds: First, that the jury's decision was against the weight of the evidence; second, that the court's charge to the jury contained error; third, that evidence was erroneously admitted by the Judge at the divorce trial. After a technical discussion between counsel and the law lords, the case was adjourned until today.

Mrs. Russell, who was accompanied by her mother, was cheered by some women, who called out "Good luck" and "Hope you win," as she entered the House of Lords. It was noticed that she had let her bobed hair grow since the last trial.

At the first trial, in July, 1922, the jury acquitted two named as co-respondents and disagreed on an unidentified man. After 14 days of trial, in March, 1923, the jury found Mrs. Russell guilty of misconduct with an unidentified man, and this verdict was upheld by the Court of Appeals last July. Replying to her husband's assertion at the trial that he could not have been the father of her child, Mrs. Russell maintained he was accustomed to walking in his sleep and on one such occasion had entered her room.

So far the litigation is estimated to have cost the contestants $150,000.

AUTO CLUB INDORSES ROAD FUND PROPOSAL

Volunteers to Aid in Circulating Petitions for Vote on License Tax.

The Automobile Club of Missouri has given unqualified indorsement to recommendations of the State Highway Department for speeding up the road construction program of the State, it was announced today by Roy F. Britton, president.

As told yesterday, the Highway Commission recommends preparation of an initiative proposal, for submission at the general election next fall, which would increase automobile license fees 50 per cent, tax gasoline used by automobiles 2 cents a gallon, and permit sale of the State road bonds when funds are needed.

The Automobile Club, in a statement authorized by its Board of Governors, volunteers to assist in every way possible in circulation of the initiative petitions and in urging their adoption at the general election.

Signatures Required.

Signatures of 5 per cent of the voters in 11 of the 16 congressional districts are required on the initiative petitions. Britton estimates that about 80,000 signatures will be needed.

The Automobile Club is expected to take charge of the circulation of petitions, using its 300 service stations in all sections of the State and its entire membership in the work. Assistance of other automobile organizations and good road organizations will be sought.

Agitation for submission of the road problem to the voting public began several weeks ago after Gov. Hyde declined to heed the request of the Highway Department that he call a special session of the Legislature now. The commission believes the road program will be seriously hampered unless other sources of revenue for roads is found before 1915. The Governor decided that question could wait until the January, 1925, legislative session.

The statement of the Automobile Club declares "additional revenue is absolutely necessary to speed up the program and finish the entire system in every county in the State. We are sure that a great majority of the automobile owners of the State desire the early completion of the highway system as laid out by the Legislature and the commission, and if a property tax is to be avoided, funds must be provided from special sources, such as an increase in the motor vehicle fees and a gasoline tax."

Matter of Economy.

The statement declares the club's previous opposition to a high license was due to the absence of a definite road plan and competent highway department. Both now exist, it adds, and the speeding up of the road program is urged as a matter of economy to automobile owners.

"The early completion of the State highway system would result in great saving to the motor vehicle owners as it has been demonstrated by actual experience that the cost of operating and maintaining a motor vehicle over good roads is much less than over undeveloped roads," the statement asserts.

Members of the Board of Control who authorized the indorsement of the Highway Commission plan are: Paul Bakewell Jr., Roy F. Britton, Wallace C. Capen, J. T. Caradine, James F. Cook, Warren C. Flynn, E. J. Krause, J. A. Lewis, Russell E. Lortz, George C. Mackay, C. B. Nicholson and Frederick H. Semple, all of St. Louis; George F. Sillers, Maryville; B. T. Clark, Chillicothe; James P. Hinton, Hannibal; Charles Hooper, Joplin; Paul C. Hunt, Jefferson City; W. F. Keyser, Sedalia; Chas. M. Knapp, Rolla, and R. B. Oliver Jr., Cape Girardeau.

Britton and L. Newton Wylder of Kansas City, counsel for the Highway Commission, will arrange conferences within the next week or 10 days for preparation of the amendment to be submitted. These must be printed on the petitions which are circulated for signature.

I. W. W. HELD IN TUNNEL BLAST

Moffat Project, at James Peak Object of Attack.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., March 21.—Officials of the Moffat Tunnel Commission announced today that an unsuccessful attempt was made Sunday to blow up the west portal of the Moffat tunnel, now being built under the Continental Divide. Daniel Sullivan, an alleged I. W. W., was brought to Denver in connection with the incident, officials said.

The Moffat tunnel is being driven through James Peak to shorten the railway mileage between Denver and Salt Lake City.

HITTITES KIN TO MODERNS

Professor Declares Them Related to Teutons and Celts.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Confirmation of the belief that the ancient Hittites were Indo-European is found in the translation of some 200 of their laws by Dr. George A. Barton, professor of Semitics at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Barton said the laws he had translated dated from the fourteenth century B. C., and established with a degree of certitude that the Hittites were blood cousins of the Teutons and the Celts and ancestors of the Greeks and Latins.

ARCHBISHOP HAYES RECEIVED BY POPE

Cardinal - Designate Tells of "Extraordinary Impression" Created by Head of Church.

BY FERDINAND TUOHY,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ROME, March 21.—Cardinal-designate Hayes went to the Vatican last evening for a lengthy private audience with the Pope.

The Pontiff expressed pleasure at being able to honor New York and desired to have the Archbishop convey to Catholics of that city his high appreciation of their fidelity and generosity, especially in contributing to the relief of world distress and to charities in general.

The Archbishop sat opposite me in a little room in the American College here last night recounting "the most extraordinary impression of my life."

The Cardinal designate had received honors worthy of the representative of the greatest city of the new world. Escorted by the picturesque Swiss guards, Archbishop Hayes made his way through what seemed miles of salons, courts, corridors and throne rooms to the papal study.

"Caro Fratella," said the Pope, rising from his chair and coming forward to greet the Archbishop. The latter fell on bended knee to receive the papal blessing, then rose and, at the Pope's command, took an arm chair.

Pope Talks on Politics.

There followed an intimate talk of three-quarters of an hour in which the Pope skipped from politics in New York to mountain climbing. On being told there are mountains near New York, he smiled sadly as one who missed his only pastime.

"I left the Vatican with the most extraordinary impression of my life," Archbishop Hayes said. "From many I had heard of the magnetic personality of the Pope, but I perceived the full force of this statement in my contact with this extraordinary man of God. I know now why there is little wonder he has appealed so strongly to the intellectual world as he has to the plain people.

"This is my first impression which I give you, fresh from the effect of his presence.

"Leader for the World."

"The Pontiff impressed me as loving all humanity with the heart of a great man sanctified and consecrated by his exalted and holy office. Surely he is a leader for the world in the solution of its unsolved and apparently unsolvable problems from a human point of view. Pope Piux XI stands out as the symbol of salvation for human society.

"His care naturally first of all is for his own people as the great white shepherd of Christendom. While attending his own flocks he does not forget; he is greatly concerned with the needs of all mankind, irrespective of race or religion.

"When America was mentioned his face beamed with delight as he evidently thought of that great republic of the West—mighty land of promise and achievement, which has served humanity in the past by opening its doors to all peoples and which again took an unselfish and noble part in the World War, later to sheath the sword and become the almoner of the world.

"My prayer is that Pope Piuc XN may be spared many years to guide the Catholic Church and continue to be a source of wisdom and benediction for the entire human race.

At the invitation of the Pope, Archbishop Hayes gave a detailed sketch of the religious, social and political conditions in the territory of which he is the supreme prelate.

Pius XI, who is a keen follower of politics, was interested in the outcome of the presidential election and even more so in the activities of the anti-Catholic societies in the United States.

Archbishop Hayes reported the latter are not making serious inroads, being "more spectacular than real." The activities of the Methodists, which have worried the pontiff somewhat here locally, also were reviewed.

Protests From Spain.

A regrettable touch has been added to the elevation of the American prelates by the violent objections from high Spanish quarters which are reaching the Pontiff through the former Secretary of State, Cardinal Merry del Val. The Spaniards say King Alfonso, on his recent visit to Rome, was promised that the next scarlet birettas would go to South Americans.

Cardinal-Designate Mundelein of Chicago, whose stay at the Palace Hotel instead of at Cardinal von Rossum's College for the Propagation of the Faith, where he formerly studied, has caused some comment, passed an uneventful day. Yesterday he visited the Colosseum and was caught by the camera man dispensing 5 lira notes to children.

The two American prelates are to be elevated to the Cardinalate at a secret consistory Monday.

The allocution being prepared by Pope Pius for the coming consistory will treat, among other things, of the question of de jure recognition of soviet Russia, says the Tribuna.

Reference also will be made to the recent settlement with France authorizing the diocesan associations.

FORMER CLOAK DEALERS ON TRIAL AS EMBEZZLERS

Charge Against Charles Kurlander and Henry Harfield Brought by Stockholders in Firm.

$40,000 WORTH OF BONDS AT ISSUE

Alleged to Have Disappeared After the Concern Had Been Placed in Hands of Receiver.

Charles Kurlander and Henry Harfield—in suits and cloaks, formerly at 412 North Twelfth boulevard—are in court today to explain what happened to $40,000 worth of Liberty bonds, which, as testified yesterday, disappeared almost overnight from the ledger of Kurlander Bros. & Harfield.

They have sat through the trial thus far with their eyes focused on the witness stand, their backs stiff and their hands clutching their knees. Only twice has Harfield displayed emotion; once when his brother-in-law, Ben Lipstadt, testified against him, and once when his counsel was endeavoring to show the jury how much money Kurlander and Harfield lost in suits and cloaks. As for Kurlander—he apparently never gets excited.

Nature of the Charge.

The charge is embezzlement, and it rests upon this: That an expert accountant found the firm's ledger carrying Liberty bonds at $41,707.06 in December, 1921, and Liberty bonds at $1707.06 in January, 1922. This accountant, J. H Pollak, told the jury yesterday it looked to him as if somebody had just subtracted $40,000 from the company's assets and let it go at that.

In support of Pollak's testimony the State introduced a page alleged to have been torn from the ledger and dropped behind a safe, where it was found by examiners for the receiver. The page was dated Dec. 31, 1921, and showed a bond account of $41,707.06. The State hopes to prove that this page was torn out under orders from the defendants and another page inserted with the bond account shown at $1707.06.

Stockholders Not Satisfied.

The stockholders, Ben Lipstadt in particular, would not let it go at that and filed application for a receivership last fall, which was granted, and then brought criminal prosecution.

Lipstadt was obliged to admit under cross-examination that he had sold his common stock in the company to Harfield for 200 per cent profit.

"When did you begin to complain?" he was asked.

"When the dividends stopped, of course," was the reply.

Anxious About His $14,000.

The witness went on to describe how he had become anxious about his $14,000 invested in preferred stock and had gone to see Harfield.

"I reminded him that he had said it was a good investment and that he ought to protect me," Lipstadt added.

At this point Harfield sprang to his feet and rushed over to Edward Foristel, his attorney, who was examining the witness. They conferred, and presently Foristel asked:

"Isn't is true, Mr. Lipstadt, that you demanded payment in full for your preferred stock of Mr. Harfield and threatened criminal action unless he paid you?"

"No, it is not."

"It's true that you are his brother-in-law?"

Defendants Glare at Witness.

The evident reluctance with which the witness admitted this apparently enraged Harfield. He

SAYS HUSBAND HEAPED ROSES ON DOG'S COFFIN

Mrs. Clara Sommerhauser, in Divorce Petition, Describes Animal's Burial.

The burial of a dog, in a box covered with American beauty roses, is mentioned among the causes of complaint made by Mrs. Clara Sommerhauser in her divorce suit against Joseph Sommerhauser of 4231A College avenue, filed yesterday. Sommerhauser is president of the Spuck Iron Co., Fourteenth and Branch streets.

Mrs. Sommerhauser, after naming and other alleged indignities, tells about the dog, which, she says, her husband reared from a pup, half Airedale and half wolf-hound, and for which, she declares, he cared more than he did for her. She relates that Sommerhauser would take the dog to his place of business with him daily, in his automobile, and that on their return he would say to the dog, "Now we'll go to see the old devil." Mrs. Sommerhauser suspected that this was a reference to her.

Most of Sommerhauser's conversation about the house, she says, was about the dog. She says her husband usually kept the dog in his bedroom at night.

The dog was killed accidentally Feb. 22 last, the wife states, and she says Sommerhause placed the roses on the burial box, and that he was heard to remark that some people did not deserve as much. She took this, also, as a personal reference.

Sommerhauser has been married twice before, his wife says, and lost his first wife by death and his second by divorce. She says his salary is $800 a month, and that they are stil living in the same dwelling, an upper flat. She asks an alimony award.

Wolfe Lindenfeld Held.

WARSAW, March 21.—Wolfe Lindenfeld, who was arrested here in 1921 in connection with the Wall street explosion mystery, but returned from the United States when his story proved false, was charged with blackmail alleged to have been committed in Poland.

glared at Lipstadt and turned to Kurlander and then they both glared at Lipstadt.

"We ask that question and answer be stricken out as irrelevant, incompetent and not tending to prove or disprove any issues in this case," objected Prosecutor Manning.

"It establishes the point that the witness is prejudiced," said Foristel, and Judge Ittner agreed with him.

During a recess Harfield showed a Post-Dispatch reporter a letter purported to have been written by Lipstadt to him in which this line appeared:

"I would rather have you tell me the naked truth, Henry, than be led to hope through rosy future promises and nicely worded theories."

Harfield's Reply to Letter.

To this letter Harfield had replied, saying that Brother Ben had insulted him and that while he felt morally obligated for the stock Lipstadt had purchased in Kurlander Brothers & Harfield, he could not bring himself to feel financially responsible at this time.

Another disgruntled stockholder who testified was Harry Burger, a mechanical engineer employed by the city, who had put $6000 into the firm when it was organized in 1917. He also had been satisfied as long as the dividends rolled in, but when they stopped he tried to get Harfield or one of the Kurlanders to tell him why. There are two Kurlanders—Charles and Sol—but Sol is not a defendant in the present action.

Contentions of the Defense.

Both Lipstadt and Burger said they had been paid dividends for 1920 in Liberty Bonds. The defense intends to establish that $30,000 of the Liberty Bond account was distributed in dividends, and that the other $10,000 was paid to employes as salary. Although the payment of dividends with assets would seem to indicate gross mismanagement, Attorney Foristel continually reminded the jury yesterday that Kurlander and Harfield are not defending themselves against such an irregularity, but against the charge of embezzlement.

Through cross-examination the defense thus far has sought to show that the Kurlander-Harfield concern was heavily involved in 1922 and 1923 and that the two defendants personally assumed $200,000 of the firm's debts and surrendered personal property in part settlement.

WORLD FLIGHT PLANES FITTED FOR SEA TRIP

Four Army Aviators Rest in Seattle Before Starting Hazardous Journey.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 21.—To prepare themselves for the ordeal ahead, the four Army airmen attempting to circle the globe will rest for the next several days, even abstaining from public functions and entertainments, Maj. Frederick L. Martin, commander of the flight, said today. Besides Maj. Martin, the flyers who arrived here yesterday from Vancouver Barracks, Wash., are Lieuts. Lowell H. Smith, Leigh H. Wade and Erik H. Nelson.

Meanwhile, workmen are busy at Sand Point Aviation Field converting the big air cruisers into seaplanes. Test flights probably will be held in a few days.

After leaving Vancouver Barracks yesterday the squadron ran into great columns of clouds, Maj. Martin said.

"The clouds lay in the hilltops and one never could tell whether he would crash into some hill that was a trifle higher than the rest," he asserted. "We spiraled around in a little hole in the clouds and climbed to 4500 feet. Even there we found columns of clouds before us and had to rise higher."

Two stuffed cloth monkeys were presented to the birdman as good luck for the hazardous air trip when they left Santa Monica, Cal.

"If, after the flight, the monkeys are safely delivered to their California owners, the aviators will be paid $50 each for the trophies," declared Maj. Martin. "The owners expect to raffle the pair, the money to be donated to charity. Another unique gift was presented by a Los Angeles man. It was a $5 bill with his name written on it. He said he would also pay $50 for its safe return. A chap in Chicago gave me a little bronze image that he said he had carried for good luck. After I took it, I noticed good luck had not prevented the fellow from losing one eye."

On the 4168-mile journey from the United States to Japan, the machines are not expected to touch land. They are to lie tied to big mooring buoys that are being installed for them, at Prince Rupert, in British Columbia; at Sitka, the old Alaskan capital; at Cordova, copper port of the North; at Seward, ocean terminus of the Government's new Alaska railroad; and at Chignik, lone fish canning station; on the mainland of Alaska and at Dutch Harbor at Nazan and at Chicagoff, in the Aleutian Islands.

Up to and including Dutch Harbor, radio communication with Washington, D. C., exists at all these points, or has been temporarily provided for during the flight.

"NOT A PETTY THIEF OR GRAFTER," DOHENY ASSERTS

Oil Magnate Grows Wrathy at Question About Obtaining Harbor Lease at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 21.—Grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities connected with the leasing of municipally owned harbor land to the Doheny interests was quiescent today pending resumption of the harbor investigation at the county investigating body's next meeting, Tuesday.

At yesterday's session E. L. Doheny, mentioned frequently in connection with the Senate oil investigation, was a witness. Although declining to reveal what he had told the grand jury concerning the 30-year harbor lease under inquiry or about the ocean voyage taken on his private yacht by the president of the Harbor Commission just prior to the granting of the lease, Doheny later in the day granted a newspaper interview in which he denied emphatically that the lease was obtained in any other than "the regular way."

He denied flatly that the trip Edgar McKee, recently dismissed president of the Los Angeles Harbor Board, took on his yacht had anything to do with the lease, and when asked pointblank if any gratuity had been offered or solicited in connection with the transaction, leaped to his feet and shouted:

"I am not a petty thief or grafter. That's an insult."

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

EX-PREMIER HUGHES HERE FOR ADDRESS

Australia's Envoy at Peace Conference to Speak at City Club Tonight.

A small, dapper man, with a bristly gray moustache, and wearing a smart, gray fedora hat, a black chinchilla collared overcoat, and carrying a slender black walking stick, stepped from a train arriving at Union Station from Dallas, Tex., at noon today and was greeted by a delegation of City Club officials and their wives.

He was William Morris Hughes, P. C., recent prime minister of Australia and that nation's representative at the Versailles peace conference, who, as a part of an American lecture tour, will be heard in an address at the City Club tonight.

Accompanying the visitor was his wife. While posing for newspaper photographers, the former Prime Minister chatted briefly about his tour, which he said was aimed in part to tell Americans about Australia, though the chief aim is to discuss world problems before American audiences. He arrived in Seattle March 2, and his tour so far has included the coast cities and Texas. He expects to be in this country about three months, he said.

The delegation at the station was headed by George B. Logan, president of the City Club, and included H. J. Pettingill, J. Lionberger Davis, Frank P. Crunden, W. Palmer Clarkson, T. P. Chapman and their wives. The visitors were escorted to Hotel Statler for a luncheon.

There will be tendered a dinner at the City Club at 7 p. m. tonight, and the address will be delivered in the City Club auditorium at 8:30. The speaker's subject will be "Sidelights on the Peace Conference." Of him Lloyd George has said: "No speeches of modern times have made such a deep impression as those delivered by Mr. Hughes during and since the war."

SUES FOR COMMISSIONS ON EIGHT AUTOS SOLD TO STATE

Clarence L. Bryant Asks for $2617 in Action Against Brockman Company.

Suit for $2617 was filed against the De Luxe Automobile Co., 3128 Locust boulevard, in Circuit Court today, by Clarence L. Bryant, who alleges that this sum is due him for commissions he ought to have had for sale of eight cars by the company to State departments at Jefferson City. He alleges that he had an exclusive contract for sale of the company's cars in Cole County, but that the cars in question were sold by the company direct, thus depriving him of commissions.

President Brockman of the Police Board, an appointee of the Governor, is head of the De Luxe Automobile Co. He said that the suit was a friendly one, the result of a misunderstanding, but that it had been the arrangements that Bryan was not to participate in sale of cars to the State because the sales were to be made at wholesale rates.

U. R. DENIED PERMISSION TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

Request of Receiver Was to Purchase 100 Cars and to Double Track St. Charles Line.

Application of the receiver for the United Railways, for permission to purchase 100 street cars of the latest type and to lay double tracks between Wellston and St. Charles, was denied yesterday by Federal Judge Faris.

The court acted on the recommendation of former Supreme Court Judge Fred L. Williams, who heard the application as special master last week. Judge Williams' recommendation set forth that the cost of the new cars would exceed $1,000,000, and the double-tracking an additional $15,000, and would constitute permanent improvements instead of repairs. The recommendation for denial stated that the receiver had not sufficient funds to meet such an expenditure.

Is There a Radical Political Revolt in the Northwest?

By CHARLES G. ROSS

"We Elect Servants, Not Masters, If They Fail Us Out They Go," Says Farmer-Labor Leader

Man Whom Business Chiefs Threatened to "Run Out of State" a While Ago, but Who Now Dominates Its Politics, Tells of Organization Work.

This is the fifth article in the series by Charles G. Ross, chief Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, who is investigating political conditions in the radical farm states of the Northwest. These states ordinarily are bulwarks of conservative Republicanism, but are said to be giving up their old political allegiance because of dissatisfaction with Congress' failure to pass suitable farm relief legislation. According to reports reaching Washington, they are turning to the leadership of La Follette and the group of radicals that hold the balance of power in Congress.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 21.—"We picked up Shipstead and Magnus Johnson and put them in the Senate. We made them. They don't boss us; we boss them. They are our servants. If they fail us, out they go."

Thus, in explosive sentences, William Mahoney, directing genius of the Farmer-Labor movement, set out a part of the philosophy of the coalition that has completely changed the political complexion of Minnesota.

Mahoney is a political leader of a new type. I found him at work writing "heads" for his labor paper, the Farmer-Labor Advocate, of St. Paul. He studied law at Nashville and Indianapolis but has spent most of his life as a printer. After much wandering he settled down in St. Paul in 1905 and soon became an active figure in the vigorous labor movement of the Northwest. In 1920 he ran for Mayor and lost by 2000 votes. He also, as a result, lost his job as superintendent of a large printing plant. The business interests of St. Paul, he says, declared they would run him out of town. He replied that we would stick.

He did stick. He stuck to such good purpose that he is now, though he would disown that title, the political "boss" of Minnesota. The climax of his long fight for political solidarity of the workers was reached last week when he succeeded in amalgamating the farmers "and the industrial workers" organizations into a close-knit body, called the Farmer-Labor Federation. He was elected chairman. The federation is the holding corporation, so to speak, of the Farmer-Labor party, which is the federation's weapon for direct political action.

A Continuous Constructive Plan.

Party campaign committees come and go, but the Farmer-Labor plan, as explained by Mahoney, insures a permanent organization and the building up of a continuing constructive program.

Mahoney is 56 years old and has white hair. But in his blue eyes is the fire of youthful enthusiasm. The whole history of the Farmer-Labor movement is at his tongues end.

"La Follette," he said, "will run as a third party candidate and will sweep the State. He will help to carry the whole Farmer-Labor State ticket to victory. Magnus Johnson will probably be again nominated for the Senate. There is some opposition to him for the nomination, but his proved honesty, sincerity and loyalty are in his favor. He represents not only Minnesota in the Senate, but all the working people of the United States. Any man can go to room 125, Senate Office Building, and tell Magnus Johnson his troubles, without being asked where he comes from and what influences are behind him."

Mahoney confirmed the impression that the Northwestern Farmer-Labor revolt from Republicanism grew out of the conviction of the masses of the people, forced upon them by economic distress, that they could only improve their lot by electing to office men from their own ranks.

"We Elect Servants, Not Masters."

"Yes," he said; "that's it. And the men we elect are our servants, not our masters. We have 350,000 to 400,000 Farmer-Labor voters in this State who are keeping an eye on our Senators."

Mahoney was one of those who brought about the calls for a progressive national convention to be held in St. Paul or Minneapolis on June 17. This will be between the Republican and the Democratic conventions. Some wanted the meeting held after both the old party conventions, but Mahoney objected. He feared that weak-fibered progressives might yield to the expedient of indorsing the Democratic nominee, if he happened to be labeled as a progressive.

"What would we gain by indorsing a Democrat?" he snapped. "How would we know what influences controlled him?"

In building the Farmer-Labor movement to its present form Mahoney has had to combat and overcome two ideas. One was the Townley Nonpartisan League idea of seeking to capture existing political machinery. The other was the Gompers idea of choosing between the candidates of the old parties. Mahoney wants direct political action, on the British Labor model.

Welding Discontented Groups Into One.

In the progressive convention, however, there will be no effort to form a national third party. It will be, rather, a movement to secure the assent of progressive and nonconformist groups to a few fundamental planks on which all can stand together. Those that Mahoney has in mind are:

> Government ownership of the railways; public control of national resources, such as coal, iron, ore and timber; control of money through Government and co-operative banks; restoration of constitutional civil liberties; limitation of the power of the Supreme Court to annul acts of Congress.

La Follette, according to Mahoney, was the only man talked about for the leadership of the conference which issued the call and is sure to receive the unanimous indorsement of the convention.

"We hope," said Mahoney, "that 10,000 people will come to Minnesota and join in this national progressive movement."

Though a trades unionist, directly allied with the labor wing of the Farmer-Labor organization, Mahoney gives full credit to the farmers for originating the revolt in the Northwest. The Farmer-Labor party had its inspiration in the successes of A. C. Townley with the Nonpartisan League in North Dakota. In 1916 the Nonpartisan League invaded Minnesota, but it soon found that conditions here are radically different from those in North Dakota. In that State there is virtually only one industry—agriculture—and the people are homogeneous, being largely of Scandinavian extraction. Minnesota, on the other hand, is a melting pot of several nationalities, and it has about the same number of industrial workers as farmers.

As an agrarian movement purely, the Nonpartisan League did not cut much figure in Minnesota.

Its sponsors soon realized that it needed the co-operation of the industrialists, and they, on their part, saw that they could get nowhere without the farmers.

How Farmer-Labor Party Grew.

In 1918, representatives of the league and of the labor unions met together at the Labor Temple in St. Paul and decided upon joint political action. This was the birth of the Farmer-Labor party. The date was Aug. 25—a historical date, says Mahoney, in American political history. Three State candidates were placed on the ballot by petition under the designation of Farmer-Labor candidates.

"There was some opposition," said Mahoney, "to the choice of this name, but it was pointed out that this was a movement of the farmers and workers, and the best thing to do was to adopt a name that would carry its own economic significance. Experience has demonstrated the wisdom of this choice."

The Farmer-Labor party was defeated, but it became the second party in the State.

"We have disorganized the Republican party in this State," said Mahoney, "and killed the Democratic."

But the story is not one of unbroken success. The union of farmers with labor was a new idea and it took some time to get the two firmly welded together into an independent political organization. Mahoney worked indefatigably to this end. Townley proposed a "balance of power" plan; in effect the American Federation of Labor idea of selecting candidates from among those named in the primaries of all the parties. Its adoption, Mahoney said, would spell the downfall of the Farmer-Labor movement.

Business Liberalists Join Party.

The question was fought out in separate conventions of the farmers and industrialists in 1922. The labor convention was unanimous for an independent Farmer-Labor ticket, while the farmers were di-

GARDNER MEN FAIL TO REVIVE HIS CANDIDACY

Principal Difficulty Is That Former Governor Quit Under Fire From Senator Reed.

HEADWAY MADE IN ONLY FEW COUNTIES

Many Democrats Originally for Him Refuse to Take Part in Resurrection Ceremonies.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Former Gov. Gardner's resurrected campaign for Missouri's support for the Democratic nomination for the presidency seems not to be doing any better than might have been expected, a situation contributing to the general belief that no candidate will have an instructed delegation from Missouri.

Herculean attempts have been made by several of the former Governor's appointees and admirers to revive the Gardner candidacy since the county conventions repudiated Senator Reed and eliminated William G. McAdoo, in so far as Missouri is concerned, but they have gained no headway except in a few counties where Gardner men were in a position to dictate convention action.

Frightened Out by Reed.

Three months ago there was little doubt that Gardner could have controlled the situation to the extent of obtaining instructions from the State convention, but, frightened by an outburst of scornful denunciation from Reed, the former Governor publicly abandoned his candidacy and urged support of McAdoo. When Reed and McAdoo failed in the county conventions the Gardner camp followers thought they saw the opportunity to get him back into the game.

In New Madrid and possibly one or two other counties the delegates to the State Convention were instructed for Gardner, but it is not improbable that the members of the county convention were actuated by the same motive that will move many thousands of voters next fall to vote the Socialist ticket or a third party ticket, not because they favor the Socialist or third party platforms, but because they want to register their dissatisfaction with both the old parties. According to some information, there was evidence that the county conventions referred to wanted to demonstrate their opposition to both Reed and McAdoo and thought the best way to do it was to indorse Gardner.

The Principal Difficulty.

The principal difficulty with the revival of Gardner's candidacy has been the fact that he quit under fire from Reed, strengthening the impression, caused by his periods of indecision in his campaign for Governor, that he was "not a fighter."

Jerry B. Burks of Farmington, a member of the Constitutional Convention, is among those who refuse to have a part in the resurrection ceremonies, advocating the selection of an uninstructed delegation at the Springfield convention.

"I certainly do not look with favor on the present movement in some quarters to indorse Former Governor Gardner," he said today. "At one time, only recently, there was a desire on the part of the Democrats to extend him this high honor. He then was largely satisfactory to all elements. He was willing to accept the honor and if he had remained steadfast he would have received the unanimous indorsement of the Democracy of the State without opposition.

"Fired Blank Cartridge."

"But Senator Reed rode into our State at this particular time, booted and spurred, and fired a blank cartridge at the Governor, who thereupon 'took to the woods.' He moved rapidly and did not stop until he reached Palm Beach or some other beach, and there remained until the fight was over.

"The result was that we were compelled to administer on the Senator unaided. If the Governor had possessed the necessary backbone and had stood his ground, we would have been relieved of the embarrassing situation which confronted us. He did not do it. He quit us and we should now quit him."

So far few of the party leaders have become interested in Gardner. A few of them, retaining faint hopes that McAdoo will grow in strength, are remaining in advocacy of McAdoo instructions. A few "last ditchers" are professing to retain some hope for Reed, but the big bulk of the party leaders are advocating an uninstructed delegation, and doubtless that will be the outcome of the convention.

TAFT, IN TRIBUTE TO ELIOT, SPEAKS ON IMPORTANCE OF NONPARTISAN LEADERSHIP

Chief Justice Refers to the Former Head of Harvard University as "Most Distinguished of Our Elder Statesmen."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 21.—Chief Justice Taft, in his address here yesterday at the celebration of the ninetieth birthday of Dr. Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, said:

"The President of the United States has asked me to bear his cordial felicitations to Dr. Eliot upon the celebration of his ninetieth birthday. The President feels great regret that he cannot be here in person to take part in this expression of love, gratitude and respect for one whose long life has been full of constant and eminent usefulness in promoting the welfare of his fellowmen.

"The most ambitious and the most difficult task that man has attempted is successful self-government. When people are herded as cattle under the rule of the strongest, the problem is a simple one of force and discipline. The few are intelligent and controlling and are united to keep the many under their will. But when government is based on the electoral equality of all among a people who vary much in conditions of bodily comfort and estate, in natural capacity, in trained intelligence, in self-restraint, in a sense of justice, and in the interest of each in the welfare of all, it is not easy safely to interpret the popular will into effective action, and at the same time secure the just rights of the minority.

Independence Is Vital.

"Experience has proved that parties are indispensable in working out this problem, and the fewer parties there are, the greater the chance of efficient action toward a desired end. But if the party convention and the party leaders are to be the only exponents of political opinion, party expediency will shrivel all reforms and progress will cease.

"In no kind of government, therefore, is independent and courageous nonpartisan leadership in economic, social and political discussion so vital as in a democracy. Such leadership does not count numbers in its following. It does not trim its sails to catch the wind of popular acclaim. Its concern is with its facts, its logic, its clearness of vision, its own disinterestedness, its freedom from prejudice, its concern for the common welfare, its power of reasoned statement, its real prophetic faculty.

"With these, it seeks no census, convention or primary. It tells the truth to the electors, however unpalatable. It abides the slowly waking but clarified convictions of the people taught by hard experience; and achieves a real advance by the occasional overthrow of party rule. It may not always be right. It may underestimate practical objections to measures it urges; but it promotes discussion on a plan of unselfish patriotic endeavor and offers to a great electorate groping for the welfare of the State, a high standard of judgment and a freedom from the self-seeking of groups.

"Dr. Eliot is a leader and prophet of the people in this true sense. His primacy in all educational reform, his interest in adjusting the equities of the laborer and the capitalist, and the useful candor in which he points out the shortcomings of each, his abiding enthusiasm for the promotion of municipal governments in which the welfare of the citizen is most intimately bound up, his yearning for the enlargement of the lungs of congested cities in parks and playgrounds, his activity in the husbanding and preservation of the national resources, his patient, persistent and consistent advocacy of the reform of the civil service, his earnest labor in the cause of international peace, have prompted his lay sermons and have made men hearken to him.

Lover of Democracy.

"He is an individualist. He accepts only what approves itself to him. No mass inclination carries him to a conclusion. He loves liberty and democracy. He loyally yields to the majority when ordered liberty requires such yielding; but he never ceases to advocate a change in the popular verdict, should he deem it unjust. His training in the traditions and freedom of discussion in the town meeting has followed him. His New England conscience is as erect, as powerful and as unbending as his stature. His love of religious liberty and resentment at intolerance are part of his being and sensitive to the slightest alarm. Liberal beyond the sympathy of many, in an absence of creed, he would cherish religion as the greatest agency in the advance of mankind."

"A healthy popular government must always have its ultimate strength in public opinion. Those who lead it outside of parties are rarely called to official station. Party organization and party fealty make them ineligible. They have no personal political ambition and do not seek the suffrage of the people. Yet they are at times, in crises of our country's life, the ultimate arbiters.

"On behalf of the American people I tender to Dr. Eliot their profound congratulations on his long life of usefulness and honor, and their deep and grateful appreciation of the work that he has done for them as their untitled champion for more than half a century. To him, as the most distinguished, and most honored of our elder statesmen, may there come many more years of happy life in the consciousness of arduous duty done."

$1,250,000 Gifts to University.

Bishop William Lawrence, of Boston, announced that friends of Eliot had made gifts amounting to $1,250,000 for the better support of certain departments of the university, the gifts being, Bishop Lawrence said, "in recognition of your illustrious life."

Judge Edward T. Sanford, of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the Harvard Alumni Association, announced the creation of the association of the "Charles William Eliot book fund" to buy for the Harvard University library books in such fields as President Eliot shall designate.

The greetings of the people of Canada were expressed through a letter from Premier W. L. MacKenzie of Canada.

In responding to the many tributes to his life and qualities, Dr. Eliot selected "Joy in Work" as the source of a very large part of his life.

"Consider now the sources of my career as a teacher," he said. "The sources were in the times, in that wonderful period of human history in which my whole career was laid. When I was going on as a teacher in Harvard, the great prophets and exponents of experimental science were taking possession of that great field. Think how the philosophies of the field were preaching attention to the individual—preaching the immense variety of human nature."

Prophets of His Time.

Among the prophets of his time, Dr. Eliot named James Russell Lowell, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"All that came when I was a teacher in Harvard, and out of the times, the extraordinary period, have come the ideals and the lessons which I have pursued all through my activity," he continued. "Then as the years went by and the period of combat and persistent effort against opposition passed and the new structure of Harvard University began to take effect, think how it gave me the opportunity to see where modern education was going and where it ought to go. Now and then I could help their labors, especially in the medical faculty, but it was the strength of the Harvard faculties themselves which filled me with strength and what is called leadership. I gave expression to their hopes, aspirations and devotions and great was the privilege of so doing. You must therefore attribute the success which I have been privileged to win to the very fortunate circumstances of my life, to the extraordinary leadership of philosophers and scientists of my time."

Repeating the words of his inaugural address in 1869, which conclude "the future of the university will not be unworthy of its past," Eliot said:

Urges Service to Country.

"How the young Harvard men have demonstrated in the World War that that last line is true. But let me finally emphasize the beauty of Harvard men, of all educated men, to serve their country in peace as well as in war. I call upon the young Harvard graduates and by and by I will call on the undergraduates to serve their country with devotion and sacrifice in peace as well as in war."

Eliot exhorted the students to serve their country. "Serve her by sacrificing, money for example, high professional earnings," he said, "in order to take public office, elective or appointive * * * Look for the means, the chance, the opportunity to serve democratic government. It is in democracy that the hope of the world lies."

Later in his address, he said:

"Do not put off marriage too much. Do not wait till you think you can offer the girl you want to marry all the luxuries and privileges to which in her father's home she has been accustomed. When you have made up your mind, give the girl a chance to tell hers."

Kemalists Lose in Party Elections.

Mirrors —of— Washington

A report day by day of what politicians of the National Capital are talking about.

By CLINTON W. GILBERT

(Mr. Gilbert is the author of a book called "The Mirrors of Washington," a humorous study of political leaders that caused widespread interest when it was published recently.)

(Copyright, 1924.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.

"WILLIAM J. BURNS!" calls out the voice of the chairman, presiding over the Teapot Dome inquiry, and a medium-sized, thick-set, reddish-brown man takes the chair. He does it like a great man, a great man whose virtues are not for the moment being fully recognized. Senator Walsh asks him a question, and he replies in a loud, determined voice. The note of it is something between defiance and bullying. He is evidently going to "show" the committee something.

You might close your eyes and imagine that you were in a New York City police court where an incredulous magistrate was trying by cross-examination to confirm his suspicion that the precinct detective on the stand was trying to frame some girl from the streets. Not even a million dollars' worth of advertising has made Burns anything more than the typical "bull." A great man, who probably once pounded the pavement and, for all I could see would be pounding the pavement still except for that sense of being a great man.

Senator Walsh asks a few more questions. Burns answers in his "I'll-show-'em" manner. He tells his version of the famous "Mary" code message which he had caused to be sent to McLean in Florida. His yarn strikes the crowd as fantastic and the whole committee room burst out with laughter. Burns' thick neck grows purple with anger. A million dollars' worth of advertising is being laughed at. The great man may be "showing" the committee, but he has not reckoned with the crowd.

You have seen a knot of people on the sidewalk enjoying a policeman's discomfiture. He swings his club and says angrily, "G'wan, youse!" Shut your eyes and you can imagine Burns swinging his club at the laughing audience. The purple blood in Burns' neck says as loudly as it can, "G'wan, youse!" Nothing worse happens than Chairman Lenroot's "The committee room will be cleared if the audience interrupts."

The committee divides into two unequal halves. From the left end of the table come all the questions. There sits Mr. Walsh, and when Mr. Walsh wishes to ask a question everyone gives way to him. By common consent, it is his inquiry. Mr. Dill, the new Senator from Washington, always questions the witness as if he were one of his best friends. He supplements Mr. Walsh, intelligently. Mr. Adams, a little baldheaded man with very bright eyes, asks fewer but sharper questions—a man would be worth watching if he were more self-confident and aggressive.

From the right, or Republican, end of the table courses silence. Mr. Lenroot, who until a few days ago was chairman, would wring his hands as though he wished he were somewhere else. Mr. Lenroot, the chairman, appeared unhappy. As a matter of principle, he asked three questions about some matter of each witness. Mr. Ladd, who since Lenroot's retirement has become chairman, and Mr. Norbeck look as if they'd like to ask questions, but not being lawyers did not know how. Mr. Cameron, his faced pained, is always in his seat. There is duty personified, like a little juryman condemned to endless silence and waiting in a famous case and wondering how the wife is making out during his absence with the selling of butter and pickled herrings.

ST. LOUISANS ARGUE FOR RIVER BILL AT HOUSE HEARINGS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Completion within five years of the improvement of the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers, as proposed in a bill by Representative Newton (Rep.), Missouri, was urged yesterday at the opening of hearings on the measure before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee. Funds for the work would be raised by a 30-year bond issue for $73,000,000.

In presenting arguments for his bill, Newton had the support of Marshall Hall, representing grain elevator interests in St. Louis; P. W. Coyle, traffic commissioner of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and Samuel Plant, also of St. Louis. They stressed the importance of providing deeper waterways for the movement of freight on rivers in the Mississippi Valley, and contended that completion of work already begun would be to the best interests of all elements of the population.

Representative of commercial organizations and shippers in other sections of the Mississippi Valley will appear before the committee today and Saturday.

True Life Story of Woodrow Wilson

by David Lawrence

Herewith is the twenty-sixth installment of a history of the life of the late President Woodrow Wilson. The writer, David Lawrence, a Washington correspondent who, during his student days at Princeton, was a student under Mr. Wilson, was very close to him during his eight years in the White House and was cognizant of the important phases of Mr. Wilson's career. He tells the story of the great War President frankly and fairly, pointing out his weaknesses as well as his greatness. This history, chapters of which appear in the Post-Dispatch from day to day until it is concluded.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Why Wilson Broke With Joseph P. Tumulty, His Private Secretary.

THE influence of Mrs. Edith Wilson on the life of the President, beginning as it did early in 1915 and extending to the hour of his death, is one of those intimate chapters which will never be adequately described by the historian. Hers was a charm which affected Woodrow Wilson at every turn of his later career. Without seeking to dominate, yet guiding him just as surely as any adviser had in the past, sympathizing, helping with the details of his work, receiving his confidences, discussing problems of state, testing friends for their loyalty and unselfishness, in short playing the confidante in a way that completely absorbed Mr. Wilson, there stood at his side through the critical years of his life a woman who, it may truly be said, shaped the destinies of the United States Government for nearly six years.

Like every woman she had her likes and dislikes. Some of those who preceding years were frequent callers did not come as often to the White House when she became its mistress. Those who sought to reach the President on the other hand knew that to reach Mrs. Wilson first was frequently of incalculable aid. She moved about without ostentation, holding her place as first lady in the land with all the grace that befitted such a position.

The election of 1916 played an important part in the development of Mr. Wilson's new life. He felt more confident than ever of the support of public opinion. He did not seek new companions. He lived in comfortable seclusion and quiet of the White House with his beloved wife. He did not make a transcontinental campaign in the summer of 1916 such as that of his opponent, Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican nominee. He spent his summer at Shadow Lawn, Long Branch, New Jersey, making speeches every Saturday to visiting delegations. Altogether it was a season of recreation for the President and Mrs. Wilson, not to the exclusion of public business, of course, but a happy blend of work and play.

Suggestion to Tumulty.

Just after the memorable 1916 election, when the doubts and anxieties about a second term had been removed for all time, the beginning of a new era in the White House was apparent. Changes began to be made in the personnel. The author discloses one episode which has never before been related, but which illustrates how completely Mr. Wilson had separated himself from his previous life. One day the President in casual conversation with Private Secretary Tumulty told the latter that he believed he ought to resign the secretaryship and go in for a political career in New Jersey as a member of Congress. For weeks preceding this conversation there had been reports published that Mr. Wilson had offered Mr. Tumulty a post on the Board of Appraisers in New York. Secretary Tumulty was at a loss to understand the origin of these rumors as to the place he was to occupy in the second administration. He could not recall offending the President in the slightest, but at last Mr. Wilson revealed that the published reports were true—he did suggest resignation to his private secretary.

The author learned of the incident at noon on Sunday, Nov. 19, 1916—and feeling sure there must be some misunderstanding, sent a note to the President requesting an audience that afternoon and was received in the Green Room almost immediately.

Woodrow Wilson never liked to hear criticism, yet he was one of the fairest of men. Knowing him for years as a man who would not render a judgment unfairly if he knew the facts, the author sought Mr. Wilson's reasons and found that prejudice had been carried to him with respect to his private secretary which was unfortunate—a prejudice based on a political cabal and upon impressions which were wholly unjust to his private secretary. For three-quarters of an hour we talked—it was a dramatic conversation only because the author felt that in such case vehemence was essential in order to impress Mr. Wilson with the ingratitude that would be his if he listened to the enemies of his private secretary and gratified their wishes. Nobody would understand, the author told the President, how one who had rendered as faithful service to him as had Secretary Tumulty could be asked to retire. None of the newspaper men who knew what had been accomplished by Secretary Tumulty for Woodrow Wilson would understand and the old taunt of New Jersey days—ingratitude—would arise once more. Mr. Wilson seemed to realize that he had wounded his faithful friend—the man who had fought his battles day and night—and he sent word through the author to his private secretary not to be disturbed.

As the critical days of 1917 approached, Mr. Wilson came more and more to appreciate how valuable was the aid of his private secretary, and while Tumulty was undoubtedly impulsive at times and made mistakes, there is no question that he was loyalty itself in his service to Woodrow Wilson. Four years later the break did come, and undoubtedly the influences which brought it about were not far different from those which were operating in 1916.

The incident which separated Woodrow Wilson and his private secretary occurred after the breakdown of the President and after his retirement from the White House. The letters in the record exchanged between Woodrow Wilson and Joseph P. Tumulty do not explain the break. They show clearly that Mr. Wilson never gave his former private secretary the audience he sought, for it would have readily explained the misunderstanding.

Mr. Tumulty had, however, written a book which displeased some of the inner circle and he had conveyed a message to a banquet of Democrats in New York which Mr. Wilson claimed never to have written, but which was given orally to his former private secretary just as were so many verbal messages in the years of their association. It was a harmless communication, simply an expression of the hope that the Democrats would do their part in leading the world to a better understanding between nations. There could be no possible objection to the message, even if Mr. Tumulty had phrased it himself, which he did not. Mr. Wilson objected to the message because it was construed by the newspapers as a participation by him in the selection of a candidate for 1924, but the message was merely a pretext—the anti-Tumulty influence won out and the man who stood by his chief for so many years was never even granted a hearing—indeed, there is nothing to show that the subsequent messages from him ever reached Woodrow Wilson. In the last months of Mr. Wilson's life efforts were made to reunite the two. Again influences hostile to Mr. Tumulty prevented such a meeting. What Mr. Wilson did do, however, just a few months before he died, was to write a letter to a friend, stating his opinion that the best man to make the race in New Jersey on the Democratic ticket for the United States senatorship in 1924 would be Joseph Patrick Tumulty. This letter was to have been published in the Saturday Evening Post, and already was in type, when Mrs. Wilson asserted her legal rights to suppress the document. The missive shows that Mr. Wilson did not lose his high regard for the man who served him 11 years as private secretary and who deserves to be called by those words which Woodrow Wilson used with peculiar precision, namely, a loyal friend.

(Tomorrow's chapter tells why Wilson asked America to enter the war and his early moves for peace.)

'LEAGUE IS HERE TO STAY,' NORMAN H. DAVIS ASSERTS

Head of Memel Mission, Leaving Geneva, Says America Cannot Afford to Be Absent.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 21.—Norman H. Davis, who headed the neutral commission of the League of Nations which drew up the plan for settlement of the Memel controversy, left for New York yesterday. A large group of high officials of the league and diplomatic agents bade him good-by.

Davis said: "The league is here to stay. Although we should be careful not to act blindly, I think Americans cannot afford to be absent from any table where questions affecting world peace are discussed. The United States is making increased use of the league; hence it behooves us to strengthen it."

Postal Department Not Self-Supporting.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I NOTICE in today's (15th) issue of the Post-Dispatch a Mr. Theo. T. Weslick says, "For the special information of uninformed taxpayers I would particularly point to the fact that the Postoffice Department is not sustained by revenue derived by taxation, but is maintained by its own income." Now, to begin with, I want to say the Postoffice Department never has been self-sustaining in 122 years with the exception of 10 years, and then the margin was so small to be negligible. I note a deficit for 1921 of only $157,502,401. Now, I am anxious to know where the department gets its money from if not by taxation?

Klan Propaganda in Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REV. C. A. STEWART, "National Lecturer" for the Ku Klux Klan, spoke in the Vienna courthouse Sunday p. m. His talk was fulsome with praise for a hundred things—Missouri's rich coal beds, the lecturer's near-klan pedigree and his wife's klan ancestry.

The Catholic soldier boys at Vienna had issued an "open-letter" challenge, which the doctor—as he called himself—sidestepped:

The Jews were charged with being guilty of having wit and commercial ability to walk off with klan-brand "Americans" at the rate of "3 to 97." The klan's only defense was "boycott the Jew."

The negro was admitted to be of superior staying qualities over the klan-brand American in this, that negro homes have more children than klan homes want to be bothered with. The speaker did not say it in this way, but that is what we take it he meant. He used negro criminals to play on the fancy of his hearers—to stir up prejudice against the race for what some individuals did.

The speaker must have been tipped off that his audience was in great part Catholic. He stepped lightly and studiously avoided any remark antagonistic to things Catholic. He went the length to weave in a remark: "If the local Catholic church were attacked, klansmen would come to the rescue."

After about 1 hour and 30 minutes' talk the speaker perorated with an air of hurry to get off. The writer watched the "amen" and signaled for recognition.

The interpellation claimed inconsistency of the speaker's talk and the official pronouncements of Wizard Evans in regard to klansmen's attitude towards Catholic disfranchisement. The lecturer disclaimed knowing anything about Evans' anti-Catholic sayings. The objector insisted on Evans' pronouncements having been made in his Dallas speech and the lecturer pleaded not knowing of the whole "Dallas speech." Pressed, he admitted Evans his imperial master, but claimed the right to disown any obligations to anti-Catholic pronouncements of Dr. Evans. "I know the klan as well as Dr. Evans and you will have to fight it out with Dr. Evans — the klan is not against Catholicism!"

At no time did the speaker get heavy applause.

In rebuttal to the speaker's claim that nothing criminal had ever been fastened onto the klan, the writer reminded the speaker of two men in Oklahoma serving a prison term for having confessed their crimes and confessed they had acted under klan instigation. The doctor fumbled and floundered, but finally admitted my contention to be probably right.

The writer proposed a committee from the audience to investigate loyalty of Catholic schools, authenticity of the Evans charges and the speaker's reliability in claiming that all press (also Associated Press) dispatches about klanism's mask-mob work were slanderous and without any truth. He declined on the plea of having no time.

JOHN FUGEE.

Chouteau Avenue Bus Line.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NOTE in this evening's paper suggestion by Property Owner, having bus line on Chouteau avenue from Kingshighway to Fourth street. It is a capital idea and hope the plan will materialize, for Chouteau avenue is a fine, newly paved street, but it is the only street south of Washington avenue having a direct road to East St. Louis, and Chouteau avenue is a direct line to the Free Bridge, a magnificent drive. It would be a grand idea and gold mine for the company.

ANOTHER PROPERTY OWNER.

MUNSEYFICATION OF THE PRESS.

Frank A. Munsey has sold the New York Herald, which he bought four years ago, to Ogden Reid of the New York Tribune, who will publish the two papers as one. In his statement of the sale Mr. Munsey says it was the logical thing to do, since the two papers shared the same sentiments, were in accord as to policies and occupied substantially the same field.

Consolidation—he prefers the word amalgamation—seems to be an obsession with Mr. Munsey, who in the last few years has swept through the New York evening newspaper field devouring publications right and left. He speaks of this in his latest statement with much satisfaction, dwelling upon the sound economics of the process, declaring that the same thing should be done in the morning field and acknowledging his determination to do it by recounting how he had tried to purchase the Tribune, which Mr. Reid, however, because of family tradition, would not sell. So Munsey sold when he couldn't buy.

This process of newspaper consolidation, as is well known, is not confined to New York. It is going on all over the country. Nor is it confined to the United States. Newspaper ownership and control in England are now vested in the hands of a few men. And though this may be most desirable from a business standpoint, as Mr. Munsey insists, it has disquieting features.

With the press of a country owned by a few men, necessarily men of great wealth, and with interests that, broadly speaking, are parallel rather than divergent, is the public welfare likely to be as frankly, capably and comprehensively served as under genuine competition and a variety of viewpoints and ideals? That is the first consideration.

Inseparable from it and, indeed, akin to it, is the question of the future of the newspaper profession. What manner of men will be attracted by a profession so circumscribed? Is Montague of the Manchester Guardian, for example, more of a prophet than a satirist in his latest book, "The Hind Let Loose," which presents the scribe serving two masters by writing editorials in support and opposition, with equal facility, in a vacuum of conviction?

Are the Manchester Guardians of the English language on both sides of the Atlantic slowly but surely to be absorbed in the ultimate amalgam of Munseyfication? Are schools of journalism to disappear, with their reason for being destroyed? Is a free press to perish under the crushing weight of immensified personal and special-interest organs?

Profit is, truly, a magical word, but the soul of a newspaper never did exist, and never can, in its counting room. The one and only true god of the newspaper is service and if the business of publishing constructs a temple, finally, from which that deity is driven, it requires no prevision to behold the profit-era ending in the crash of an unendurable monopoly.

FIREARMS AND ALCOHOL.

The Pullman company has announced its purpose to prosecute to the limit of the law, with the aid of special counsel, Lem Motlow, the Tennessee distiller who, in an alleged drunken condition, shot and killed Conductor Clarence T. Pullis of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. Its decision, as public policy, should be approved.

Motlow is at times remorseful; says he has only a hazy recollection of what happened. But no man with due regard for society will carry a deadly firearm and at the same time dull his senses with liquor. Conductor Pullis died to protect other passengers from the riotous aggressions of Motlow. The slayer should be punished according to the law.

LAWS AND LAWLESSNESS.

Discussing laws and lawlessness the other day a Federal Judge declared the relation between them was that of cause and effect. He supported his assertion with the remark that 70 per cent of our criminal laws have been passed within the last 25 years, during which period law violation has increased enormously.

No intelligent appeal can be taken from that informal opinion, to which point is given by the news from Washington. Consider, for example, the showing of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight film at the McLean dinner before such distinguished guests as the President of the United States and a number of his Cabinet officers. These men knew that the law had been violated in transporting the film out of New Jersey. They may have suffered a twinge of official conscience in watching the exhibit. But did their sense of right or wrong as normal human beings reproach them? Of course it did not.

What of public opinion? Doubtless the pure, "to whom everything's rotten," are distressed by the incident and sorrowfully have put a black mark opposite the names of these delinquents. But the "plain, honest truth" is that the vast majority of us are rather pleased to find these exalted personages are "regular fellows." The vast majority of us don't care a hoot how often or by whom that law is broken, because we think it a fool law, for which we have no respect.

And that is what's the matter with us. Our statute books are cluttered up with just such fool laws that are making law-breakers of us all. Further, those fool laws are creating conditions that make for dishonesty, corruption, organized criminality and the breaking of laws which we do respect.

This mania for "more laws," so the Federal Judge predicts, will bring about a revolution, a statement which happens to be historical as well as prophetic.

BUSINESS ON TRIAL.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told an audience of bankers in Chicago that government and business are on trial in Washington. But, like the political apologists, he limited the application of his remarks on reprovable practices to such matters as "sordid and sinister bribery, illicit bootlegging and illegal fight films," which "are repudiated by self-respecting American industry."

Such deviations from rectitude are responsible for only a small share of the complaint against big business and reactionary politics. Had Mr. Barnes, as a business leader, been moved by a chastening spirit of self-criticism he would not have assumed that the only danger to American business and government were indictable crimes. He could have denounced the tariff lobby and other predatory lobbies; he could have denounced the interests that attempt to control political conventions and name members of the President's Cabinet; he could have denounced child labor, monopoly, profiteering and price-fixing.

It is such practices that strain American confidence in large business organizations—practices which, even if technically legal, are unfair, predacious and demoralizing.

ANNEXATION BY INITIATIVE.

A group of citizens representing a large number of civic, commercial and other organizations of city and county have approved a proposal to submit to the voters of the State in the coming November general election a constitutional amendment which calls for the combining of St. Louis city and county under the St. Louis city government.

The Post-Dispatch has always adhered to the principle that any proposal of annexation should be submitted directly to the vote of the people in the communities affected. It still adheres to that principle, but, with the Greater St. Louis Conference, feels itself justified in accepting the recent city and county vote on Amendment No. 11, opening the way to annexation, as substantially meeting the demand for local popular expression. In the city the amendment carried by a ratio of 3 to 1 and in the county by a 2-to-1 majority.

Furthermore, self-interested political forces in the county, which offer practically the only opposition to annexation, have repeatedly and for years blocked the efforts of the annexationists to bring the issue to a vote of the people. Because of this record they are disarmed of making any objection in principle to the only practical alternative to secure action meeting the logical needs of the territory and political units concerned. By submitting a constitutional amendment to the voters of the State by initiative petition the matter is taken out of the control of wire-pulling politicians and placed in the hands of the people of the State. For the success of this proposal considerable funds will be needed. The annexation program calls for the raising of $150,000.

The merging of city and county under one political rule is an inevitable development. Complete amalgamation rather than piecemeal annexation will eliminate future elections and agitation and permit uniform development of roads, parks and public utilities. Before the petitions are submitted we suggest a more careful wording of the amendment. The present text reads that "existing county indebtedness * * * shall become the property" of the expanded city.

WHERE IS SPRING?

Spring, like hope, springs eternal in the human breast. There is no sign of it in nature this year save for the poor deluded birds who, in human fashion, put too much trust in the calendar. The meadowlark from atop the naked juniper fiddles his age-old song of nesting time. The next day it snows. Somewhere the violets are blooming. Here it snows. We are in the heart of spring, astronomically, and still it snows. The lyricist's bosom swells to the vernal call. The householder clings against hope to the last of his winter's coal. But always it snows, snows, snows.

In short, we are having a Canadian spring, with moisture instead of bracing cold, with sloshing instead of sleighing, with disappointed hopes instead of stoic patience. We are becoming cynical rather than prayerful. We are moved less by expectation than by curiosity to ascertain whether or not spring has gone entirely out of business. What does it all mean? Somebody page the optimists. Unquestionably they will say that the last snow has fallen. Will they stake their money on it?

AUTHORITY OF HEALTH BOARDS.

Health Commissioner Starkloff is said to favor the introduction of a bill to define the powers of his office. He is quoted as favoring the delegation of judicial powers to the Health Department, on the ground that the State Medical Board and the courts are not as competent to deal with health nuisances, medical licenses and the general control of the public health as is a Health Commissioner.

Safeguarding of the public health is a recognized obligation of the State. With this in mind, the recent constitutional convention drew up proposed amendment No. 5, which read: "The General Assembly shall provide by law for the safeguarding and promotion of public health." The amendment was defeated, the people evidently being wary of any attempt to interfere with individual liberty with regard to choosing methods of healing, under the guise of care for their health.

As the State Constitution specifically defines the various branches of the judiciary, with their powers, it is difficult to see how the Legislature could confer upon either State or municipal health boards any judicial authority, without an amendment to the Constitution, and such an amendment would almost certainly be defeated.

The danger of abuse of such powers would be very great. It might give rise to such "intolerable interference" with personal liberty as drew a deserved rebuke from the Michigan Supreme Court in a recent decision which set forth that health boards are not the final authority over the persons of citizens; that they may not invade the security of the citizens beyond the public necessity; that they do not possess inquisitorial powers.

Under the general police power health boards already can do efficient work for the public health. But such work is open to court review, if abuse is charged. Under health officers with judicial as well as executive powers, the people would have no redress.

PANETELA.

YES, Luella,
Great objection
Rises to
The quest for graft;
People somehow
Feel it's over
Now that all
Of us have laughed.
As for rooting
Out the grafters
And say putting Them in jail,
That is very Strangely something
At which folks
Begin to rail!

Let us take
The frank avowal
Of that stalwart
Charlie Schwab;
Stop it,
He exclaims,
Or business
Very soon
Is gone to hob.
Or say let us
Read the papers,
Which in something
Of a huff
Mostly think
The reign of scandal
Has by this
Been long enough.

In the meantime,
Little girlie,
Fondly hoping
For the best,
Mark the prayerful
Thanksgiving
Of the anxious Unconfessed.
While their friends
Announce it's over
And the veil
Is all but dropped,
What a rousing
Hallelujah
If it mercifully
Stopped!

So we have it,
Sweet Luella:
Mr. Schwab
And others yell,
Only thinking
Of the endless
Tales of crookedness
To tell.
What they fear
Is having heard them,
Lo, with something
Of a shout,
We shall rise
In indignation
And face government
About!

That is all,
My little dearie;
Whether it were Best we knew
Or we didn't
Has occasioned
All this quieting
To-do.
Meanwhile,
Thanks to Walsh
And Wheeler,
Each day with
Its rising sun,
Makes it just
A wee bit clearer
How the government
Is run.

THE CONCLUSION.

WHEN we consider well how multiplied
Our blessings are, there is no room for pride;
All that we are and have has come about
Through complex forces by a devious route;
But the main traits of individual man
Have been bequeathed by family and clan,
And the best part of all received from them—
Crowning the "cake of custom" like a gem,
Forming the keystone of the arch success—
Is the supreme desire for righteousness.
Our learning is in vain till that we learn,
In that the core of wisdom we discern.

NIGHT ON KINGSHIGHWAY.

ROWS of bright waving lights upon the way,
On Kingshighway, where rush the many cars;
Way up and down the hills, like balls at play,
That pierce the darkness with the twinkling stars.
A fairyland, where pixies sure must dwell,
Who hide beneath the bridge throughout the night;
Below, above, all over, they cast a spell;
In magic of the moonbeams flashing bright,
Like some enchanted scene of childhood's day,
From witching tale we heard at fireside
A page from Romance of the far away
When lords and ladies in their coach did ride.
Bewildering dream, in city, throbbing, vast,
Whose lights must fade when sun creeps over the hill,
A necromancy over my heart thou'st cast
Whose glitt'ring fancies flit and linger still.

MRS. DAVID R. FRANCIS DIES IN SAN ANTONIO

Heart Attack Believed to Have Caused Death of Former Ambassador's Wife.

Mrs. Jane Perry Francis, wife of David R. Francis, formerly Mayor of St. Louis, Governor of Missouri and Ambassador to Russia, died suddenly in San Antonio, Tex., at the Francis apartment, 122 East French place, last night.

She was 69 years old. A heart attack, induced by high blood pressure from which she had suffered, is believed to have caused death.

Funeral arrangements are being delayed, pending word from Mrs. Sidney Francis, a daughter-in-law who is in California. The body will leave San Antonio for St. Louis tonight, accompanied by David R. Francis and Charles Francis, a son, who have been with Mrs. Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis had an apartment at the Buckingham Hotel here, but were wintering in San Antonio. Charles Francis was with them, and another son, J. D. Perry Francis, returned to St. Louis last week, after a visit with them.

Mrs. Francis is survived by her husband and six sons, J. D. Perry, Talton, David R. Jr., Sidney, Thomas and Charles.

Mrs. Francis was born at Glasgow, Howard County, Mo., the daughter of John D. Perry. Educated in St. Louis, she continued her studies in Germany. In 1876 she was married to Francis.

During the world's fair period, when Francis was president of the exposition company, Mrs. Francis was hostess to a number of notable visitors at the Francis mansion, Maryland and Newstead avenues. President Roosevelt and former President Grover Cleveland were guests of President and Mrs. Francis at the time of the formal dedication of the fair in 1903, a year before its opening.

The Francis home was turned over to the Junior Chamber of Commerce several years ago.

ASSISTANT SUNDAY EDITOR OF NEW YORK WORLD DEAD

Arthur Benington Reported Series of Tests of Transmission of Photographs by Wire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Arthur Benington, assistant editor of the Sunday World, died yesterday in his home in Brooklyn, following almost a year's illness.

Newspaper service in sundry places and capacities since 1887 equipped him for editorial writing for the World. He had been a reporter in various parts of the West, a Washington correspondent, a foreign editor and a general writer. From editorial writing he went to the Sunday department of the World.

In the study of foreign languages he mastered the spirit as well as the form of French and Italian. All branches of science made strong appeal to him. In 1908 he introduced Guglielmo Ferrero, the Italian historian, to the American public, and translated his articles on America for the World. For this service the Italian Government gave him the decoration of Chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy. He delivered a course of lectures on Dante in New York University in 1914.

When the United States entered the World War, Italians in this country urged his appointment to the committee on Public Information for service in Italy, where he spent nine months in lecturing in Italian on America's part in the war. After the armistice he accompanied Admiral Millo in the occupation of Dalmatia. Italy made him Knight Commander in the Order of the Crown of Italy, the highest of Italian decorations. In 1923 he received the decoration of the Order of Danilo I for his writings explaining the movement of Montenegro for autonomy.

Benington's aptitude in scientific subjects led to his assignment to France in 1922 for observation of the invention of the telestereograph by Edouard Belin, a device for the transmission of photographs by wire. Numerous experiments in France led to the acquisition of American rights for the World. Benington brought Belin to the United States and reported a series of tests in photographic transmission.

Benington was born in Stockton-on-Tees in England in 1866.

JEFF DAVIS' BODYGUARD DIES

He Was With Confederate President on Final Trip to Virginia.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—Capt. A. C. Dale, 82 years old, one of the last survivors of Jefferson Davis' bodyguard, died yesterday at his home on the Dickerson Pike near here.

Capt. Dale served with the Eighth Tennessee Infantry and later with Gen. N. B. Forrest's cavalry. He was a member of the bodyguard which accompanied Jefferson Davis on his final trip to Virginia before Appomattox. For the last 40 years he had lived on a stock farm near here.

New Municipal Theater Treasurer.

Walter R. Weisenberger, a vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, yesterday was chosen treasurer of the Municipal Theater Association to succeed Frank M. We do not mean t insinuate that he has connived deliberately at wrongdoing. But there is no escaping the fact that he has shown the grossest misunderstanding of the gravity of the sit uation. A man able and willing to continu to associate on friendly terms with Mr. Mc Lean after his confession that he had de ceived the Senators investigating the oi ransaction is obviously unfitted for the of ice of President. Mr. Lodge would hav erved Mr. Coolidge, their party and th ountry better if, instead of defending t President, he had frankly stated it as pinion that Mr. Coolidge would do well etire from the presidency.

MRS. DAVID R. FRANCIS DIES IN SAN ANTONIO

Heart Attack Believed to Have Caused Death of Former Ambassador's Wife.

Mrs. Jane Perry Francis, wife of David R. Francis, formerly Mayor of St. Louis, Governor of Missouri and Ambassador to Russia, died suddenly in San Antonio, Tex., at the Francis apartment, 122 East French place, last night.

She was 69 years old. A heart attack, induced by high blood pressure from which she had suffered, is believed to have caused death.

Funeral arrangements are being delayed, pending word from Mrs. Sidney Francis, a daughter-in-law who is in California. The body will leave San Antonio for St. Louis tonight, accompanied by David R. Francis and Charles Francis, a son, who have been with Mrs. Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis had an apartment at the Buckingham Hotel here, but were wintering in San Antonio. Charles Francis was with them, and another son, J. D. Perry Francis, returned to St. Louis last week, after a visit with them.

Mrs. Francis is survived by her husband and six sons, J. D. Perry, Talton, David R. Jr., Sidney, Thomas and Charles.

Mrs. Francis was born at Glasgow, Howard County, Mo., the daughter of John D. Perry. Educated in St. Louis, she continued her studies in Germany. In 1876 she was married to Francis.

During the world's fair period, when Francis was president of the exposition company, Mrs. Francis was hostess to a number of notable visitors at the Francis mansion, Maryland and Newstead avenues. President Roosevelt and former President Grover Cleveland were guests of President and Mrs. Francis at the time of the formal dedication of the fair in 1903, a year before its opening.

The Francis home was turned over to the Junior Chamber of Commerce several years ago.

ASSISTANT SUNDAY EDITOR OF NEW YORK WORLD DEAD

Arthur Benington Reported Series of Tests of Transmission of Photographs by Wire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Arthur Benington, assistant editor of the Sunday World, died yesterday in his home in Brooklyn, following almost a year's illness.

Newspaper service in sundry places and capacities since 1887 equipped him for editorial writing for the World. He had been a reporter in various parts of the West, a Washington correspondent, a foreign editor and a general writer. From editorial writing he turned to the Sunday department of the World.

In the study of foreign languages he mastered the spirit as well as the form of French and Italian. All branches of science made strong appeal to him.

In 1908 he introduced Guglielmo Ferrero, the Italian historian, to the American public, and translated his articles on America for the World. For this service the Italian Government gave him the decoration of Chevalier of the Order of the Crown of Italy. He delivered a course of lectures on Dante in New York University in 1914.

When the United States entered the World War, Italians in this country urged his appointment to the committee on Public Information in Italy, where he spent nine months in lecturing in Italian on America's part in the war. After the armistice he accompanied Admiral Millo in the occupation of Dalmatia. Italy made him Knight Commander in the Order of the Crown of Italy, the highest of Italian decorations. In 1923 he received the decoration of the Order of Danilo I for his writings explaining the movement of Montenegro for autonomy.

Benington's aptitude in scientific subjects led to his assignment to France in 1922 for observation of the invention of the telestereographe by Edourd Belin, a device for the transmission of photographs by wire. Numerous experiments in France led to the acquisition of American rights for the World. Benington brought Belin to the United States and reported a series of tests in photographic transmission.

Benington was born in Stockton-on-Teed in England in 1865.

JEFF DAVIS' BODYGUARD DIES

He Was With Confederate President on Final Trip to Virginia.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—Capt. A. C. Dale, 83 years old, one of the last survivors of Jefferson Davis' bodyguard, died yesterday at his home on the Dickerson Pike near here.

Capt. Dale served with the Eighth Tennessee Infantry and later with Gen. N. B. Forrest's cavalry. He was a member of the bodyguard that escorted Jefferson Davis on his final trip to Virginia before Appomatox. For the last 40 years he had lived on a stock farm near here.

New Municipal Theater Treasurer.

Walter B. Weisenburger, a vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, yesterday was chosen treasurer of the Municipal Theater Association to succeed Frank M. Mayfield, who resigned when he recently moved to Denver to take charge of the large department store recently acquired by Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Co.

ST. LOUIS FIRM'S MOSAICS PROMINENT IN GALLERIES

Breckinridge Jones Tells of Displays in New York Exhibits of Emil Frei Company.

Breckinridge Jones, president of the St. Louis Art League, has returned from New York, where a portion of his time was spent in visiting important current art exhibits, foremost among which is the impressive display of modern mosaic executed by the Emil Frei company of St. Louis.

The original schedule for display of this work at the Anderson Galleries was altered because of the uncertainty of action at the customs house in connection with the objects comprising the exhibit brought from Germany by Frei for this occasion. Therefore, the exhibit is installed in the Architectural Building on Park avenue.

Jones, while thoroughly conversant with St. Louis art activities and accomplishments, was amazed at the extent and quality of the St. Louis exhibit and at the prominence and interest accorded it by Eastern architects, patrons, the public and the press.

This display demonstrates the supremacy of Emil Frei's work over that of any other mosaic artist in the United States, his studios in St. Louis enjoying the most extensive production in the country and his decorations being of the highest quality in skilled workmanship and artistic design. The two Elizabethan mosaic arches presented to the City Art Museum and now fixed over the doorways to the main galleries from the sculpture court, were executed by Frei's company in Germany.

The exhibit will remain in New York another two weeks, after which time it will be brought "home" to St. Louis and displayed here at the St. Louis Art League as the beginning feature of the "Art in Industry" movement outlined by Jones as the league's object for 1924.

WILLIAM AND MARY WILL SEND STUDENTS ABROAD

Group of 15 Will Take Training in Consular and Diplomatic Service in France.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSBURGH, Va., March 21.—The college of William and Mary is planning to take to France this summer a group of 15 college students for educational purposes. The young men may be students at William and Mary or any other college. Credit granted for work done abroad will count for a degree at William and Mary, or any institution accepting William and Mary credits.

This "school in Europe," it is hoped, will become an annual event in the college calendar. One country each year is to be selected for the location of the school. This year it goes to France, and England, Italy, Germany, etc., are in view for the future.

Specifically, the work this summer will consist of four courses of 30 lectures each on subjects which will train men to fill positions in the United States consular and diplomatic service, or in foreign trade. In addition students may elect courses in Rrench history, art, literature, contemporary civilization, etc.

Hannibal Banker Dies at 87.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., March 21.—John J. Cruikshank, 87 years old, prominent banker and lumberman, died suddenly at his home here yesterday. He was vice president of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Hannibal and was engaged in the lumber business here from 1859 until his retirement a few years ago. A widow and six children survive.

Social Items

Mrs. Howard Bailey was hostess at a large luncheon at her home in the St. Regis apartments today. The guests were all of the officers of the Wednesday Club, with the chairmen and secretaries of the various committees. Mrs. Bailey is head of the civics committee.

Mrs. William Greenhalgh of Westminster place, will entertain her daughter, Mrs. Walter Eversman, of Toledo, and the latter's small child. The visitors will arrive tomorrow for a ten-day visit, and informal parties are on the social calendar for them.

Mrs. Carl Brown Antisdale of Boston, who has been visiting here several weeks, is now the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Robert J. O'Reilly, 27 Washington terrace. Many parties have been given for Mrs. Antisdale during her stay.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ittner of 5553 Bartmer avenue are in Chicago for a brief visit. They are at the Blackstone Hotel.

Mrs. Kendall William Venable of the Bonair Hotel had as her dinner guest Monday evening Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston of New York, who came to St. Louis to lecture to the Garden Club at the Artists' Guild. Mrs. Venable, formerly Miss Maybelle Carter, knew Miss Johnston in New York when residing there prior to her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lamy of Forest Ridge and Mrs. Harry Prufrock of 5777 Lindell boulevard, have returned home from a midwinter trip to Panama and Costa Rica.

Miss Dorothy Partridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Partridge of 5188 Cabanne avenue, who is touring the East, will go to Springfield, Mass., about April 20, to visit her sister, Mrs. Hobart Bemis Swan, and her small son. Mrs. Swan has changed her plans for a visit to her parents this spring.

Mrs. Carson McCormack of the Forest Park Hotel entertained her bridge club yesterday.

Mrs. Baarent Ten Broek of 4378 Lindell boulevard has returned from a visit to her son, Gerrit Ten Broek, at Benton, Ill., where he is engaged in newspaper work.

Formal announcement was made today of the engagement of Miss Violet M. Cunliff, daughter of Mrs. Charles Cunliff of 15 Windermere place, and Stuart Cornelius Mahanay, son of Mrs. and Mrs. C. S. Mahanay of Webster Groves. The news was told at a luncheon given by Mrs. Robert Milton Russell, a sister of the bride-elect, by means of cards bearing the names of the couple concealed in the jonquils, one of which was placed at each cover. A centerpiece of the same flowers completed the decoration. Guests included only a few of Miss Cunliff's close friends. The bride-elect was educated at Washington University. Mr. Mahanay left school to enlist in the army and served overseas as a radio operator during the war. The wedding will take place this spring.

One of the largest parties of the week is a bridge luncheon to be given today by Mrs. George F. Rubelmann of 6419 Ellenwood avenue, for her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Knight Jr. There will be seven tables for cards. Mrs. Rubelmann will give a similar affair March 31, at her home.

Mrs. Jean Kihlman, who has been the guest of Lieut. and Mrs. R. A. Byers of Jefferson Barracks for a few weeks, has departed for her home in Philadelphia.

The next fortnightly dance of the Jefferson Barracks' Officers' Club will be held at the assembly hall, post headquarters building, this evening. The hosts will be Capt. and Mrs. H. M. Van Hook, Capt and Mrs. Walter Hibbard and Capt. H. L. Harries.

Word was received here today by members of the Bennett Alumni Club of the sudden death of Miss May F. Bennett, founder of the Bennett School for Girls at Millbrook, N. Y., at Millbrook yesterday. Miss Bennett, who was 60 years old, became ill last Monday.

About 50 prominent St. Louis women are graduates of the Bennett School, and members of the Bennett Club here, which is headed by Mrs. Douglas Smiley, 5501 Waterman avenue. Miss Bennett was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the club here last summer.

Mrs. C. Spencer Meredith of the Argonne apartments will entertain six guests at dinner tonight at the Forest Park Hotel, preceding the recital by Moriz Rosenthal at Sheldon Memorial, under the auspices of the Piano Teachers' Educational Association of St Louis.

MISS BOECK, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Boeck of 5522 Waterman avenue, will have one of the principal parts in the annual French play to be given by the Hosmer Hall students March 29 at the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild. The proceeds will benefit French orphans.

Federation of Catholic Alumnae will take an active part in the annual sale of articles made by the blind which is in progress at the Stix, Baer & Fuller store this week. Today and tomorrow members from each of the 12 federated local alumnae association will be in charge. The object of the sale is to help the Missouri Commission for the Blind in their work for enabling the blind to become self-sustaining.

KING GEORGE JOINS RADIO FANS; INSTALLS UNIQUE SET

Copper Plates in Cabinet Take Place of Ground and Aerial Connections.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 21.—King George has joined the army of radio fans and has had installed in his palace a receiving set said to be unique.

No aerial or ground connections are used, their places being taken by copper plates set into the top and base of the cabinet. This obviates the frame loop common to most sets not having outdoor aerials.

The set embodies two stages of radio frequency amplification before the detector tube, and three stages of audio amplification.

JEWISH HOSPITAL FUND TOPS $500,000 MARK

Campaign Scheduled to End Monday With Dinner at Columbian Club.

The campaign to raise $750,000 to complete the $2,000,000 fund for the new Jewish Hospital had passed the $500,000 mark today, with the team workers going over the entire city in search of subscriptions. The campaign will end Monday evening with a dinner at Columbia Club.

The two biggest voluntary pledges received today were $5000 from Scrugs-Vandervoort-Barney, through M. L. Wilkinson, president of the store, who is also a member of the new Jewish Hospital Executive Committee, and $2500 from Nugent's.

Small in size but large in appreciation was a contribution received at campaign headquarters yesterday from a man who had been treated at the hospital after a free operations and restored to health. Because he felt it his duty to donate whatever was within his means, he came from the extreme West End of the city, regardless of the heavy snow, to the downtown headquarters where he subscribed $10.

The non-sectarian scope of the work of the Jewish Hospital was emphasized by Dr. Leon Harrison of Temple Isreal in an address before the Rotary Club at Hotel Statler yesterday. He said:

"In the strict sense of the word this is not a Jewish Hospital. No sickness is Jewish and the doors of the hospital are wide open to all creeds. The only requisite for treatment is that the patient be in need of medical care. It is true the leaders in this drive are of that meager group of Jews in this city that are bending their greatest efforts toward the completion of the job they have begun. But herein lies your opportunity to share in this great work for humanity."

A special team has been formed by the assembly of clubs of the Jewish Community Center. This team will seek out prospects too far removed to be reached by the regular teams.

IS THERE A RADICAL POLITICAL REVOLT IN THE NORTHWEST?

vided. Finally the farmers came over, and an independent ticket was placed in the field. The alliance has just been cemented, and new elements, such as groups of business and professional men of liberal views have been brought in. Plans have been made for a complete organization of the State on geographical lines. To the outsider, it looks as if the movement is stronger in Minnesota than ever.

Recruits have flocked to its banner, some because of genuine conversion to liberal views, others out of sheer opportunism. Its success has laid it open to two dangers—those of overconfidence and of becoming top-heavy with office seekers.

Mahoney says he is well aware of both and will guard against them. "It must always be borne in mind," he said, "that this is not an ordinary political party. It has its roots in the economic interests of the producing classes. Its aim is to get legislation that will give them protection. The very name conveys the idea of material interests.

"This coalition of producers," he says, "is a source of great anxiety to the exploiting element, and persistent efforts have been made to disrupt it. It has been sought to show that the farmers and workers have interests that are antagonistic. It is argued that the farmer is in a measure a 'capitalist' and an employer of labor.

Purpose to Eliminate Business Parasites.

"But the Farmer-Labor movement represents a deeper understanding of the economic principles involved in the distribution of wealth than the ordinary classification implies. It is based on the broad division of producer and nonproducer—the worker and the exploiter.

"According to this division, all who are engaged in useful labor and produce wealth have an interest in securing the largest possible return for their efforts, and are interested in elimnating the speculator and parasite who produce nothing, but add to the cost of commodities.

"The farmer is a capitalist and employer only in name, for while he has in some cases the title to his land and his tools, it is only by sufferance of the banker or other money lender; and the farmer's principal source of income is from the labor he and his family expend and for this he is the most poorly-paid worker. Whatever income is derived from his investment usually goes to the money lender.

"The meager income of farmers from the sale of their products drives many of them into the city to become competitors of the city workers.

"It is this fundamental identity of economic interests that has driven the farmers and workers in Minnesota to adopt a common agency to secure relief and protection through legislation. That agency is the Farmer-Labor party."

La Follette Followers Jubilant Over North Dakota Primary.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 21.—The third party movement, which centers here, has been given fresh impetus by the result of Tuesday's Republican preference primary in North Dakota. Followers of La Follette are jubilant, predicting that he will easily carry the State against Coolidge in the November elections.

The primary returns furnish good grounds for this belief. At this writing, the figures show that Johnson and La Follette combined polled considerably more than half the vote cast. In a straight-out fight between Coolidge and La Follette in the election, the Wisconsin Senator would receive the great bulk of the vote that Johnson polled in the primary.

In view of the fact that La Follette's name was not on the ballot, he himself having directed that it be kept off, the result is a remarkable demonstration of his vote-getting powers among the farmers of the radical Northwest. La Follette's name had to be written in or pasted on the ballots with stickers. To conduct a "sticker campaign" in a small, closely settled area, is difficult enough. In sparsely settled North Dakota, where the work must have required an infinite deal of telephoning and traveling to lonely farms, the vote rolled up for La Follette could only have been obtained by the most enthusiastic effort on the part of his followers.

There is comfort neither for Coolidge nor Johnson in the returns. Johnson, who carried the State in the primary of 1920, ran third, despite a vigorous campaign. His defeat puts another dent in his already badly battered candidacy.

Coolidge gets the preference only because of the split in the progressive ranks. Among both progressives and conservatives up here, the statement by Coolidge's Chicago manager, describing the result as an "impressive indorsement" of the President, due to approval of his farm-aid policy, is regarded as one of the best jokes of the political situation.

Woman, 87, Dies From Fall.

Mrs Barbara Lentz, 87 years old, of 4416 Chouteau avenue, a widow, died at city hosiptal early yesterday from a fractured pelvis suffered Feb. 19 when her cane broke as she was crossing Newstead avenue at Chouteau, causing her to fall to the street. Mrs. Lentz at the time was taken to Missouri Baptist Sanitarium where she remained, police said, until her funds ran low and she was removed to city hospital, March 18.

Promoter Freed in Fraud Case.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., March 21.—O. A. Brickson yesterday was freed of charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of the Brickson Manufacturing Co., when Federal Judge J. D. Elliott took the case from the hands of the jury and dismissed it, holding the question involved to be one of law and not one of fact. The suit arose out of alleged illegal methods of stock sale.

BROTHER FEARED BY ZOE WILKINS, ATTORNEY ASSERTS

Jesse James Tells Coroner's Jury Slain Woman Said Charles and Another Man Had Threatened Her.

CUT HIM OFF IN WILL WITHOUT CENT

Mysterious Woman Says Negro Janitor Advised Her to Leave House "Before It's Too Late."

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—Zoe Wilkins, pretty osteopath and divorced wife of the late Thomas W. Cunningham, wealthy Joplin (Mo.) banker, found slain Tuesday in her home here, had feared a plot against her life by Charles Wilkins, a brother, and another man, Jesse James, the woman's attorney, testified today at opening of the inquest.

"Dr. Wilkins," James told the Coroner's jury, "feared two men whom she named. They had made demands on her, she told me, and said if she did not comply, they would murder her."

James testified one of the men was Charles Wilkins, but refused to name the other, saying he had furnished the name to the police and would inform the prosecutor, if desired.

The attorney said Wilkins was under arrest but the second man was not. In this connection observers recalled that police had asked Denver authorities to arrest Charles Smith, who came here last December with the slain woman's brother. Other witnesses have told detectives that Miss Wilkins feared a man named Smith.

James, who is a son of the late Jesse James, the outlaw, said he became Miss Wilkins' attorney late in February. He said when she related her fear of a plot he did not believe the tale, deciding his client was suffering from hallucinations.

Brother Cut Off in Will.

"I made a mistake in judgment," James said. "I should have provided physical protection for Dr. Wilkins, because in her death everything developed as she had predicted to me."

The attorney said Miss Wilkins had asked his advice regarding a will she had drawn up a month ago.

"I want you to look over this will," James quoted her as having said, "and tell me if my brother, Charles can get a penny of my estate if he murders me."

James said he examined the will and found it legal in every respect. He said Charles Wilkins was left out of the will and one of the chief beneficiaries was Horace Ricketts, an adopted son, now in the navy.

$70,000 to Former Husband.

Although reiterating his refusal to give the name of the second man whom Miss Wilkins feared, James later in his testimony said:

"I'll tell you this much about him. He is a graduate in medicine."

James said he had told the Chief of Detectives the motive that might have prompted the slaying.

The attorney said the slain woman distrusted banks and told him she had given $70,000 in cash to a former husband, Albert W. Marksheffel, garage proprietor of Colorado Springs. James said she had shown him a certificate of trust purportedly signed by Marksheffel and two letters from him, begging her for more time to return the money. This certificate was kept in a strong box, now missing. The box, James said, also contained securities valued at more than $100,000.

Horace Wilkins, a brother, arrived today from his home in Willard, O.

"I have some information which may help solve the murder of my sister," he said. "I feel certain my brother, Charles, is innocent. If the negro killed my sister he was hired to commit the crime. There is a man higher up in this case who so far has not been mentioned. I know his connection with my sister and I intend to give his name to the police."

A statement by a woman, whose name yet remains secret, detailing the happenings of the last hours accounted for in Miss Wilkin's life is being investigated by police.

"When I left the Wilkins home, at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, Doc and Dillard were the only ones in the room," the woman's statement, made last night, runs. The "doc" refers to Mrs. Wilkins. "Dillard" is Dillard Davies, the janitor, now held in jail with Wilkins and B. F. Tarpley, a railroad yardmaster.

"Dillard came into the room and motioned me with his hand to leave the house and told 'Doc' to get me out of there before it is too late," the woman said of the last few

ST. LOUIS YOUTH CONFESSES HE KILLED INDIANA DETECTIVE

Edward Barber, 17, Says He Shot When Surprised in Holdup at Terre Haute

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 21.—Edward Barber, alias Arthur L. Smith, youthful St. Louis holdup man, confessed here yesterday that he killed Detective Stephen Kendall when the latter attempted to arrest him and Joseph Parker, 23 years old, also of St. Louis, while they were robbing an oil filling station here Jan. 22.

The confession was obtained through the work of two jail trusties. Barber, who is 17 years old, said he and Parker came to Terre Haute the afternoon of Jan. 22, stole an automobile and held up a filling station near the edge of town. Kendall arrived during the course of the holdup, and Barber shot and killed the detective when the latter drew his revolver and attempted to arrest him and his companion. Barber said he and Parker then made their way to Chicago, going part of the way in the stolen machine. Stealing another automobile there, they drove to St. Louis, where they were arrested and returned to Terre Haute. Both men are under 25-year prison sentences for robbing a confectionery store the same night Detective Kendall was killed.

Patriarch at Tiflis Sentenced.

TIFLIS, March 21.—Convicted on charges of counter revolution against the Soviet Government, Patriarch Ambrosia, head of the orthodox church of Georga and Armenia, today was sentenced to nine years' imprisonment. Six members of his council were given terms varying from one to five years.

PAINTING ORIGINALLY $5000 BRINGS $60,000

Canvas by Homer Once Disposed of by W. K. Bixby for About $30,000.

Visitors to the art department of the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904 may recall two oil paintings and one water color by Winslow Homer. Then again there may be nor recollections, for there were many things besides art to be seen here at that time. Anyway, the artist was awarded a gold medal.

Along about 1912 one of the two oil paintings, entitled "Early Morning After Storm at Sea," made another public appearance in St. Louis, this time as part of a summer exhibition at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. Whether it attracted more than ordinary attention, or was passed by in favor of gory scenes from the French Revolution, is not recorded.

The other day this same painting was sold to the Cleveland Museum of Art for a price reported to be between $60,000 and $65,000. Only one other American painting—a portrait of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart, which cost H. C. Frick $75,000—is known to have brought more.

Highest Price Based on Merit.

The value of the Washington portrait was, of course, enhanced by historical associations. Based solely on artistic merit the price obtained for Homer's "Early Morning" is said to be the highest ever paid for an American painting. Incidentally the St. Louis Art Museum now owns a Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington for which it paid $25,000. This portrait is of the Athenaeum type, showing a view of the left side of the face, whereas the one now owned by the heirs of H. C. Frick is of the rare Vaughan type, showing the right side of the face.

There is romance, interwoven with profit, in the history of the "Early Morning." Painted by Homer, generally acclaimed the foremost American marine painter, in 1902, it was acquired a year later by W. K. Bixby of St. Louis, now president of the Board of Control of the St. Louis Art Museum, at a price in the neighborhood of $5000. For 14 years it formed part of Bixby's art collection which was housed in his residence on Lindell boulevard at Kingshighway, where Hotel Chase now stands. In 1917 it was bought by Cornelius Vanderbilt Barton of New York from Bixby for a reported price of $30,000.

Writing to an art dealer in 1902, Homer said of this picture: "This is the best picture of the sea that I have painted. The price that you will charge is $5000. The price net to me will be $4000. This may be the last as well as the best picture. I have rents enough to keep me out of the poorhouse."

Artist Received Only $4000.

From this it will be seen the artist received $4000 for a creation that brought $60,000 or more a score of years afterward. The $4000 was the most he received for any of his works and Homer seemed satisfied, even though he had waited a whole year until the sea and light was fitting before starting work on "An Early Morning After a Storm at Sea."

Winslow Homer was born in Boston in 1836. At 22 he began a series of illustrations for Harper's Weekly which extended through 17 years and included sketches of President Lincoln's inauguration and Civil War scenes. From 1884 until his death in 1910 Homer lived at Prout's Neck, Me., and led a hermit-like existence in a studio by the sea. His most famous works, including "An Early Morning," were executed there.

minutes she was at the Wilkins home.

Found House Locked Sunday.

"Just before I left 'Doc' asked me to call her up as soon as I got home. I reached my home about 10:45 p. m. and called her number. At last I called the telephone supervisor and was informed the receiver must be off the telephone."

It was Saturday night, from all indications, that Mrs. Wilkins was murdered, her face having been beaten and throat cut after an evident struggle.

"I went out to the house several times Sunday," the statement continues, "and tried the door, but found it locked. Sunday night I drove out with a friend and tried the door and found it locked, so I left."

"'Four of them are going to get me,'" the woman declared Miss Wilkins told her Friday night.' "She was afraid of being killed or poisoned."

Slayer's Knife Identified.

The statement made by the unnamed woman was the second of two strong links in the chain about Davies. The first was the identification yesterday, by two persons, of the knife with which the osteopath was slain as having been the property of the negro.

Arthur Wilkins, a brother of the slain woman, who lives in Colorado Springs, arrived in Kansas City last night and went directly to police headquarters, where he conferred with Chief of Detectives Walston.

Arthur Wilkins assented when Walston asked him whether he desired to see his brother. A jailer led the prisoner into the Chief's office. The prisoner advanced and extended his hand timidly and his brother received it without a sign of emotion.

BUSINESS MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH, HIS WIFE WOUNDED

Woman Tells Police Husband Wounded Her and Then Killed Himself.

By the Associated Press.

ARLINGTON, N. J., March 21.—Roy W. Wingate was found shot to death in his room late last night by his 14-year-old daughter, Jeanette. Mrs. Wingate, lying near by, was bleeding from wounds near the heart. A revolver was clutched in the man's hand, police said.

Mrs. Wingate, still conscious when police answered her daughter's summons, accused her husband of shooting her and then taking his own life, they said. Shortly after telling her story she became unconscious, and is not expected to recover.

Wingate was a member of the construction firm of Caulwell, Wingate & Co. of Fourth avenue, New York. The family is socially prominent here.

CHECK FOR $1100 CAME BACK

A. H. Schmand Had Accepted It From Stranger for Auto.

A check for $1100, which he accepted from an affable stranger March 11, in payment for an automobile, was returned yesterday to Albert H. Schmand, 5212 Gravois avenue, with the notation "no account."

Schmand reported to police that the stranger represented himself as agent for a large steel concern and had papers to strengthen the claim. The check was drawn on a Dayton, O., bank. The stranger took the automobile when he presented the check. Police are endeavoring to trace the car.

UNLICENSED DOCTOR ADMITS CHARGES

Behagen Offers to Plead Guilty in Letter to Schweitzer, but Latter Will Prosecute Each Case.

Dr. Ernest Behagen, 33 years old, who faces trial on six charges of practicing medicine in St. Louis without a license, expressed a desire to plead guilty to the charges in a letter to Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer today, providing the punishment assessed would be a fine or deportation, instead of imprisonment.

The letter was written from the city jail, where Dr. Behagen is held. In it the doctor expressed a desire to plead guilty, because he "is guilty."

"I am throwing myself on the mercy of the Court," the letter states, "and promise to struggle to pay any fine that may be assessed and then leave town forever." The letter was apparently written without the knowledge of the doctor's attorney.

When the first of the six cases was called for trial in the Court of Criminal Correction today Dr. Behagen's attorney, Harry Russell, obtained a continuance until March 26. Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer announced, upon receiving Dr. Behagen's letter, that he would not accept the plea of guilty, but would attempt to obtain the maximum punishment, one year in the workhouse, in each case.

Dr. Behagen was arrested March 7 by Inspector Fishwick of the Health Department upon the complaint of Mrs. Viola Monko, 30, of 1903 Wright street. It is alleged Dr. Behagen operated on Mrs. Monko for "crossed eyes' on Jan. 25, using a common sewing needle, and that as a result Mrs. Monko has lost the sight of her right eye. When arrested Dr. Behagen admitted performing 80 operations here in the last 18 months, although not having been licensed by the Missouri State Board of Health. Dr. Behagen is a British subject and faces possible deportation as a result of his activities in St. Louis.

FUGITIVE CUBAN MINISTER TO ENGLAND REACHES NEW YORK

Gen. Velez Escaped From Nassau in Disguise—Still Bitter Against President Zayas.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Gen. Carlos Garcia Velez, Cuban Minister to the Court of St. James, who has been sought by the Cuban police for six months, arrived in New York last night on the Essequibo from Nassau.

Dismissal of charges of revolutionary activities against Velez was announced in Havana, March 18. Upon his arrival last night the Cuban Minister declared unless the present Government was soon overthrown the Cuban people would call more than 100,000 armed men who were ready to rise in defense of the populace.

Gen. Velez declared the Government of President Zayas had countenanced graft in which millions of dollars had been stolen from the Cuban Government.

The diplomat admitted hiding in Nassau six months. It was ascertained that the General escaped from Nassau by boarding the Essequibo at midnight last Saturday, disguised in old clothing and wearing a heavy gray beard.

LABOR TO SWING AX ON USELESS BRITISH FORMALITY

Master of Horse to the King, Ancient Office, Will Be Abolished.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 21.—The ancient and honorable—and useless—office of master of the horse to his Majesty will be the first to succumb to the new Labor Government. The Marquis of Bath, the holder, has resigned and it has been unofficially announced the office will be abolished.

In the past the holder of the title has ranked as the third great officer of the Kings' court, and the appointment has always been regarded as a high honor. The master had to be a peer, a privy councillor and a member of the Government, which entitled him to a salary of $12,500 a year.

The office is of great antiquity predating the invention of the carriage. The master of the horse then claimed the privilege of holding the horse for his sovereign to mount. Nominally he had control of the equerries, pages, grooms and stable servants. Since the King and Queen took to motors his labors have lost even their nominalty.

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE

St. Louis Youth Transferred From Penitentiary to Reformatory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 21.—Gov. Hyde today granted a commutation of sentence to John Lewicki, 19 years old, transferrring him from the State Reformatory to the State Reformatory at Boonville to serve a five-year sentence for criminal attack. Lewicki was convicted in the St. Louis Circuit Court Feb. 23 last. He entered the penitentiary March 14 last.

Application for Lewicki's transfer to the reformatory was made by William E. Fish, attorney for Lewicki, and was recommended by Circuit Judge Calhoun before whom Lewicki was tried, and by Circuit Attorney Sidener.

UNLICENSED DOCTOR ADMITS CHARGES

Behagen Offers to Plead Guilty in Letter to Schweitzer, but Latter Will Prosecute Each Case.

Dr. Ernest Behagen, 33 years old, who faces trial on six charges of practicing medicine in St. Louis without a license, expressed a desire to plead guilty to the charges in a letter to Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer today, providing the punishment assessed would be a fine or deportation, instead of imprisonment.

The letter was written from the city jail, where Dr. Behagen is held. In it the doctor expressed a desire to plead guilty, because he "is guilty."

"I am throwing myself on the mercy of the Court," the letter states, "and promise to struggle to pay any fine that may be assessed and then leave town forever." The letter was apparently written without the knowledge of the doctor's attorney.

When the first of the six cases was called for trial in the Court of Criminal Correction today Dr. Behagen's attorney, Harry Russell, obtained a continuance until March 26. Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer announced, upon receiving Dr. Behagen's letter, that he would not accept the plea of guilty, but would attempt to obtain the maximum punishment, one year in the workhouse, in each case.

Dr. Behagen was arrested March 7 by Inspector Fishwick of the Health Department upon the complaint of Mrs. Viola Monko, 30, of 1903 Wright street. RUSSIA SENDING 20 TO LONDON

Rakousky Heads Delegation Going to British Conference.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 21.—Soviet Russia's delegation to the Anglo-Russian conference consisting of 20 financial, political and doplimatic experts, headed by Christian Rakovsky, soviet charge in London, will leave Moscow for London March 29. The conference, to begin the first week of April, probably will last three months. It will be opened with an address by Premier Macdonald, outlining the purpose and scope of the meeting.

Mr. Macdonald, it is indicated, will seek a favorable moment to ask clemency on behalf of the Pope for Archbishop Zpliak and the other imprisoned Catholic prelates in Russia, but it will admittedly be some time before this delicate question, which the Premier feels to have a direct bearing on Russia's internal policy, can be broached.

ACCUSED WOMAN'S NURSE'S DIPLOMAS UNDER INQUIRY

Bellevue Hospital Has no Record of Former Miss Marie Sylvia, Charged With Theft.

St. Louis County health and prosecuting authorities today continued their investigation as to the sources of two diplomas held by Mrs. Harry J. Goldman, a nurse, residing at 5803 Highland avenue, whose authenticity is doubted.

Mrs. Goldman, who is said to be attending a case at Ste. Genevieve, Mo., is under $1000 bond to answer charges of grand larceny growing out of her employment at the home of Ernest J. Weis of Overland from Jan. 27 to Feb. 5. She was arrested March 6, charged with appropriating cash and household articles valued at $51.

One of the diplomas, which enabled her to register as a trained nurse at the Physicians and Surgeons' Exchange, 3931 Castleman avenue, attested to her having been graduated after a 40 months' course in the nurses' training school of Bellevue Allied Hospitals, New York City, May 24, 1919. The second attested to a three years' course in the State Hospital for Mental Diseases at Howard, R. I.

In answer to an inquiry made by Miss Margaret McKinley, in charge of the Central Directory of Nurses, of St. Louis, a letter was received yesterday from Bellevue Hospital, in which it was stated no record of Mrs. Goldman's attendance or graduation was found. In 1919 she was known as Marie Elvina Sylvia, her maiden name.

$2,866,058 INCREASE IN CITY BUDGET SOUGHT

Estimate Board Begins Hearings on Demands of Municipal Departments.

An increase of $2,866,058 in the demands of city departments, over the appropriations made for them last year, confronted the Board of Estimate and Apportionment when it met today in the Mayor's office, for the first of a series of hearings on the municipal budget for 1924.

The total of appropriations for the departments last year, exclusive of bond interest and sinking fund payments, was $16,947,534.71. This year the same departments demand $19,813,593.66.

The Police Department, to which under a State law, the city cannot refuse to give what ever apprpriation it demands, is demanding $4,320,000 or $328,000 more than its last year's appropriation. Fifty men have been added to the department during the year.

The Fire Department is asking $1,899,962, or $60,679 more that it received last year. This does not take into account the firemen's request for increased pay. If the lowest incerase proposed, $10 a month for each fireman is granted, $108,000 a year more would be needed. The Bureau of Municipal Research has recommended, under certain conditions, that an increase be granted to the firemen.

The city institutions are asking more, in all cases, than they received last year, and the total of increases demanded for the institutions is about $627,000 The city hospital asks $151,000 increase, and the sanitarium an incerase of $214,000.

The oBard of Aldermen will fix the annual tax rate later, its action being taken usually on the recommendation of the Board of Estimate. As has been told, fiscal officials of the city have said that they see no way to make the rate for municipal purposes less than $1.27 on the $100, which was last year's rate. If the bond issue program is carried forward to the extent of $5,000,000 this year, a higher tax rate for bond interest will be necessary, and this would add 4 cents to the total city, state and school tax, increasing it from last year's rate, $2.43, to $2.47. If the Board of Education exercises its right to demand an increase rate, the total may rise as high as 2.55.

At today's budget hearing, several pleas for increased appropriations for various objects were heard. No one appeared to ask a reduction in expenditures anywhere.

The Municipal Nurses' Board presented a request for $87,000, or $11,000 more than last year, to permit the employment of more nurses and clerical help, and additional supervision. A business men's committee asked that the advertising appropriation be increased from $25,000 to $60,000. This appropriation is spent in connection with an equal or larger amount contributed by business organizations. The World War Registrars asked that a soldier memorial highway be established on the South Side, and that new gold stars bearing names of soldiers killed in the war be placed along the curb of the memorial court on North Kingshighway. A committee of physicians urged pay increases for physicians in the city's employ. The musicians' union asked for a full $16,000 appropriation for park and institution concerts this summer, only $7000 having been spent last summer. The Junior Chamber of Commerce asked that $5000 be appropriated for downtown drinking fountains.

The second hearing on the budget will be held in the Mayor's office at 11 a. m. next Friday.

ROTARY WORKER IN HOLLAND

American Seeks to Found Clubs in European Cities.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1924.)

AMSTERDAM, March 20.—Fred Warrant Teele, special commissioner of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, is making a brief tour of Holland in order to found Rotary clubs in various towns. Last year he assisted in official admittance of the Amsterdam Club into the International Association. He lectured before the Amsterdam Club Tuesday on the situation of the Rotary movement in Europe. On Wednesday he went to Rotterdam in order to co-operate in the foundation of a club.

There are two Rotary clubs in Holland, Amsterdam and Utrecht, and preparations have been made at The Hague to found one there. Next week Teele, whose home is in Chicago, will visit Belgium and France for the purpose of founding a club at Bordeaux.

BRITISH FLEET TO BURN OIL SAYS FORMER NAVAL CHIEF

Amery Asserts Future Navies Will Be Complete, but Capital Ship Will Remain "Kernel."

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 4.—Prediction that the future British fleet would be oil burning was made by Lieutenant-Colonel L. C. M. S. Amery, former First Lord of the Admiralty, in an address at the Royal Colonial Institute recently. Replying to the Government on the Singapore base question, he admitted the increasing menace in air development, but insisted that the main defense of these islands as well as of the empire as a whole depended upon the maintenance of sea communications and that nothing but an efficient navy could maintain those communications.

Lieutenant-Colonel Amery declared that fleets of the future will each be a great complex with many forms of vessels, but the capital ship always will remain the kernel of the complex.

W. R. Semple's Funeral.

The funeral of William Robert Semple, 28 years old, who was a member of the Twelfth (St. Louis) Engineers, A. E. F., and who died of influenza-pneumonia at Plymouth, N. C., last Sunday, was held from an undertaking establishment at 4449 Olive street this afternoon, with burial in Valhalla Cemetery. Semple, who was a son of Mrs. W. R. Semple, 5067A Vernon avenue, had lived in Norfolk, Va., since his marriage a year ago. He was wounded in combat in France, July 27, 1917.

Moroccan Relief Chieftain Dead.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 21.—A dispatch from Gibraltar announces the death of the old Berber chieftain, Kaid Mahaou Said, who participated in the fighting against the French from the commencement of the occupation of Morocco. He was driven from Ksiba in 1913, but regained it and held out until April, 1922, when it was finally recaptured. Since that time he lived in retirement in the mountains.

25 Seconds will tell you why Chipso saves your strength

WE know what washday has meant for you.

That is why we have made Chipso.

Chipso is condensed suds. (No powder or fumes to make you sneeze; no shaving, no melting of cake-soap to waste your time.)

Twenty-five seconds from package to tub, and you are ready with a veritable mountain of cleansing bubbles—this is Chipso's magic new welcome to your clothes, and its kindness to your arms and back.

These tiny sprites of cleanliness find dirt and soil and carry them away from every fibre of your fabrics. Yet to the fabrics themselves, and to the colors, they are friendliness itself.

With Chipso your next washday will be different — a day of surprises — happier, pleasanter, shorter.

ECONOMICAL

For this new kind of washday, whether you wash by boiling, soaking, or machine, Chipso and water are all you need. And the cost is merely that of ordinary good laundry soap. Chipso gives its extra advantages FREE.

Your grocer has the blue-and-orange packages of snow-white Chipso in two large sizes—and such value in these packages! Prepare for a Chipso washday now.

INDEPENDENTS $200 TO $300 APART

School Job Cited in Which Organization Members Asked Twice as Much as Nonmember.

Since the St. Louis Planing Mill Men's Association established its listing bureau several years ago, bids on millwork by its members always have been nearly uniform, sometimes being within $1 of each other, while the bids of non-members usually varied $200 or $300 or more, R. B. Sanguinet, for many years an architect and builder here, testified today in the State's anti-trust prosecution of the Mill Men's Association.

Sanguinet's testimony was given before Commissioner Dorsey W. Shackleford of Jefferson City in a hearing at Hotel Statler which opened at 10:20 a. m. and ended early this afternoon and which marked close of the State's testimony in chief against the Mill Men. In this prosecution Attorney-General Barrett is being assisted by Assistant Attorney-General Henry Davis. The next hearing, at which the defense will begin offering its evidence, will be held at Hotel Statler at 10 a. m., April 21. This case was instituted in the State Supreme Court early in 1921.

Sanguinet declared further that prices by members of the association nearly always are higher than those of non-members.

How the millwork for the Susan R. Buder School building, erected here in 1920, was furnished by a nonmember of the St. Louis Planing Mill Men's Association for less than half of the amount bid by either of the two planing mills of the association which submitted offers, differing from each other by less than 3 per cent, was told by Herbert Goldsworthy, secretary of the Murch Bros. Construction Co.

Bids on Day of Opening.

Millwork on the Buder School was to be a subcontract, under plans of the Murch concern, Goldsworthy testified. But up to 3 p. m. on Feb. 2, 1920, on which date the Board of Education was to open bids for the general contract, his company had received no bids from planing mills. For protection against such a contingency he had estimated the millwork at $20,000 in the general bid.

This figure he had obtained by doubling the $7000 which millwork put into the Scruggs School, a similar building erected several years before by the Murch company, had cost, and adding a round sum to care for additional items which had to go into the Buder School building.

Offer by Telephone.

Just before he started over to the Board of Education office to the bid opening he received a telephone bid of $39,810 from the Fox Bros. Manufacturing Co., a member of the mill men's group, and that same day got a bid of $38,447 from the Riddle-Rehbein Manufacturing Co., another member, the witness said.

Murch Bros. got the general contract for the Buder School and about two weeks later let a subcontract for the millwork to the Claes & Lehnbueter Manufacturing Co. for $17,927.

"How was the quality of millwork supplied by your subcontractor?" Goldsworthy was asked.

"We have received no complaints," he answered, later adding, "It was a very fine piece of work."

Under cross-examination Goldsworthy admitted that the rafters ends and stair rails for the Buder school had not been furnished by Claes & Lehnbueter, but were purchased from other firms at an aggregate of $2687, bringing the total cost of the millwork in the Buder school to $20,614.

About Cost of Oak Lumber.

Attorneys for the mill men wanted to know if Goldsworthy didn't know that oak lumber, of which a large quantity was required for the mill work in the Buder School, had advanced from $70 a thousand feet at time of erection of the Scruggs School to $350 a thousand at the time the Buder School was built. He replied he did know that, although familiar generally with lumber markets and with the fact that cost of both lumber and labor had advanced in the period described.

W. C. Aulepp of the Claes & Lehnbueter firm confirmed the fact that it had furnished the millwork on the Buder School at the price given.

R. M. Milligan, an architect who for ten years has been commissioner of buildings for the Board of Education, presented for the record the plans and specifications for the Buder School.

COOLIDGE MORGAN'S CHOICE, SAYS JOHNSON

Californian Declares Effort Is Being Made to Drag U. S. Into League of Nations.

By the Associated Press.

MITCHELL, S. D., March 21.—Hiram Johnson, candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency, declared in an address here last night that Calvin Coolidge is the hand-picked candidate of the J. P. Morgan interests, who, he said, are seeking to drag the United States into the World Court, which, he declared, was merely a subterfuge through which they hoped to force the United States into the League of Nations.

The Senator declared that every Republican leader in Congress stood pledged for adjusted compensation, and predicted that the bonus bill would be passed finally at this session.

He asserted that the Mellon tax plan was designed especially for the very rich, and challenged Secretary Mellon to say how much he would save in income taxes each year through the plan.

Johnson reviewed the Teapot Dome oil scandal and declared that, unless Republicans "cleaned house" soon, the people themselves would take over the task.

Charges Coolidge Men Helped La Follette in North Dakota.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 21.—A declaration that the Coolidge campaign management had given great impetus by its methods in North Dakota to a third party ticket headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette and a charge that the Coolidge forces were secretly active in the "sticker" campaign for Senator La Follette were combined in a statement issued today by Harold T. Ickes, Illinois campaign manager for Senator Hiram Johnson.

Ickes charged that the Coolidge forces spent $25,000 in furthering the use of stickers bearing the name of Senator La Follette, which were pasted on the ballots which otherwise carried only the names of Coolidge and Johnson.

"The Coolidge management can congratulate itself," said Ickes in his statement commenting on the North Dakota preferential primaries, "for having given a tremendous impetus to a third-party movement with Senator La Follette as its candidate.

"Assured that they could not win enough votes for Coolidge in a straight fight, they worked to divide the opposition between Senator Johnson and Senator La Follette.

"I understand the Coolidge managers spent $25,000 in the sticker campaign in behal fof Senator La Follette."

STOCKHOLDERS WHO PAID ON FIRM'S DEBTS SUE OTHERS

Seek to Compel Group of Four to Pay Proportionate Share of Obligations.

Twelve stockholders in the Mississippi Valley Trading and Navigation Co., an exporting company formed in 1919 and which closed operations in 1921 with debts of $73,564, filed suit in the Circuit Court today against four other shareholders to compel payment of their full stock subscriptions and proportionate share of the debts.

The defendants named were Charles E. Sharp, who paid $250 of his $2500 subscription; the C. F. Blanke Tea and Coffee Co., which paid its $5000 stock subscription, but nothing on the debts; similarly, the St. Louis Boat and Engineering Co., which paid its subscription of $5000, and Charles E. Sutter, who paid his subscription of $200, but nothing on the debts.

The plaintiffs, who alleged they have paid for all their stock and share of the debts, were headed by Frank C. Rand, who subscribed $25,000. The others were F. Earnest Cramer, John F. O'Neil, Louis H. Waltke, Otto H. Karbe, T. W. Van Schoiack, E. P. Lampkin, A. C. Lueking, W. E. Carlton, J. H. Conrades, T. O. Moloney and E W. Handlan. The petition also recited that $1000 worth of stock, subscribed by the late Joseph W. Folk, was paid for, along with $400 as his proportionate share of the debts.

WOMAN'S EFFORT TO COLLECT JUDGMENT OF $970 FAILS

Wife of Samuel Gibstine Claims Ownership of Property Levied on by Mrs. Sophia Mednik.

A judgment for $970 which Mrs. Sophia Mednik of Los Angeles obtained in 1915 against Samuel Gibstine of 5592 Waterman avenue failed of satisfaction this week, when she levied on the household furniture, and today her attorney filed suit asking that title to four pieces of property, held in the wife's name, be transferred to that of the husband.

Deputy Sheriff Julius Goldsmith on Wednesday served the writ of execution against the household goods, and remained at the home overnight. Yesterday Mrs. Gibstine visited the Sheriff and declared that the furniture, valued at $8000, was her own individual property, and not owned jointly by her husband. The Sheriff then released the writ.

In the suit filed today Mrs. Mednik alleges the Waterman avenue property and property at 4540 Lindell boulevard, at Union and Delmar boulevards and in Goodfellow avenue, was transferred by the husband to the wife to escape the judgment.

Irish Union Expels Larkin.

By the Associated Press.

MAN AT FIRST STATE WITNESS IN CASE INDICTED

Thomas Hyde, One of Two Men Held for Schaefer Murder Once Questioned by Grand Jury.

MAKES IMMUNITY A DIRECT ISSUE

Circuit Attorney Says Some Decision Uphold Theory He Can't Be Prosecuted, Others the Reverse.

A test of the ruling that testimony before a grand jury gives the witness immunity from indictment by that body in connection with the case his testimony relates to, may result from an indictment returned yesterday charging two prisoners with the murder of John Edward Schaefer in his delicatessen store at 1811 South Thirty-ninth street, March 10.

Those indicted were Edward Kummer, 26 years old, of 3521 Caroline street, who has been identified as one of two robbers involved in the murder, and Thomas Hyde, 20, of 3149 Pestalozzi street, who has been identified as having been in Kummer's company shortly after the murder, and near the Testified Before Grand Jury.

Hyde was at first considered a State's witness, having given testimony at the inquest that Kummer and Thomas O'Toole, 18, of 2913 Caroline street, the third prisoner in the case, had been together an hour before the murder, and again afterwards. He also testified before the grand jury, presumably to the same effect. The police at that time believed Hyde was telling the full truth, and, thinking he would be a valuable witness, insisted on his appearance before the grand jury, over the Circuit Attorney's objections.

Circuit Attorney Sidener said today that legal decisions on the question of immunity were close, there being some upholding the theory and others holding against it. The indictment of Hyde is regarded as a "safety first" measure to hold him, and Sidener said he could be indicted again by the next grand jury, which convenes next month, if counsel for Hyde institute proceedings to test the theory.

Hyde was arrested after a witness who was expected to identify O'Toole described Hyde as the man he had in mind; later he identified Hyde. Kummer was identified by a woman clerk, who, with Schaefer's wife, was held up in the delicatessen first, after which Schaefer entered the room and was shot by one of the intruders.

O'Toole Not Indicted.

The grand jury yesterday voted a "not true" bill against O'Toole, since it found no evidence warranting an indictment against him.

O'Toole was ordered released by Circuit Judge Hamilton today, in sustaining an application for a writ of habeas corpus, and O'Toole left the courtroom free. The proceedings were instituted yesterday and hearing postponed till today so that the State could file an answer, in which it was declared O'Toole was being held for investigation at the direction of the grand jury. This was held not to be a legal reason for detaining him.

Kummer, Hyde, O'Toole and two other men were arrested in a restaurant in a police roundup of suspects after the murder. They had been at a party at the home of O'Toole's brother until an hour or more before the murder.

SCHOOL GIRL ENDS LIFE; YOUNG GROCER ARRESTED

Clay County Man Accused of Statutory Offense Decides Not to Seek Bail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LIBERTY, Mo., March 21.—Lester Holtzclaw, 24 years old, grocer in Maple Park, who was arrested yesterday afternoon and charged with a statutory offense in connection with the suicide of Mary Ellen Simpson, 14 years old, will not seek bail. She was a pupil in the Moscow school.

This was decided last night, following a conference between the grocer and his father, John Holtzclaw, who advised the son to make no attempt to give bond at this time.

"You are safer where you are," the elder Holtzclaw is said to have told his son.

The girl shot herself while at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ruth Owens, in Maple Park.

A note, addressed to her mother, Mrs. Henderson Simpson, was found at her side. In it she said "Goodby" to Holtzclaw's younger brother, Willard. Lester Holtzclaw is said not to have been mentioned in the note.

Lester was arrested as he was about to board a car for Excelsior Springs. He was arraigned before a Justice of the Peace and pleaded not guilty.

REVOLVER FOUND IN OVERCOAT

Tracing the movements of William T. Longo, Hogan gangster, before he was shot five times at Sixth and Wash streets Tuesday night, detectives went to a restaurant at 417 Washington avenue at 2:30 a. m. today. Longo had been in the restaurant shortly before he was shot.

Seven Italians, three with their coats off, were found seated around tables this morning. A loaded revolver was found in an overcoat hanging near them. All denied ownership of the overcoat or revolver and all were arrested, booked for investigation. One lives half a block from the place where Longo was shot.

AFTER WEALTHY BOOTLEGGERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, the only woman collector of internal revenue, set out yesterday to make wealthy bootleggers come through with income taxes.

John Torrio, Terry Druggan, Dion O'Bannian and Frank Lake, who are said to have made great fortunes in the last few years through real beer, will have to explain their bank accounts. She has obtained subpenas for the bank officials and their records. The men named have several automobiles each and Druggan lives among the millionaires on the Lake Shore Drive.

REPUBLICAN WARD MEETINGS CHOOSE UNTIED DELEGATES

State Party Leaders Will Endeavor to Name Uninstructed Delegation at Springfield Convention.

WANT TO BE READY FOR EVENTUALITIES

Politicians Would Be in Position to Make Deals if Any Change in Situation Occurs.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Through the action of the Republican organization in St. Louis in the ward mass meetings in the 28 wards last night, in putting through a program for uninstructed delegates to the Republican State convention in Springfield, April 29, there is an indication of a determination to attempt to prevent instructions in the State convention for President Coolidge or for any other candidates.

It is the old political game, planned and carried out in 1920, when party leaders in advance of the national convention were dealing with representatives of former Gov. Lowden of Illinois. These deals brought nearly $40,000 into Missouri for distribution by National Committeeman Babler and E. L. (Liv) Morse to politicians throughout the State.

Present Situation.

There has been no indication up to the present time that there will be any candidates' campaign funds in sizeable amounts this year, but practical politicians see possibilities for use of an uninstructed delegation in the convention should there develop a change in the situation, which would be out of the question if the delegation was instructed for a particular candidate.

Just now there is only Coolidge sentiment, but it is not strong enough in St. Louis or among the Morse element of the party in the country to be unsusceptible of change. There is no likelihood, however, of an attempt by Missouri politicians to control delegates for Hiram Johnson. So, all in all, Missouri probably will have a delegation friendly to Coolidge, though it may not be instructed for him.

In the view of the practical politicians an instructed delegation cannot be handled in the convention, while an uninstructed delegation can be, and to be prepared for any eventuality they are not knowingly overlooking any opportunity to keep the reins in their own hands.

The St. Louis organization is unfriendly to Gov. Hyde, who is directing the Missouri campaign for Coolidge, and who, after considerable dilly-dallying, came around to the support of Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon, chairman of the State Committee, for national committeeman to succeed Babler. Undoubtedly the larger part of the St. Louis delegation to the State convention will be used against Clements if the St. Louis leaders think they see an opportunity to defeat him.

Fights in Prospect.

This is an outside chance, the Hyde forces having been successful in controlling the district conventions so far held out in the State. Only two of these conventions have been held, however, and there are spirited fights for control in prospect in several to be held within the next three weeks.

The national committeeman will be elected by the 39 delegates to the national convention. If the anti-Hyde element can control the selection of district delegates in seven of the 16 districts and can control the election of the seven delegates-at-large to be chosen by the State convention they can defeat Clements. Otherwise, Clements will win.

Although Congressman Dyer is a candidate against Clements and has the indorsement of two of the three congressional committees in St. Louis, there was no effort to obtain indorsements for him by the ward meetings last night.

In choosing delegates to the State convention the Republicans did not follow the policy of the Democrats, who gave the women equal representation with the men on the delegations. While women were placed on nearly all the ward delegations, they were in the minority and will not have equal representation with the men in the State convention.

Plans Work Smoothly.

With only an occasional word of protest, the meetings passed off according to prearranged plans of the ward committeemen, who had decided the names of the persons to be sent as delegates. In most instances the meetings occupied little more time than was necessary for the committeemen to call them to order, to entertain a motion to elect the slate agreed upon by the politicians, and to declare it elected.

In the Seventeenth Ward there was a motion for instructions for Coolidge, but this was quickly voted down.

INDICTMENT REFUSED IN SANITARIUM CASE

Attendant Had Been Accused of Beating 80-Year-Old Man Before Death.

Prosecution of Julius Rathke, an attendant at the city sanitarium, for an alleged assault on Alexander Young, 80-year-old attorney of former prominence, which was declared to have contributed to Young's death in the sanitarium Monday, was halted by the grand jury yesterday.

A "not true" bill was voted in the case, which meant that the grand jury found nothing to warrant return of an indictment. Rathke had been ordered held for homicide by a Coroner's jury Wednesday. The principal testimony at the inquest and before the grand jury was given by George T. Anguish, another attendant at the sanitarium, who declared that he heard Rathke speak angrily to Young about 1:20 a. m., March 8, then push or strike Young, who fell to the floor and suffered a fracture of the left arm. Rathke, Anguish asserted, ordered Young to get up and kicked the patient, after which Anguish rescued Young.

Assistant Superintendent Burdick, who is a physician, testified that the fracture contributed to Young's death, because of the patient's age.

Rathke, who made no statement, is understood to have had some informal punishment. He appeared at the inquest with a black eye, and Anguish indicated that he had inflicted this injury on his fellow attendant.

As was told exclusively in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, Young formerly was well known as a lawyer and follower of Democratic politics and was the law partner of two Governors and a Lieutenant-Governor. He appeared frequently at the Broadway courthouse wearing his old-fashioned "plug" hat and frock coat until taken to the sanitarium in October, 1921. He was buried yesterday in Calvary Cemetery. His widow lives at 4455 Pershing avenue.

GEN. ALLEN'S BOOK CITED IN ATTACK ON POINCARE

Communist Organ in Paris Quotes A. E. F. Leader in Deploring German Policy.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 21.—Extracts from the recently published book by Major-General Henry T. Allen, who commanded the American occupation forces in Germany, are published by the communist newspaper Humanite as the basis of a bitter attack upon the Government for "its policy of dismemberment of Germany."

The extracts are published under the headline, "Revelations of an American General Upon the Occupation of the Ruhr and Rhineland," and, the papers says, they throw "new light upon French intrigues in the Rhineland tending to the formation of a Rhineland republic for the purpose of crushing Germany."

Several quotations are selected to show that Gen. Mangin of the French occupation army informed Gen. Allen "how important it is for France that Germany be crushed," and another quotation is given to the effect that "Gen. Mangin again spoke lengthily on the creation of a Rhineland republic."

The newspaper then quotes from Gen. Allen's book his conversation with the American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, in which he says he told the Ambassador:

"The French attitude in the Rhineland is becoming more and more aggressive for the purpose of permanently keeping the Rhineland in their possession. I am convinced that Europe never will enjoy real peace so long as France is occupying the Rhineland."

Beer Runners Corrupted Police.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 21.—District Attorney Edwin A. Olson, in an address last night, charged that "50 per cent of the Chicago police force had been corrupted by beer runners before the Federal Government took action to close 16 breweries in the district." The Federal Government's closing the plants prevented the spread of corruption, he said.

chosen delegates to the convention. Mayor Kiel, National Committeeman Babler and Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, also were chosen delegates.

McJimsey Confers With Republican Politicians Here.

E. E. E. McJimsey of Springfield, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship in 1920, conferred with Republican politicians in St. Louis yesterday. He said the conferences had no particular significance and that he had "no political plans this year."

McJimsey saw National Committeeman Babler, Thomas J. Franks of Joplin, a member of the Republican State Committee, and Victor Miller, former president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners. Miller recently completed a tour of the State and is expected soon to announce himself a candidate for the nomination for the governorship. It was said by politicians that Miller unsuccessfully sought McJimsey's support.

ASSESSMENT INCREASE OPPOSED BY COUNTY

Officials to Present Objections Monday Before Equalization Board.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21.—St. Louis County officials will appear before the State Board of Equalization here Monday to state their objections to the $4,770,187 increase in assessed valuations of real and personal property in St. Louis County, recommended by the State Tax Commission in its report to the board.

The commission recommended the assessment of such property in the county be fixed at $130,197,019. The increases were on four items, but the request of St. Louis County for a hearing before the board did not state whether part or all of the increases would be opposed. Tax Commission recommendations are subject to revision by the Board of Equalization.

Changes Recommended.

In its report, the commission recommended these changes from the assessments returned by Assessor George M. Herpel for St. Louis County:

Town lots—Assessor, $69,359,220; Tax Commission, $72,827,181, an increase of $3,467,961, or 5 per cent.

Cattle—Assessor, $221,550; Tax Commission, $243,705, an increase of $22,155, or 10 per cent.

Hogs—Assessor, $56,980; Tax Commission, $74,074, an increase of $17,094, or 30 per cent.

All other personal property—Assessor, $12,629,770; Tax Commission, $13,892,747, an increase of $1,262,977, or 10 per cent.

Assessments of other items, in which no change was recommended by the commission, were: Land, $38,941,220; horses, $170,950; mules, $138,090; sheep, $1670; money, notes and bonds, $1,967,230; bank stock, $1,940,152.

Explanation Given.

Members of the Tax Commission today declared the assessed valuations in St. Louis County were relatively low compared to other counties, and defended the increases merited.

The assessment of $1,967,230 reported from St. Louis County on money, notes and bonds was declared to be very low, although no change was recommended in this item by the commission. In this connection, it was pointed out that St. Charles County, with a population of 22,828, reported an assessment of $2,193,615 on money, notes and bonds. St. Louis County has a population of 100,733, by the last census. Saline County, with a population of 28,826, reported an assessment of $3,934,110 on money, notes and bonds.

The request for a hearing stated Judge Daniel Sheerin of the County Court, Assessor Herpel, County Clerk Tiffin and others would appear before the Board of Equalization.

TESTIFIES SHE WAS PUSHED DOWN "SHOOT-THE-CHUTE"

Woman, Suing for $35,000, Alleges She Wasn't Ready and Was Injured.

Mrs. DeWitt Noble Rogers, 3936 Delmar boulevard, was chaperon to a party of young folks at Forest Park Highlands on the evening of Aug. 8, 1922. Entering Hilarity Hall, the chaperon was persuaded by her charges to "shoot-the-chute," but when she sat down at the top of the steep chute she decided not to attempt it.

At this critical stage, Mrs. Rogers testified today at trial in Circuit Judge Hartmann's Court of her suit for $35,000 damages against the owners of Forest Park Highlands, an employe gave her a push and she was plunged down the chute, suffering injuries to the spine and hips and nervous shock.

The plaintiff said she was totally unprepared to "shoot-the-chute" and that the employe shoved her to get her out of the way. Her injuries necessitated medical attention and absence from work.

The defense maintains that the alleged dangers of the "shoot-the-chute" are obvious and Mrs. Rogers should have exercised ordinary care. She went to the amusement park for thrills and the chute episode is one of them, it is asserted.

Mrs. Rogers is 49 years old and is a dietician at Hotel Statler.

DISORDERS IN PERSIA OVER DISCUSSION OF REPUBLIC

Monarchists Invade Parliament Despite Police and Pull Down Flags —Overthrow of Shah Demanded.

By the Associated Press.

TEHERAN, Persia, March 21.—The question of the establishment of a republic in Persia, discussion of which has been made the order of business in the Parliament today, led to disorders in and about the Parliament house yesterday.

Anti-republican groups forced their way into the Parliament chamber, despite armed resistance of the police, pulled down flags and flagstaffs and set upon advocates of the republican cause, plying their fists vigorously. Police reinforcements arrived and order was restored.

Telegrams are pouring in from many parts of the country demanding the overthrow of the Shah, now absent in Paris.

Inquiry Into Woman's Death.

An investigation has been ordered into the case of Mrs. Mary Lakinger, 25 years old, wife of Joseph Lakinger, of 4837A St. Louis avenue, who died at Baptist Hospital yesterday. Before she died Mrs. Lakinger named a midwife who had operated upon her on two occasions, police reported. The case was certified to the Coroner.

FUGITIVE CONVICT AT OLD FOLKS HOME

His Brother, Also Wanted in Michigan, Found Working There.

The Old Folks' Home, 6600 Washington boulevard, inserted "help wanted" advertisements in the newspapers last week. Among the applicants were two young brothers who jumped at the opportunity to get $30 a month and board. The younger one, who gave his name as Fred Kelly, 19, was to operate an elevator, and Jack Kelly, 21, mingled with the pots and pans in the kitchens. Their recreation included attendance at prayer meetings in the home.

Yesterday the police here received telegrams regarding Harry Bryant, a convicted robber who escaped on Feb. 20 from the Michigan prison at Iona, Mich., and his brother Fred Bryant Jr., who had driven an automobile away from Grand Rapids, Mich., without fully paying for it. They were believed to be at 6600 Washington boulevard as Fred, in an intercepted letter to his father at Niles, Mich., and signed "Fred Kelly," had given that address.

The telegrams advised that Harry was a gunman and would shoot. "Be careful" was the warning. Consequently when a squad of detectives went to 6600 Washington and discovered it was a home for the aged, they were surprised. They went inside, however, and succeeded in arresting the Kelly brothers, alias the Bryant brothers, without trouble.

The prisoners admitted they are the ones wanted in Michigan and will be taken back there. Harry became implicated in a highway robbery and was sentenced to one to five years' imprisonment. When paroled at the end of 14 months he reported to his brother, Fred, and the latter purchased an automobile to "occupy Harry's mind" while he was trying to "go straight."

Unfortunately for the brothers, an ex-convict "got religion" about this time and confessed a string of robberies, implicating Harry Bryant. Harry was given a sentence of seven and one-half years to 15 and in addition his parole was revoked. He escaped, after serving four months, on Feb. 20. He wrote to his brother, who hastened to him in their automobile, not thinking of the time payments. They came to St. Louis 12 days ago, answered the advertisements and became employes of the Old Folks' Home.

INDOOR CYCLING EXHIBITION

Demonstration to Be a Part of Made-in-St. Louis Exposition.

A demonstration of indoor bicycle riding will be a part of the Made-in-St. Louis Exposition which will be held at the Coliseum beginning Monday and continuing through Saturday. Two boys who have won championships in St. Louis contests will be featured in the exhibition.

Vechel Trammel, 16-year-old champion of a local cycling club, will show how stationary bicycles are used for indoor training. Charles Kennedy of the same club, who was winner in the Junior class of the city elimination championship at Fairgrounds Park last fall, will give an exhibition of endurance riding on the stationary bicycle. Both boys will then take part in a race which will terminate the exhibition.

Articles made and sold in St. Louis will be on display in more than 70 special booths. Entertainment features also are to be provided.

Germans Buy Expensive Art Books

LONDON, March 21.—Art dealers are said to be puzzled just now at a sudden invasion of Germans, anxious to buy expensive art books and pictures in London. The buyers are most insistent for impressionist and postimpressionist works, and apparently do not mind what they pay for them.

Gibbons and Carpentier May Come Together, if They Don't Make a Run-Away Match of It

Few Sore Arms in Brownie Camp; Rice and Ellerbe Have Crowded Ezzell Off Third Base

Williams Only Regular Who Cannot Throw Hard — Fritsch and Friel Jubilant at Showing of Sisler, Rego and Rice — Play Mobile Tomorrow.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

MOBILE, Ala., March 21.—There is not any danger of the Browns going stale or being over-trained this spring. Thus far there have not been two good warm days in succession, and as a result the players have not advanced as far as might be expected after three weeks in camp. Most of the regulars have been careful of their arms and Kenny Williams is the only veteran who is suffering from sore muscles in the throwing arm. He aggravated the injury reaching for the medicine ball, and in the two exhibition games he has just flipped the ball to the infield.

The youngsters knew that they were expected to show their stuff early and several ran into sore arms. Dick Hyland, the young southpaw pitcher, can barely throw the ball up to the plate. Tom Rich, who reported this spring after twice failing to appear at a training camp, acts like a pitcher and a smart one, but his arm has been so sore that he has not been able to throw anything but dew drop lobs over the plate. Other young pitchers have been handicapped. It was not until late last week that Grant began to show that he deserved consideration, and for that reason the prospects of the youngster are uncertain.

Veteran Pitchers O. K.

The veterans on the pitching staff are in better condition than they have been at this stage of previous training trips, despite the cold weather, which is a tribute to the good work that Trainer Tommy Bramell has done with the arms.

Davis, as has been told, actually is pitching in July form. He said yesterday that he felt that he could throw a ball through a brick wall.

Jimmy Austin deserves credit for Davis' advanced condition. Last year Davis almost ran himself out trying to get into condition. He chased flies in the outfield until his tongue hung out and then dogged around the park half a dozen times. The result was that his legs and body were hardened and conditioned, but his arm remained weak. This year Austin told Davis he just imagined that it took him a long time to attain condition and told Dixie to work entirely on his arm and to let the rest of his muscles get along as best they could. Dixie spent all his time throwing and his arm not only is strong, but he is displaying better control than he ever had before in the spring.

Bramell a Real Trainer.

Tommy Bramell is working hard with the Brownies. In past years the players never knew what it was to have their arms rubbed. Bierhalter used to tell them to take a flying dive into the lake whenever the older men suggested that perhaps a little massaging might be good for sore muscles.

But Bramell invites the boys to have a rub. Even the recruits are welcome to his services and Bramell has made a big hit with the boys. It is remarkable to see a trainer really train in the Brownie camp.

Business Manager Friel and Vice President Walter Fritsch watched the Browns work out in the cold wind yesterday afternoon. It was too cold for sharp infield work and the men threw carefully, most of the time being devoted to batting practice. Harry Rice, Frank Ellerbe and Simon worked at third base. Ezzell apparently has been eliminated from consideration as a third sacker. Or perhaps Sisler feels that he knows what Ezzell can do and wants to test the other men.

Rice Likes to Throw.

Rice disregarded the cold and was throwing across the diamond with all his power. His throws were low and accurate and he continues to show daily improvement in his work around the hot corner. Ellerbe also is proving his right to recognition in the battle for the job.

Friel and Fritsch were pleased with the work of Rice and Rego, the little Hawaiian, whose arm was in condition when he reported from sunny California this spring was throwing to the bases in brilliant style. His throws seem to go down without ever being more than five feet from the ground.

"I've seen catchers all over the states," said Friel, "but I never saw any catcher with a better throwing arm than that youngster has."

"Rego certainly looks like he will do," said Fritsch.

Both Friel and Fritsch are confident that Sisler will play first base regularly for the Browns. Simon, who was hit in the head by a thrown ball early in the week, was back in uniform, apparently recovered from the injury. Ed Cutting, first sacker, out for several days with a sprained ankle, also returned, leaving Pat Collins the only man on the inactive list.

After the game a dozen of the players went to a gun club to shoot clay pigeons.

There will be a practice game today if the weather is warm enough and for tomorrow the Browns will meet the Mobile team in the third exhibition game of the series.

Spectators May Keep Balls Hit Into the Stands Says Friel

MOBILE, Ala., March 21.

THERE will be no more fighting between ushers and spectators over baseballs while the Browns are playing at Sportsman's Park, according to a plan favored by Business Manager Bill Friel. Bill wants to let the spectators keep the balls as souvenirs, to promote good will.

"Balls lost that way really do us some good," said Friel. "Kids eventually get them and play baseball with them. Perhaps a ball will help some kid to be a good ballplayer, and perhaps one of the kids will help St. Louis win a pennant some day.

"Of course, the practice of keeping the balls cannot be justified, as they are the property of the club, but it's a sporting proposition, and I guess it gives the spectator a thrill to get a ball hit into the stands by Sisler, or Williams, or Ruth, or Speaker. Certainly a man who gets a ball is more likely to be a good customer thereafter than is the man who gets one and has an argument with an usher."

TILDEN TO QUIT AFTER 1924 UNLESS BAN ON WRITING IS REMOVED

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 21.—Positive declaration that 1924 would be his last year as a tennis player unless the ruling against writing for newspapers should be revoked, was made last night by William T. Tilden, here to take part in the national indoor mixed doubles tournament. Tilden said he would play with the Davis cup team this year, but that the rule against writing enforced by the Olympic Committee, made him ineligible to compete in the Olympic games for America.

He expressed belief that the Olympic Committee rule would handicap America in the Olympic games. "Just now there are several players in the first 20 who are writing," he said, "namely, the Kinsey brothers of California, Carl Fischer, the intercollegiate champion; Vinny Richards, Frank Aronson, and possibly Francis Hunter, now that he has bought a paper somewhere in the South.

"With these players barred from writing as regards the Olympic championships, the United States will not be strongly represented, especially as Billy Johnston has announced he will not be able to make the trip and Dick Williams is not keen to go."

Tilden admitted he might go to France for the Olympics, if the syndicate with which he has a contract releases him.

Ruth Hits Home Run.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—"Babe" Ruth, the home run king, tallied his first circuit drive of the spring exhibition series in a game yesterday between the New York Americans and the New Orleans Southern Association team, which the Yankees won, 14 to 4. Witt was on base when Ruth smashed the ball over the right field fence.

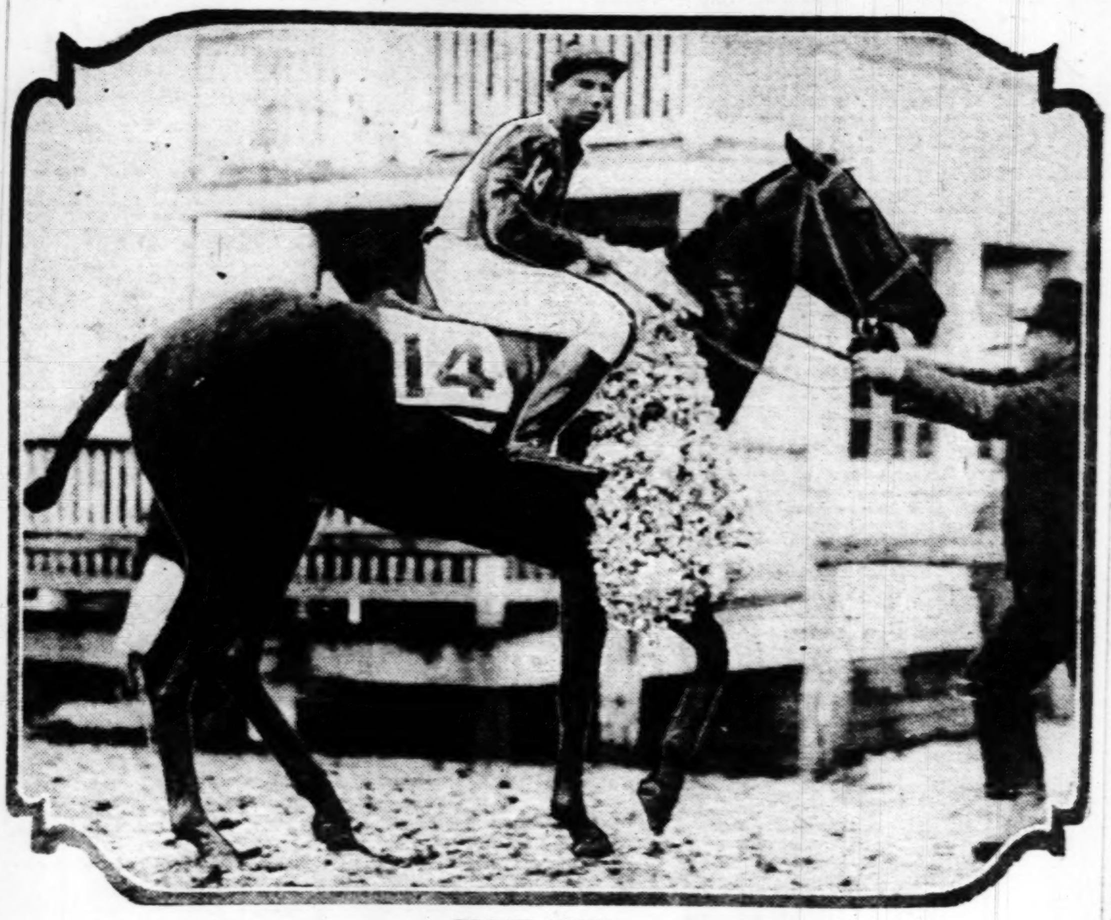
Winner of the Louisiana Derby and a Kentucky Hope



BLACK GOLD.

Owned by Mrs. R. H. Hoots and one of the well-liked third choices in future betting on the Kentucky Derby to be run May 17.

Black Gold picked up full Derby weight and merely romped home six lengths in front of the nearest contender in the $15,000 Louisiana feature, Monday. He is now 20 to 1 for the Kentucky classic.

He has started 20 times in his career, won 11, was second five times, third twice and was unplaced twice.

He started three times as a 3-year-old, won three times and broke a track record his first out.

He moves well in mud or on a pasteboard track and can carry weight.

He is by Black Toney, one of the leading sires of the Idle Hour farm of E. R. Bradley.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Why Discriminate?

THE Governor of Indiana thinks the proposed Carpentier-Gibbons bout is intended to be a prize fight and already has put his Number Nines down on the plan. The promoters say it will be a boxing contest and are going forward with arrangements.

Which seems to prove that Mr. Floyd Fitzsimmons ought to hotfoot to an alienist and have his head examined. Bucking a hostile executive with a fight proposition is about as safe as blowing out the gas before retiring.

The batting average of Governors on the war path aganist militant promoters is 1.000; and it is 100 to 1 the proposed Carpentier affair will not take place on Indiana soil.

As Michigan also made Mr. Floyd Fitzsimmons' boxing enterprises take it "on the lam," and has refused him permits for bouts on important occasions, the outlook for Georges going up against the Gibbons mystery seems remote.

Too bad. It was a fine opportunity for Georges to learn how the human hands can be tied up without the aid of ropes. In the matter of disarming a foe of Nature's weapons, there lives no equal of Thomas the Clinging Ivy.

A Queer Situation.

BOXING everywhere is in constant jeopardy because of the lack of an adequate definition of just what boxing is. Prize fighting, as referred to by irate Governors and horrified dorcas societies, harks back to the days of bare mauleys, turf rings and spiked shoes, when men fought for a prize which was usually a part of the side-wager made by some backer.

That form of fistic performance has passed. Imagine a fighter or his backer risking a counterfeit dime on himself today! It isn't done. Furthermore, there is no longer such a thing as a "prize fight," in the brutal, offensive meaning of the old term.

"Fight" Has New Meaning.

THE word "fight," which seems to cause all the offense, lingers in the vocabulary of the ring only as signifying earnestness of the effort, as distinguished from an exhibition. It means that the principals will not "pull" or soften their punches, but will go out to land so often and as hard as they can, but within clean rules and carefully prescribed limitations.

Applied to any contest, the term "fight" is no warrant for the belief that unsportsmanlike brutality will be on display. Even the knockout, at which the ignorant shudder, is more merciful than the constant pecking which a scientific boxer must inflict in case the "fight" or contest lasts the limit.

Quit Heckling the Sport.

BOXING has arrived at the stage where it has rights. With nearly 20 states legally countenancing contests, the right of a Governor to make his own interpretation of the meaning of "FIGHT" is extremely dubious. It is due the game or the business that it be accorded protection of the law which makes its existence possible.

As it stands today Governors in states with laws permitting contests have frequently prohibited events duly sanctioned and licensed. That sounds fully as legal as bootlegging!

They let a dubious pastime like wrestling survive unnoticed with all its aromas; but the legalized boxing game is hounded as if it were a crime in states that recognize it.

Home come, Judge?

Mazer Loses in Municipal Show

District A. A. U. Champion Outpointed—Public Park Boxers Win Bouts.

Boxers trained in public playground centers monopolized the limelight at the Municipal Boxing Association's amateur show at the Battery A Armory last night. Two Mullanphy Park boys won their matches and one Sherman Park product, Jimmy McCarthy, outpointed a National A. A. boxer, Bill Sincoff, in the final bout of the card.

One of the surprises of the evening was the defeat of Mickey Mazer, district A. A. U champion; by Sam Schneman, of the South Broadway A. C. The judges gave the verdict to Schneman after three fast rounds.

The results of the bouts were as follows:

60 POUNDS—Jimmy Bonzano (Mullanphy Community Center) defeated Chester Olszewski (Mullanphy Community Center), three rounds, judges' decision.

85 POUNDS—Roy Montgomery (Berry Street A. C.) defeated Irwin Katz (South Broadway A. C.), three rounds, judges' decision.

100 POUNDS—Virgil Kinkade (South Broadway A. C.) defeated Joe Cingo (Mullanphy Community Center), three rounds, referee's decision. Eddie O'Neil (South Broadway A. C.) defeated Newton Seals (Sherman Park Community Center), knockout, second round.

112 POUNDS—Jack Schiller (Mullanphy Community Center) defeated "Stormy" Caster (Berry Street A. C.), knockout, first round.

118 POUNDS—Sam Schneman (South Broadway A. C.) defeated Mickey Mazer (St. Louis Rowing Club), three rounds, judges' decision. Eddie Reith (St. Louis Rowing Club) defeated John McGee (Hillsboro, Ill.), three rounds, judges' decision. Tips Kendrick (Berry Street A. C.) defeated Alex Smith (Hillsboro, Ill.), knockout, first round.

160 POUNDS—Bill Simms (National A. A.) defeated George Sullivan (Jefferson Barracks), knockout, first round.

REFEREE—Harry S. Sharpe. Judges—Judge Robert W. Hall and Seneca Taylor.

Indiana Will Not Stand for Fight Governor Asserts

Carpentier-Gibbons Match Only a Boxing Bout, Promoter Will Contend.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Plans proceeded for a 10-round bout between Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, and Georges Carpentier, France, heavyweights, with Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, financially interested, on July 4, at Michigan City, Ind., despite the statement of Gov. Warren T. McCray of Indiana, that "there will be no prize fights in this State while I am Governor."

Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor, Mich., promoter, who says he has assurances from Dempsey of financial support, has deposited $5000 with a bank here for Carpentier's expenses. Another $10,000 will be put up by him in a few days. According to the promoter, Carpentier will sail for America May 1.

Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons, and Jack Curley, representing Carpentier, and Fitzsimmons will meet here Tuesday, to sign articles and post forfeits.

The promoter expects no interference from Indiana State authorities, since neither fighter is a champion and no title is at stake. The Indiana law permits boxing exhibitions.

According to the tentative terms, Carpentier is to receive a substantial guarantee, with a privilege, while Gibbons will take a percentage with no guarantee.

5 ST. LOUIS BOYS WIN ATHLETIC LETTERS AT ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

URBANA, Ill., March 21.—Sixty-seven emblems for athletic competion have been awarded by the athletic department of the University of Illinois.

Among those honored were a number of St. Louis boys. They were: A. Dixon, F. L. Kingsbury and S. L. Perlman, members of the gymnastics team, who received minor letters; F. J. Johnson and Dan C. Kinsey of the track team, who were awarded major letters.

STECHER BEATS ALVAREZ; JIMMY LONDOS VICTOR

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—Joe Stecher, former world champion wrestler, won two straight falls from Paul Alvarez of San Francisco, in their match here last night. Stecher won the first fall in 27 minutes and the second in 7 minutes.

Jimmy Londos won in straight falls from Joe Halmink, the first in 47 minutes and the second in 7.

Derby Favorite May Be Taken East to Be Conditioned in April

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 21.

IT WAS rumored in racing circles here today that John S. Ward would ship his stable of 21 horses, east, about the middle of April.

Mr. Ward has an expensive stable including the crack 3-year-old colt Wire Counsellor and Worthmore, and the 3-year-old filly Defiant, which have been entered extensively in all Eastern Stakes.

Wise Counselor has been named for the Preakness, Withers nad Belmont events. Report has it that Ward is not satisfied with conditions that have prevailed at the Dowes this winter. The spring has been backward and all the real training the horses in the Ward stable have received has been shed exercise.

Mr. Ward evidently is thinking of doing most of his racing in the East, this season, for he has not engaged a rider for Wise Counselor in the Derby.

Although it was reported that Earl Pool had been engaged, should the Ward stable move eastward in April, it does not necessarily mean that Wise Counselor will not be a starter in the Kentucky Derby, but rather that Mr. Ward thinks it will be a better climate in which to condition his big colt.

Lynch Choice to Defeat Goldstein

Bantam Champion Will Defend His Title Tonight at Madison Square Garden.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 21.—For the first time since December, 1922, when he won a decision over Midget Smith, Joe Lynch will defend his bantamweight crown tonight against Abe Goldstein, of New York, in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden. Lynch is favored to win.

The bout was booked following reinstatement by the State Athletic Commission of all boxers under ban prior to Feb. 13. Lynch was suspended after cancellation of a title fight with Joe Burman, Chicago bantam, last October.

Pikers Agree to Oppose Billikens For Olympic Fund

Arrangements for Basketball Game Expected to Be Completed Today.

APRIL 12 PROBABLE DATE

Contest to Be Part of a Carnival of Track and Other Events.

Plans for a Washington-St. Louis University basketball game, for the benefit of the Olympic fund, which have been hanging fire for some time, came to life yesterday when officials of Washington University notified C. S. Reber of the local Olympic Committee that although they had been opposed to playing such a game because the team had broken training and had several injured men on the squad, if the committee thought it for the best, the university would endeavor to put a quintet in the field and go through with the event.

The action followed an announcement by Bernard Hufft, a member of the committee, that Missouri University had wired its willingness to oppose St. Louis University, provided Washington University waived its right to the honor. The telegram from Director of Athletics Brewer added that the entire athletic department of the university was at the disposal of the Olympic Committee and suggested sending Keeble, the great hurdler, and Richerson, the shot-putter, both of whom are probable Olympic team members.

Athletic Carnival Planned.

Washington's letter to Mr. Reber contained a suggestion that the basketball game be part of an athletic carnival to include all sorts of track and field events, along the line of the municipal carnival conducted by Rodowe Abeken two years ago.

St. Louis University, which earlier had consented to play any old five, Washington included, gave out today that its offer still held good. Commissioner Reber is expected to close arrangements for the Coliseum today, the date desired being somewhere between April 8 and April 12.

"We'll Use Best Team"—White.

Coach Don White of the Washington University basketball squad, today told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the date April 12 would give him time to get his best team back in shape, in all probability.

"Minner and Wagener have been on the injured list for the last half of the season," said White, "but I think they will be able to play at least part of the contest against St. Louis University. The others will be Seago, Cox (newly elected captain), Weil, Lyle and Manning, all first string men.

"We will be out to win and hope St. Louis University has its best five in the field."

St. Louis University has a very strong five this year, and the match should be even. Washington opened its season by defeating Illinois; lost a close game to Purdue, and then won seven straight conference victories before it suffered a defeat. The team seemed to go stale and did not finish so well.

Will Be Asked to Meet Keeble Here For Olympic Fund

DAN KINSEY.

As one attraction of an athletic carnival planned for the Coliseum, on April 12, for the benefit of the Olympic fund, Kinsey will be asked to meet Keeble of Missouri and Blanchard of Washington in a hurdle event. Kinsey, a former McKinley High School boy, now at Illinois University, tied the world's record for the 75-yard event recently. Keeble set a new world's record for the 50 yards and Blanchard is right close to both men.

Cardinals Will Open Season With Veterans in Lineup

None of 20 Youngsters in Training Able to Gain Position as Regular — Third Base and Shortstop Are Doubtful Places at Present Writing.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 21.—While the Cardinals went South with something like 20 recruits early this month, it is possible that not more than 10 of this number will be in the squad when the Rickeymen break camp here the night of April 7, after a six weeks' stay in Florida. Which means that the Knot Holers will inaugurate the 1924 campaign with practically the same battle front they owned last season.

There is just one more chance for strengthening. That will come if Manager Rickey is successful in his effort to snare a catcher from one of the other major league teams. The Cardinals' catching is none too sound and Rickey will bend all efforts towards strengthening the position.

Present indications are that not a single infield recruit will be brought north, unless Lester Bell, who came up last fall from Houston and played in several clashes with the club, is rated as a newcomer. When the Cardinals lineup against the Cubs in the opening clash of the season, Bottomley will be at first; Hornsby at second; Lavan or Freigau at short, and Bell will without a doubt start at third. However, this depends greatly on how he fares in the remaining exhibition contests.

Two Infield Places Sure.

Then Milton Stock also must be considered. Stock is still a holdout, and consensus here is that nothing will be heard from him until a few days before the start of the season. Stock did not play up to his true form in 1923, but he may make Bell or any other athlete chosen to play the hot corner hustle to land the regular berth, if he finally decides to report.

This third base job at the Cardinal camp is one of the features of the early work. Bell has the call at present, but Blades, regularly an outfielder, at present on the hospital list, and Toporcer are also getting a whirl at it.

Bottomley and Hornsby are secure in their positions. They are star fielders and are the ranking batters on the club. In fact they supply the real punch for Rickey's aggregation.

Johnny Lavan, the veteran, who is going better this spring than he has in some time, is putting up a lively scrap for the regular shortstop berth with Howard Freigau. Freigau is an improved player this spring, especially in hitting. This was his real weak point in 1923. This spring, however, he is meeting the ball hard and punching hits to all fields.

Team's Outfield Is Strong.

There is another shortstop in camp, who belongs to the Syracuse club, who has made a mighty favorable impression. He is Tommy Thevenow, last season with Joplin. Thevenow, who is serving his second season in professional baseball, is a sensational fielder, greatly resembling Charley Hollocher in action. He has a good arm, can grab bounders on either side and is fast. The chances are, however, that a year with Syracuse will do him more good than if he were purchased by the Cardinals at the present time.

Bottomley, Hornsby, Freigau, Lavan, Bell, Stock, unless he is traded, and Toporcer will without a doubt constitute the Cardinals' infield strength this season. Should anything happen to Bottomley, Hornsby or Freigau can be moved to the bag. Toporcer plays a mean second base and this spring is playing far better baseball than he did a year ago.

The Cardinal outfield will be at least as strong as a year ago. Blades and Mueller, with an added year's experience, should be improved tossers. No one questions the ability of Myers, Flack and Smith. Douthit is a mighty good young prospect and a right-hand hitter. Then there is Joe Schultz about the best pinch hitter in the National League.

Vick First String Catcher.

And then come the catching and pitching staffs. From present indications, Ernie Vick, the former Michigan U. football center, recently obtained in a trade with Houston, will be the first string man when the season opens, unless a more experienced man is obtained. Clemons would be the choice, but he suffered a knee injury before the regulars reported and has been unable to work. He will hardly be in shape when the season opens. Niebergall will be the third string man.

The other maskmen, Howe, Farwell, Thomsen and Holm, need more experience before they will be ready for fast company. Howe looks like the best prospect and may stay for a time.

Two young flingers who hurled some good ball for the club last season are expected to carry a great portion of the burden this spring. They are Johnny Stuart and Eddie Dyer, a left hander. Stuart was with the team all last year, while Dyer was sent to the Texas League for a time. These two are almost certain to be regulars.

Jess Haines, who seems to have started where he left off last fall, will probably again be the "ace" of the staff. Bill Doak's early work has been impressive, while Sherdel figures to win his share of the games. Pfeffer seems to have taken a new lease on life. Toney has not yet reported and probably will not be ready for the April 12 opening.

Rickey May Take Frankhouse.

Among the others, Allan Sothoron, the former Brown, Wigington, Myrl Brown, ex-Pirate, Rhem and Holloran looks like the best bets. Rhem is a collegian who starred at Clemson College and owns a sharp breaking curve. Holloran, a semipro from the East, has made a very favorable impression.

There is another pitcher, now with Syracuse, who may be obtained by the Cardinals. He is Frankhouse, a right-hander, who last season was the leader in the Eastern Canada League.

Players Likely to Remain With Cards For Time at Least

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTOWN, Fla. March 21.

ALTHOUGH the Cardinals do not break camp here until April 7, it is possible even at this date to pick the athletes who will beyond a doubt come North with the club, or who will remain at least until the final cut to the 25-player limit is made.

Present indications point to the following athletes being retained until Rickey is forced to get down to the limit:

Infielders—Bottomley, Hornsby, Lavan, Freigau, Bell, Toporcer and Stock, if the holdout third sacker finally comes to terms.

Outfielders—Blades, Mueller, Smith, Myers, Flack, Douthit and Schultz.

Catchers—Clemons, Vick, Niebergall, Howe.

Pitchers — Haines, Sherdel, Stuart, Pfeffer, North, Doak, Toney, Dyer, Sothoron, Wigington, Rhem, Holloran and Brown.

Open Air Fight Game Will Be Resumed This Spring at Battery A.

JAMES SOLARI, who, with Harry Cook, conducts the Business Men's Athletic Association, stated yesterday that he had closed arrangements for the use of Battery A drill yard this spring and summer as a fight arena.

Although the gloom that settled down on professional boxing here, when James C. Mullen ducked in, turned around and went right out again, still lingers and the official countenance still remains glacial, Cook and Solari believe that they can revive the game and interest fans in their shows.

No dates have as yet been solicited by the Business Men's A. A. of the boxing body which of late has been about as active as a hob-nailed liver.

EPINARD TO BE SENT TO U. S. AFTER ASCOT GOLD CUP RACE IS RUN

Harris' Showing A Sad Blow to Old Teammates

Vesper Star Was Once Released by Chicago Soccer Team.

There was bitter irony in the defeat of the Chicago Bricklayers by the Vespers last Sunday in the Western final of the soccer cup competition. Loss of the game was especially distasteful because of the fact that Tom Harris, who scored three goals for St. Louis and thereby clinched the victory, was formerly a member of the Bricklayers and was released by them early last season.

In discussing the showing of Harris after the game, the Bricklayer officials and players expressed unbounded astonishment. "We thought, we had Harris figured to a nicety. We knew him as a 'weaver,' a schemer and a clever dribbler, but we never knew him to shoot goals. We had seen him play many games and when we saw him in the St. Louis lineup we knew we had nothing to fear. Whatever in the world has changed the man?"

A Failure at First.

Harris started this season with the Vespers as a center forward. He seemed to know everything about football except how to score goals. He was used in the first three cup games at center forward and scored not a single goal. Then he was used only in league games and was held out of two cup games, against the Scullins and against Harmarville. The reason was primarily the fact that he was lacking in "punch" although an acknowledged master at dribbling and passing.

And then, Manager McCarthy gave him another chance to break in as a regular. He was used at outside right in a league game and he banged through two wonderful goals. He was used again and he gave further proof that he had assimilated something of the St. Louis dash and ability to shoot on the impulse of the moment and at the slightest opening.

His showing against the Bricklayers was not especially surprising to those who had watched his steady improvement in league matches. The Brickies, knowing him only as a "weaver," left him open and he scored three times.

GLASGOW, March 20.—Airdrionians defeated Ayr United, 1 to 0, in a replayed game of the Scottish Football Association series at Ibrox Park today.

LAYTON STARTS DRIVE FOR FIRST PLACE, WINS EIGHT STRAIGHT

Johnny Layton has started his drive for the leadership of the national three-cushion billiard league. He has won his last eight games, defeating in turn Otto Reiselt, George Moore, on the road, and Harry Wakefield and Pierre Maupome in St. Louis. Bob Cannefax, the leader, continues to win, but Reiselt has fallen before the Layton onslaught and the St. Louis player has usurped second place in the standing.

Yesterday at the Layton-McEniry parlors, Maupome lost two games to Layton. The scores were: 50 to 24 in 55 innings and 50 to 42 in 51 innings. Layton had a high run of 10 in the afternoon match.

Reiselt yesterday lost two games to Cannefax at Philadelphia. The next league match here will be played next Wednesday when Reiselt calls.

Layton announced today that he will now begin intensive training for the championship play-off in April. He will meet all comers at 60-point matches, playing every day if possible.

Tiff Denton, reigning champion, broke even in two games with Harry Wakefield at Kansas City yesterday. Denton needed 86 innings to win his match, 50 to 43. The second game went 68 innings.

Cabannes Total 2796 in A. B. C.

St. Louis Five in Prize List—Freitag Rolls 727 for Second in Singles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Smashing in games of 920, 903 and 973, the Cabanne team of St. Louis rolled into the prize division of the American Bowling Congress tourney here last night. Seventeen errors held down the Mound City quintet's total. J. Yerkes and C. Bascom were the main offenders, the pair having six misses apiece. Fifteen splits also proved disastrous.

E. Wilder was the heavy sticker for the visitors. He had games of 223, 222 and 195 for a 638 total. Jake Pflueger came through with a 591 count and was second high man.

The scores:

J. Yerkes	164	162	208
C. Bascom	182	177	156
R. Hartnagel	158	158	202

BONDS RESPOND TO EASY MONEY; STOCKS QUIETER

Call Money on Exchange Reaches 2½ Per Cent, Lowest Rate Since April, 1918 — Further Rise in French Franc.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"Most of the markets moved within a narrow range today and testified to a complete lack of public interest and a general relaxation in speculative enterprise. Stocks were irregular from the start and produced a turnover of only about 600,000 shares. The shorts showed little inclination to follow up their attack of yesterday; there were, in fact, signs of covering in a number of directions. Meanwhile there was the same lack of selling for weak long accounts. Under these circumstances more attention was paid to bonds. These obligations continued to respond to easy money. Most of the Liberty issues made new highs for the year and strength extended to the better grade of corporation bonds. Call money on the stock exchange opened at 3 per cent and was lowered to 2½ per cent at noon. Save for one unrepresentative transaction in November, 1919, this is the lowest rate since April, 1918. Time money showed no further relaxation but commercial paper was slightly easier.

The Easy Money Situation.

"With money lending at such low prices unusual attention naturally was taken in the weekly statements of the Federal reserve banks. These showed that the system as a whole lost $16,300,000 in earning assets and reduced its circulation by $20,000,000 in circulation. The decrease in interest-bearing paper was due to a sharp drop in discounts, principally those secured by Government obligations. It was assumed in some quarters that this drop in discounts confirmed the theory that the cheapness of money is due to a slackening in business. As a matter of fact such an assumption is quite unnecessary. The Federal reserve statements generally show a substantial reduction in discounts just after a tax date. The loss usually is made good in the succeeding week.

"Current ease probably is due to a combination of circumstances. The Treasury has been increasing the circulation of gold certificates, an operation which diminishes the demand for other kinds of bank notes. Heavy gold imports have swollen our supplies of loanable funds. The efficiency of our industrial and transportation machinery has decreased the need for commercial credit. Expectations of tax reduction have prevented many persons from paying their income taxes in full. Not the least of the factors which are operating at the present moment is the remarkable smallness of the demands for money for specualtive purposes. The existence of these factors make it unnecessary to assume that business has slackened to any serious degree.

Commodities Are Quiet.

"The commodity markets settled back into stagnation. Liquidation in wheat appeared to have run its course and fluctuations were comparatively small. May closed unchanged at $1.05. Cotton moved over a range of about 30 points with more reports of bad weather in the South offset by slightly poorer week-end statistics. In this market the May future also was practically unchanged at a late price of 28.85 cents. Certainly speculative interest in these commodities has fallen to a low ebb.

French Francs Up.

"French francs resumed their advance, making a new high of 5.25 cents. After sagging back a point the net gain still amounted to nine points. The interesting aspect of the rise was the conspicuous absence of offerings. Actual business transacted was rather small. Spanish pesetas also were scarce and sold up to 13.06 cents. For the rest the market was distinctly quiet and generally firm. Sterling again held within a narrow range and gained of a cent at $4.30¼.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—The cotton market had a very tame opening, despite favorable cables and an unfavorable weather map showing general low temperatures and more rain in the eastern half of the belt. First trades were 5 points down to 8 up, new crop months showing most improvement. Prices eased off 3 to 10 points immediately after the call and then fluctuated aimlessly within the range of a few points. Traders were disappointed at the news the experts investigating the Government statistics will not report until Monday.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

Spot cotton was unchanged in St. Louis; Quotations: Good ordinary, 24.75; low middling, 26.75c; middling, 28.75c; good middling 30.25c; middling fair 30.75c.

East St. Louis & Suburban Co.

5% Collateral Trust Gold Bonds—Due 1932

Selling on the St. Louis Stock Exchange to Yield 8.30%

Through its subsidiaries the company operates electric railways in East St. Louis, the only electric line over the Eads Bridge connecting East St. Louis and St. Louis; and interurban lines from East St. Louis to Belleville, Edwardsville, Alton and intermediate points. In addition the company does the entire electric light and power business in East St Louis and Alton.

These bonds are secured by deposit of $6,883,000 bonds and $6,862,000 stocks of subsidiary companies, which makes this issue practically a first mortgage on these properties. A first lien on the company's earnings, which for the calendar year 1923, were nearly three times interest requirements on this issue.

THE NORTH AMERICAN COMPANY, one of the most successful utilities companies in the United States, controls and operates the company through ownership of over 99% of the company's $6,000,000 preferred and $7,000,000 common stocks, thus insuring able and efficient management.

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The stock market today left off about where it ended Thursday, after a series of inconclusive fluctuations. A good deal of short covering took place in the early part of the session, causing advances of a half point to a point in the leaders of the list. But when this demand had been satisfied, prices eased off again so that final changes were for the most part very slight.

Norfolk & Western broke sharply on the overnight rumor that the Baltimore & Ohio would protest the contemplated lease by the Pennsylvania on the ground that it would unduly strengthen a competitor. This took away the immediate incentive from the rail market generally, but there was no weakness. Northern Pacific dropped below 50. But this was an exception. Delaware, Lackawanna & Western ran up sharply on talk of another extra stock dividend.

New Orleans, Texas & Mexico continued strong around its high prices. Comparison of this stock with New York Central has been invited, now that a 10-point difference has been opened up between their selling prices. New York Central earned over $15 last year, while New Orleans, Texas & Mexico earned less than $9. Both pay 7 per cent dividends. The street is asking why, then, the stock of the Southern road should be quoted 10 points higher. An answer suggested was that New Orleans, Texas & Mexico has not been showing its true earning power, because of reported extremely liberal maintenance program.

With United States Rubber stocks at new lows and the dividend meeting right at hand the street is completely at sea regarding the possible action of the directors.

As the day went on, the main body of the list picked up. Chandler Motors, which sold as low as 49, rallied quite sharply, and there was considerable short covering in Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive and the steel shares.

Trading quieted down in the afternoon and in the last hour or so the price movement became uncertain again. Northwestern rail shares were offered down.

The Bond Market.

Bonds responded in vigorous fashion today to the phenomenal ease in money testified to by the lowering of rates for call funds to the lowest point since 1918. Several large trades running into the millions were reported privately transacted between institutions.

All the active United States Government loans made new high records for the year, the third 4¼s and the Treasury 4¼s both selling well above par.

All the Southern Railway issues were taken in large blocks with especial strength in Southern Railway general 6s. It was noticeable also that there was a better sentiment toward the bonds of the Northwestern railroads.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustments were strong. Missouri Pacific general 4s and 6s showed improvement, while Seaboard Air Line 6s equaled their recent high. New Haven 7s were strong again. There was active buying of Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s and refunding 5s and of Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4s and convertible 5s. Norfolk & Western convertible 4s reacted with the stock.

In the industrial list heaviness continued in United States Rubber bonds, both the 5s and the 7½s, in sympathy with the stock. Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7s and 7½s with warrants went lower. Wickwire-Spencer Steel 7s touched a new low on this movement and Cuba Cane Sugar 8s sold off fractionally.

Financial Notes

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—Resumption of 7 per cent dividends on preferred stock was announced by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of California at the close of the annual stockholders' meeting here yesterday. It also was announced that the company's deficit of $3,157,762 in March, 1921, had been transformed into a surplus of $908,085 at the end of 1923.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Directors of the American Cyanamid Co. have declared an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1, also the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the preferred.

CHICAGO, March 21.—William B. McKinley was re-elected chairman of the board and Clement Studebaker Jr. president at the first annual meeting yesterday of the stockholders of the newly formed Illinois Power and Light Corporation. All officers chosen when the company organized in July, 1923, were re-elected.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Gross income of the Radio Corporation of America increased from $14,830,856 in 1922 to $26,[illegible]789 in 1923, and net income for the same period jumped from $2,974,570 to $4,737,774, according to a report made public. The net income for 1921 was $426,799. Gross income from transoceanic communication on nine circuits was $[illegible]381,558. Gross sales of radio receiving apparatus were $22,465,090. The company operated 450 broadcasting stations in the United States during the year.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Representatives of the C. C. Mengel Co. of Louisville, Ky., announced yesterday they had signed contracts for 95 acres of land north of Baton Rouge upon which will be a million dollar hardwood manufacturing plant, employing 600 men.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The output of electric current for public use in the United States increased 58.4 per cent from 1917 to 1922, the Department of Commerce estimated today, in a report covering the five-year period. Private plants furnishing power only for special purposes, such as mining, hotels, office buildings and state institutions were not included in the report. The industry had an income in 1922 of $1,072,120,000, or 103.5 per cent more than in 1917, and paid wages of $212,433,000, an increase of 123 per cent in five years. The number of establishments was 6355.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Stockholders of the Consolidation Coal Co. have approved an issue of $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, to which they will be given the right to subscribe in the ratio of one share for each four shares of common now held. The proceeds will be used to complete payments for the [illegible] Valley & Elkhorn Railroad and to reimburse the treasury for other expenditures.

The Commonwealth Edison Co., Chicago, will offer present stockholders $11,[illegible] of additional capital stock with privilege of subscribing to 20 per cent. It was reported [illegible] dividend of 2 per cent will be paid

Capital stock of the Nashua Manufacturing Co. is increased accordingly.

Rea's Statement on Proposed Rail Lease.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—"The many rumors that are being published respecting a proposed lease of the Norfolk & Western Railway to the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. are pure guesswork," said a statement issued today by President Rea of the Pennsylvania.

"The situation at present is merely that committees of the respective boards of directors have been appointed to consider whether a lease can be made on a basis that would be mutually satisfactory to both companies, and if so, whether it can be made effective by action of the stockholders and meet with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Such negotiations and approval will undoubtedly require a considerable period before any definite conclusion can be reached."

CHANGES ARE SMALL ON GRAIN MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 21.—Grain futures held within narrow ranges on the local market. Liverpool wheat closed ⅝d off on the current delivery and ⅛d lower on more distant deliveries.

Prices were mixed and generally unchanged to lower at the close.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was scarce, in demand and 1c higher. Hard was quiet and steady. Corn was ½c to 1c higher. Demand was fair. Oats were steady to 1c higher. Demand was fair.

The early range of prices was narrow after the shade lower opening. Wheat was affected by the favorable weather conditions, while corn was oppositely influenced, owing to possible check on grain movement.

May wheat opened at $1.05; July wheat $1.05⅝; September wheat $1.06½; May corn 79⅛c; July corn 80⅝c and September corn 80c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 641 cars of wheat, compared with 575 a week ago and 649 last year, Minneapolis receiving 199 cars, Duluth 93 and Winnipeg 349.

Local wheat receipts, which were 36,400 bushels, compared with 44,200 a week ago and 58,800 last year, included 17 cars local and 11 through. Corn receipts, which were 68,600 bushels, compared with 86,800 a week ago and 96,200 last year, included 30 cars local and 19 through. Oats receipts, which were 40,000 bushels, compared with 94,000 a week ago and 208,000 last year, included 5 cars local and 15 through. Hay receipts were 23 cars local and 13 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators were 1,293,026 bushels of wheat, 1,065,046 bushels of corn, 370,967 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 90,414 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 316,230 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 137,837 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 350,172 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 103,898 bushels of No. 2 corn, 53,384 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 70,036 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 6342 bushels of No. 2 oats, 176,785 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 126,657 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 131,745 bushels of No. 2 rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were lighter than a week ago, and lighter than a year ago, being 533,000 bushels. Corn receipts were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 939,000 bushels. Oats receipts were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 390,000 bushels.

Primary shipments of wheat were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 451,000 bushels. Corn shipments were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 522,000 bushels. Oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 539,000 bushels.

Clearances were 27,000 bbls. of flour and 122,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

EASY UNDERTONE TO WHEAT IN TRADE ON CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Undertone in the wheat market was easy today. Long wheat came out on any of the rallies and this made the slight increase in investment buying non-effective. Local sentiment was still bearish, especially regarding the May, but most of the bears, it was said, felt that present prices are low enough, and they do not care to press the market. This was one of the causes of the reduced volume of business, it was held. Increased shipments by southern hemisphere exporters gave a heavy tone to the Liverpool market. There was no evidence of any betterment in the export business. Wet wather improved the condition of winter wheat and there was further precipitation over the Dakotas.

Local cash sales were 41,000 bushels wheat, 75,000 bushels corn and 23,000 oats.

Wheat closed ¼c higher to ⅝c lower, May, $1.05 to $1.04¾; July, $1.06¼; September, $1.07¼ to $1.07⅜.

Sentiment in corn has switched over to the bull side, but the bull had difficulty to maintain values, even at previous closing levels. There was no pressure to speak of. Light receipts and unfavorable weather in the interior restricting marketing from the farms were the bullish factors. Shipping demand showed a little betterment.

Corn closed unchanged to ⅛c lower, May, 78⅛c to 78¼c; July, 79½c to 79⅝c; September, 79¾c to 79⅞c.

Oats trade was quiet. Prices were a little easier in sympathy with other grains. Shipping demand was slow.

Oats closed unchanged to ⅛c lower, May, 47¼c to 47⅜c; July, 45⅝c; September, 42c.

Provisions started firmer and then eased off with grain.

Lard closed unchanged to 5c lower and ribs unchanged.

COTTON SESSION QUIET ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 21.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of six points on December, but generally four to 10 points higher on relatively steady Liverpool cables and an unfavorable weather map. The initial buying orders were soon supplied, however and the market turned easier after the call, with May reacting from 28.97c to 28.79c and October from 25.77c to 25.69c, making net declines of about four to nine points. No fresh factor was mentioned in connection with the selling which appeared to be chiefly for local and Southern accounts. General business was quiet and the market yielded under small offerings.

The decline later extended to 28.65c for May and 25.67c for October, making net losses of 16 to 24 points. The market then steadied on covering and there were rallies of 7 or 8 points from the lowest. Trading remained very quiet around midday with active months showing net declines of 9 to 15 pionts.

There was a little selling, but the market later turned steadier on reports of a better tone in stocks and covering. May sold up to 28.85c, and the market held steady within 5 or 6 points of yesterday's closing figures around 2 o'clock.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Spot cotton quiet; middling 28.90.

MIXED PRICE CHANGES MARK TRADE ON CURB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Trading on the curb market today was professional in character and price changes were a good deal mixed. Standard Oils were dealt in most of the time around the previous closing, and this was also true of the independent group. Standard of Kentucky was slightly higher, following the report for the year ended Dec. 31 last, which showed a net profit of $5,519,182, after Federal taxes, against $4,461,874 in the previous year.

Public utility issues were in demand again. American Light & Traction gained a point to 132½, while American Gas & Electric new was up a point to 58.

Publication of the report of the Radio Corporation of America for 1923 failed to affect the selling price of either the preferred or common. The report showed a balance after charges and reserves for preferred dividends equal to 4 cents on the common stock.

Professional operators who had been active on the short side of Dubilier Radio were disposed to take some of their profits, and buying of this character brought about an advance of over a point. Hudson & Manhattan and Hudson Co. preferred were bought on the favorable report of the former company.

Operations in the mining group were somewhat larger, but the price movement lacked significance. New Dominion Copper continued active around 2½.

Declines on Bourse.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 21.—Heavy selling orders from abroad continued to dominate the bourse today, provoking another precipitate decline in all foreign shares. The average fall of these stocks since the downward movement began has been 30 per cent, which is regarded in bourse circles as sufficient to wipe out the general run of individual speculators.

The panicky feeling was much more pronounced today. Intervention by the banks to arrest further collapse of the market was discussed.

Some of the biggest banks announced that they would accept no further operations in the future on the pound or dollar.

Gulf, Mobile & Northen Dividend.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Directors of the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad Co. today declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent on the cumulative preferred stock, payable May 15 to stock of record May 1. In two preceding quarters a dividend of $1 each was paid.

The dividend authorized today is the third to be declared on the stock. Accumulated dividends on the preferred stock on Jan. 1, 1924, amounted to 22 per cent after deducting 1 per cent payable Feb. 15 last. An initial dividend on the stock was paid Nov. 15, 1923.

Boston Wool Market.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, March 21.—Summer street wool markets were firm today, though business was relatively light.

HOG RECEIPTS LIGHT AND PRICES ADVANCE

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, Ill., March 21.—Receipts today estimated; Cattle and calves, 1000; hogs, 12,000; sheep, 400; horses and mules, 150.

CATTLE—Receipts were light here today and save for one or two lots of steers which were called 15c to 25c lower, there was no essential change in the market. Steers purchased for kill varied in price from $6.60 per cwt. for a common grade to $10, the top. A small bunch of light yearlings brought $8.50 and butcher cows were most numerous at $4.25 to $5.75. Cutter cows are now quotable at $3 to $3.75 and canners at $2.50 to $3. Bologna bulls are selling at $4.50 to $5.

Veal Calves—This market suffered a $1 slump, best bringing $10 and $10.25 as against $11 and $11.25 the previous day.

Quotations—Beef steers, range, $5.50 to $12; light yearlings, range, $3.50 to $12; butcher cows, range, $4 to $7.25; cutter cows, range, $3 to $3.75; canner cows, range, $2.50 to $3; bologna bulls, bulk, $4.50 to $5.

HOGS—Swine market opened active today with prices ruling 5c to 10c higher than Thursday. Receipts were light, the estimate calling for 12,000 head. The top advanced to $7.75, this being the highest price since March 11. The spread in prices was narrow, the large end of the butcher offerings on the early rounds clearing at $7.60 to $7.70, this spread also including the lightest grades from 160 to 180 pounds. Pigs were steady to strong, better weight kinds from 130 to 150 pounds at $6.75 to $7.25, medium weights, 110 to 130 pounds at $6.25 to $6.75, and light pigs and pee wees from 110 pounds and down at $5.50 to $6.25, some sales lower according to weight and quality. Packer sows were about steady at $6.50 to $6.60 largely. Stags showed no material change at $4.50 to $5.25.

WARRANT AT MONROE, LA., FOR FRANK J. BINZ OF ST. LOUIS

Violation of State Law Governing Gas Production Charged to Associate of Chippewa Bank Cashier.

By the Associated Press.

MONROE, La., March 21.—A warrant for Frank J. Binz of St. Louis, president of the Monroe-Louisiana Carbon Co. of Hancock, La., against which company and official 20 bills of information were filed here several days ago in the gas investigation by District Attorney Garrett, was placed in the hands of Sheriff Grant yesterday.

The bills of information on which the warrant was based charged that the company violated the law regulating the production and use of gas in the manufacturing of carbon. The Ouachita grand jury, investigating alleged violations of the conservation laws, expects to complete its work within a few days.

Binz was associated in the Monroe-Louisiana Carbon Co. with Joseph S. Carr, cashier of the old Chippewa Bank, whose private operations have involved the bank's accounts to the amount of $710,000. Carr was active in promotion of the Louisiana concern and resigned as its treasurer and director after the closing of the Chippewa Bank. Carr's stock in the Louisiana company, of a par value of $72,000, was turned over to the State Finance Commissioner, with other securities, to apply against the shortage in the accounts of the bank.

Binz took over the duties of treasurer after Carr's resignation. Several other St. Louisans were interested with those two in the venture. Binz resides at 3508 Crittenden street. He is president-treasurer of the Binz Hide and Tallow Co.

INQUIRY INTO DUPLICATION OF U. S. BONDS RECOMMENDED

House Rules Committee Urges Investigation of Charges Involving Engraving Bureau.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Creation of a committee to investigate charges that millions of dollars' worth of Government bonds have been duplicated at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was recommended today to the House by its Rules Committee.

An investigation had been demanded by Representative King (Rep.), Illinois, who proposed, however, to have the House Banking Committee conduct the inquiry.

Charges of irregularities at the bureau were made by Charles B. Brewer, special attorney for the Department of Justice, who investigated conditions there and submitted the report two years ago to President Harding, which led to dismissal of 28 officials, most of whom have been reinstated.

Another House investigation will get under way tomorrow, when the committee authorized to investigate Shipping Board affairs will hold its first formal meeting. Chairman O'Connor of the board, Rear Admiral Benson, retired, one of its members, and President Palmer of the Emergency Fleet Corporation have been requested to appear. The committee intends to outline to the three officials a mass of information it desires as a basis for their investigation.

Railroad Detective Murdered.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., March 21.—While questioning a prowler on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, Martin J. Gaffney, a railroad detective, was shot dead today. He asked the stranger to accompany him to a nearby shanty. The stranger whipped a revolver from his pocket, fired three times and fled. A freight car attached to a train bound for New York had been broken open.

Dutch Negotiate With Russia.

By the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, March 21.—The second chamber yesterday rejected Socialist and communist motions demanding speedy re-establishment of political relations with Russia. Minister of Foreign Affairs von Karnebeck declared that acceptance of the motions would be imprudent inasmuch as negotiations were already proceeding with Russia.

Premier Took Steel Money.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, March 21.—Charges that Sir Richard Squires, while Premier of Newfoundland, received public moneys and also large sums from the British Empire Steel Corporation are sustained by the report of a committee which recently inquired into the Squires administration.

City News in Brief

THE ANNUAL DINNER AND BUSINESS meeting of the Missouri Forestry Association will be at Hotel Chase tonight. Dr. Hermann von Schrenk, president, will preside during the speaking program, which includes O. L. Munger of Piedmont, Dr. Milford Riggs of Ironton and W. W. Gillam of Barnett. About 60 are expected for the banquet.

INVENTORY OF THE ESTATE OF Adolph Dehner, 88 years old, who died Jan. 8 at his home, 3627 Hartford street, shows personal property valued at $50,688 and real estate with a yearly rental value of $5480. The whole estate, which was bequeathed to a son and daughter, is estimated at more than $100,000. Dehner formerly was president of a mill building company.

A VERDICT FOR $22,750 IN FAVOR of Mrs. Pearl Lane Potterfield of Maplewood, against the Terminal Railroad Association on account of the death of her husband, Earl W. Potterfield, a switchman, was returned yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Killoren's Court. Potterfield was fatally injured in a switching accident in the Terminal yards Feb. 4, 1922.

FIRE OF UNDETERMINED CAUSE damaged the shoe store of Tober & Siebman, 5812 Easton avenue, $1000, at 11 a. m. yesterday.

MRS. MARIE FERNANDEZ LED HER family of seven children to safety from their home at 7511A South Broadway at 12:10 a. m. today when the place became filled with smoke from a fire in the shoe store on the first floor. The family fled in scant attire and obtained shelter in the homes of neighbors. The cause of the fire was not determined. The damage to the shoe store, owned by Jacob Rosenthal, was estimated at $2500.

ROLLA STUDENTS INSPECT INDUSTRIAL PLANTS HERE

Group of 12 Students in Junior and Senior Classes in City.

A group of 12 students in the junior and senior classes at the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla are this week visiting industries, public utilities and engineering plants in St. Louis and vicinity on an inspection trip in connection with their work. This is the first time the trip has been taken, but it will probably become an annual one, according to Joseph P. Butler, assistant professor in civil engineering at the school, who is in charge of the party.

The students have already seen the waterworks at Chain of Rocks, railroad viaducts, cement plants, buildings in the course of construction, the Cahokia plant of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., the Eads and Municipal Bridges, and the city garbage incinerator.

Today steel plants and other industries on the East Side will be visited, and the inspection will end tomorrow with a tour of the Scullin steel plant and a trip to Forest Park to observe bridge and road construction.

For Your Spring and Summer Outings

Our reputation and success is our guarantee for square dealing and honest representation. With our complete organization we are enabled to offer the best values in used cars because—First: We accept as part payment on new Hupmobiles, only those cars that we know can be reasonably priced after being put in salable condition. Hupmobile sales do not depend on "long" trades, and we allow full value for each car traded in.

Second: Our shop is under strict supervision of a very capable superintendent, who is constantly on the job to see that there is no lost motion, thereby keeping used car overhauling jobs down to a minimum. Third: Our prices are all figured on quick sale, which accounts for reasonable prices on cars offered for sale. Liberal terms can be arranged for all responsible buyers.

As we cannot keep every make and model of the most desirable cars at all times, NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY—while the selection is large.

A few of varieties are:

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

LUELLA.—Consult your pastor regarding the "Divinity of Christ."

JACK.—Inquire of the railroad regarding their ground east of Gray Summit, Mo.

S. H.—C. C. S.—We do not publish business addresses in this column.

M. A. A.—One can subscribe for a farm journal through any of the news companies or book shops. Inquire among them.

W. A. S.—You had better turn the badge into the police as you could be held for false pretenses if you made use of it improperly.

W. B.—William Jennings Bryan never received more popular votes than his opponent in any presidential election. The figures in the 1896 election are: McKinley 7,935,638, and Bryan 6,467,946.

P. E. W.—The material required to build a wall 16 feet long, 7 feet high and 6 inches thick, 1:2:4 mix is as follows: Thirteen sacks of cement, 1 cubic yard of sand and 2½ cubic yards of gravel.

IN DOUBT.—An emperor is the sovereign of an empire; a title considered superior in dignity to that of king. (2) A king is the sovereign male ruler of a kingdom. (3) A sultan is a Mohammed or sovereign ruler; especially with the definite article, the sovereign of Turkey, who was at once a temporal autocrat and the recognized calif, or successor of the Prophet, for the Ottoman world. (4) A Khidy is a spiritual and supernatural prophet endowed with omniscience and omnipotence on the earth; the coming Mahdi. (5) A Calif is a successor or vice-gerent of Mohammed; the spiritual and civil head of a Mohammedan state. (6) The mikado is the sovereign of Japan; a title used chiefly by foreigners, rarely by the Japanese, except in poetry.

I. M. CURIOUS.—A delicacy which is appreciated by all good eaters and which is raised successfully only in France is the truffle. The best and most abundant of them are found in Perigord. They grow in the ground without leaves or stalks. Nothing reveals outwardly a bed of truffles. The manner which has been adopted as the only sure one for detecting their presence is to hunt them out with dogs, or better with a special breed of pigs, trained for the purpose, and who will follow the scent of the truffle as a bird dog does that of his prey. It is the pig which uncovers the truffles, digging down into the ground until he finds them. Truffles cannot be planted; they must be cultivated indirectly. In the truffle region there are oak trees. An acorn from one of these trees is put in the ground, not far from their roots; four years later, when the acorn has sprouted and begun to grow into a young oak tree, truffles will be found near it.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

X. X.—If she left him without good cause ,then she cannot get a divorce.

E. L. S.—You will have to hold the roomer's baggage for 90 days, and then sell it at public auction, first mailing a notice to the owner, and posting three notices in three public places.

REBEW. — Legally you are entitled to the money and if your mother refused to give it to you, you could file suit for it. You do not state any ground on which she could sue you or garnish your wages.

CONSTANT READER. — It is possible for you to become naturalized, even though you entered this country illegally. Inquire of the Naturalization Bureau, in the Custom House, Ninth and Olive streets.

A BRIDE.—Under these circumstances they cannot make you take the furniture. If they sue you or make any trouble, consult a lawyer, or the Legal Aid Bureau, in the Municipal Courts Building, 14th and Market streets.

HOMER.—You should be notified in advance that the rent of your furnished room has been raised, but it does not matter whether the landlady or her housekeeper tell you. No written notice is necessary.

P. D. Q.—The New York law prohibits the defendant from remarrying, but provides that if he remarries in another State where such remarriage is legally permitted then that second marriage will be valid in New York, in spite of the prohibition.

B. R.—If he carries any stock of goods he will have to have a merchant's license. The name, "Smith Sales Company," should be registered with the Secretary of State, Jefferson City, Mo. Blanks for such registration are furnished by the Secretary of State, and the fee is $2.

READER. — They can sue you for whatever profit they would have made on the course, which probably is very nearly the full amount which you agreed to pay. You should refuse to accept the lessons. If they sue you, consult a lawyer or the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building. You may be able to make a compromise.

I. M. CONSTANT READER.—We suggest that you consult the Legal Aid Bureau in the Municipal Courts Building, 14th and Market streets, regarding the return of your $40. If they think there is anything warranting prosecution they will refer you to the Circuit Attorney's or Prosecuting Attorney's office.

JOHN D.—If he can show that he signed merely as agent for the company, and that this was known by the other party at the time, then he would not be personally liable under the contract. It is better to sign contracts in the other way mentioned by you, as that shows conclusively that he signed merely as agent for the company.

TOURIST.—California has no State income tax. California inheritance tax rate table is too long to publish in this column. You can see it at the Public Library, in Hubbell's Legal Directory, Laws of California, page 70. You can establish a residence there as soon as you take up your home there with the intention of remaining permanently.

X. Y. Z.—(1) In Missouri inheritance tax exemptions are, for a wife, $15,000, and each child, $5000. The rates are graduated upon the inheritance in excess of the exemptions, and are too long to republish here. You can see them at the Public Library, in Hubbell's Legal Directory, Laws of Missouri, page 473, or in the Missouri Statutes. (2) Delaware does not impose an inheritance tax on stock in a Delaware corporation which is owned by a non-resident.

F. JACK.—(1) The State law provides that a motor vehicle may pass a street car which has stopped for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers, where a safety zone is established by the proper authorities, or where there is at least 8 feet clearance from the car, provided that the vehicle slows down and proceeds cautiously. The city ordinance permits passing in the congested districts where there is at least 6 feet clearance from the lower step or running board of the street car. (2) We know of no law prohibiting parking all night in front of your home, provided that it does not obstruct traffic and provided that the lights are lit.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

I. O. U.—We advise thorough elimination by bowels and kidneys and an examination of the urine and eyes.

DOUBTFUL.—Nonspecific pharyngitis should be well long before six months. It does not cause the tongue to be colored. Whether it can be cured or not depends upon the character. In the vast majority of cases it can be cured.

A. B. — There is no need of a cream to fatten the face. Any advantage obtained would be by virtue of fat absorbed. Lanolin or vaseline, or equal parts of both, would be as good as any other fat or oil.

MAGNOLIA.—It requires quite a long time for such an injury to return to normal. Assuming that an X-ray picture shows a good union of the bone, we think the balance will work out in time. Massage is helpful, if regularly done, so also is the electric light bath cabinet.

ANXIOUS.—You can develop the muscles of your arm by exercise but you no doubt refer to increasing the fat; if so, the only remedy is to increase the whole body fat. (2) Peroxide will not stop hair growth. It is possible it may stimulate it, but it is not regarded as a hair stimulant.

SHIRLEY.—No point in infant feeding is better established than that the early use of much farinaceous food has resulted in serious harm. The addition to milk of farinaceous food in any considerable quantity should in the feeding of young infants, be limited to those in whom some special conditions are present. In the average healthy infant it is desirable to begin with farinaceous food in some form, by the seventh or eighth month. At two months we think the diet is best milk, breast milk if possible, if not possible modified cows milk. For a two-months old baby the following is a proper modification. Fat 3.00 per cent. Sugar 6.00 per cent; proteids 1.25 per cent. About 3 to 5 ounces to be given every 2½ hours. These modifications are best made in a laboratory. The method of making wheat, barley, oatmeal and rice water are as follows: Two tablespoons of the cereal to one quart of water, boil continuously for six hours, keeping the quantity up to a quart by the addition of water, strain through coarse muslin. The digestability of cereals is greatly increased by addition of diastase. Certified milk is preferable to pasteurized milk, but pasteurized milk may be used.

RADIO PROGRAM BY EAST SIDE MUSICIANS

Reports to K S D State It Was Received With Clarity Over Wide Territory.

Nine musicians from Wood River, Alton and Edwardsville, Ill., braved the storm yesterday and drove over to St. Louis to give a concert at Station KSD last night. In spite of the storm, atmospheric conditions were unusually good for broadcasting and the concert not only was one of the best of its type ever sent out from this station, but was received with extraordinary clarity by persons scattered over a wide territory. Telephone messages and telegrams came in from points as far distant as Western Oklahoma and Eastern Kentucky praising the transmission and the performance.

The concert consisted of solos for cornet, clarinet, violin, xylophone, voice and piano, duets for cornet, and cornet and saxophone, and ensemble numbers, and was well chosen and excellently presented. It was arranged by I. L. Roy Stocker, cornet soloist and leader of the Wood River Standard Oil Band. Participants were Miss Doris Latowsky, violinist; Miss Florence Mathie and Mrs. S. H. Allen, pianists; Dr. S. H. Allen, baritone; Lester Parker and T. M. Point, cornetists; Frank Head, clarinetist; Leroy N. Stocker, saxophonist; Edwin Arnold, xylophonist, and I. L. Roy Stocker, trombonist.

METHODIST COMMITTEE IS AGAINST WAR; LEADERS DIVIDE

Amended Report Would Pledge Church Against Offensive Attack, Another Vote Ordered.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Differences of opinion as to whether the Methodist Episcopal Church should pledge itself to refrain from participation in future wars developed yesterday at the annual New York East conference of the church in Brooklyn. The issue was precipitated by a report of the committee on the state of the church, which favored a definite stand against war.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, presiding, repudiated a suggestion that the church pledge to refrain from all future wars. The report was amended to read, "That the church never again enter an offensive war."

Further amendments were moved later and it was voted to resubmit the report.

Prof. F. L. Strickland of Boston University declared he would rather go to jail than to have anything to do with another war.

The Rev. F. B. Stockdale of Sayville, N. Y., said he hoped the general conference of the church in May would go on record as refusing to fight at the order of any civil power unless in accordance with the dictates of its own conscience, and to order its people not to fight without its permission.

BALTIMORE, March 21.—George C. Jenkins of Baltimore and Dr. Victor F. Cullen of the State sanatorium at Sabillasville have been awarded the Knighthood of St. Gregory by Pope Pius XI, according to an announcement by Archbishop Curley.

Alameda Naval Base Plan Rejected

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The House Naval Committee, by a vote of 13 to 6 yesterday rejected the plan for a naval base at Alameda, Cal. Development of the proposed base over a 20-year period, at a cost of $20,000,000, was indorsed by naval officials, including Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who contended it was necessary for Pacific defense. Opponents declared further development in the San Francisco Bay area should be at the Mare Island yard.

THE A. B. C. OF COOKING

By Hannah Wing

A Recognized Authority on Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

BOTH failures and indifferent successes in cooking can be traced to a lack of skill in thickening mixtures. Lumpy gravies or sauces, puddings in which the taste of uncooked starch is all too apparent, croquettes that fall apart, scalloped or creamed dishes that are one day too thick and the next too thin may all be laid at the door of this one principle of cookery.

The gentle art of combining fat, flour and liquid is an easy one to master if correct proportions are given first importance. In making a thin white sauce from milk or white stock, fat and flour, use one tablespoon each of fat and flour to each cup of liquid. This sauce is the base of all cream soups and many sauces.

Two tablespoons of fat and two of flour to each cup of liquid makes the base of all creamed and escalloped dishes, while increasing the fat and flour to three gives a foundation for all kinds of souffles. If four tablespoons of fat and flour are used the mixture is ready for croquettes.

These mixtures, although simple, have such an important part in cookery that it is worth while making them well, as no dish can be better than its foundation. The best and simplest way of combining the flour and liquid for white sauces is to make a perfectly blended paste of the fat and flour, which the French call a roux.

"Melt the fat in a saucepan, add the flour, stir constantly to keep the mixture smooth and cook until it bubbles. Watch it carefully lest it scorch or burn and so give the sauce a sharp, acrid flavor. When the paste is smooth and thick add the hot liquid a little at a time and stir constantly so that a perfect blending of the roux and the liquid takes place as fast as you pour.

The process is simple, but it does require the extra trouble of heating the liquid separately, as the secret of the successful blending lies in having a well-made roux to begin with and adding the liquid hot instead of cold.

The sauce should cook over hot water after it has thickened until the starch is thoroughly cooked. Nothing is more unpleasant or more marks the cook of indifferent skill than the taste of raw starch in some favorite dish.

For soups add two cups of meat, fish or vegetable pulp to each cup of thin white sauce. For cheese sauce add one-fourth cup of cut or grated cheese and stir until melted.

To make creamed dishes add from one to one and one-half cups of chopped vegetable, meat, fish or hard-cooked eggs to each cup of medium thick white sauce.

To make croquettes add from one and one-half to two cups of the desired food to the ever thick white sauce. Let the mixture stand and chill for some time before molding the croquettes. If the croquettes themselves stand for several hours after they are made they will hold together better than when fried.

One thrifty woman carefully places the charred remains of gas mantles into a box. She finds this excellent for cleaning and polishing her jewelry and silverware. She applies it with a damp cloth, then polishes with a dry one.

THE REVELATIONS OF A PAID COMPANION

By JANE PHELPS

"Author of "My Husband and I," "A Wife's Story," Etc.

CHAPTER XXXIX

MRS. ELLWOOD CONFIDES IN RITA.

SO worried had I been over Jim Bond that I had been almost unaware of anything going on about me, save as it had to do with my duties. Rush Millbank had called as usual, but beyond a casual greeting I had not spoken to him for days. Now that Mrs. Ellwood had a nurse I was not so often with her when the doctor came. And I had scarcely seen Mollie.

"What in the world has been the matter with you the last few days?" Mollie asked.

"Even Doctor Millbank has been wondering about you."

"I haven't felt very well," I evaded.

"Are you all right now?" she spoke more kindly.

"Perfectly."

"Then help me get dressed, please. Rush is going to take me to visit one of his patients after he sees mother, and I haven't but a few moments to get ready. I'll wear my new coat."

I assisted her, trying to crowd down the resentment I felt. I had been the one Rush Millbank had taken to see his patients, or to wait while he made his calls, until Mollie had made him almost oblivious of me. I couldn't blame him, I thought, as she threw the lovely wrap over her shoulders, asking how I liked it. A soft white motoring coat with a smart, close hat to match.

"It is lovely, but you'll scarcely need it, It is so warm."

"We are going somewhere to dine—that is if some old lady or fussy mother doesn't interfere by insisting Rush visit them. He is so terribly conscientious that he would disappoint his own mother rather than a patient."

I watched from the window as they drove away, a feeling of bitterness in my heart. I did not love Rush Millbank, but I liked him immensely. He had shown me more attention that I ever had received from any man, and Mollie had so much. She never lacked for companions, for some one to take her wherever she wished to go. I tried to be sensible about it, no one could blame Rush for preferring Mollie, the lovely, sparkling daughter of the house, to me, the paid companion.

"Did Mollie go with Doctor Millbank?" Mrs. Ellwood asked, as I entered her room.

"Yes, and she looked charming."

I described the new coat and hat. Mrs. Ellwood took almost a childish delight in hearing of such things; Mollie's clothes, the kind of a tie Guy was wearing, all such little details.

"My darling, self-willed girl," she said softly. Then:

"I wonder if I am romancing, Rita. But it seems to me that Mollie is beginning to care for Doctor Millbank. Her voice, something about the way she speaks to him has made me think she cared.

"I was so afraid it would be Larry Ward. She never would have been happy with Larry—not for long, but the Doctor is just the kind of a man she needs, strong, firm, yet gentle. What an old match-maker I am," she finished laughing.

"They seemed very happy as they drove away," I replied remembering my vow, no feeling of jealousy should make me cloud even her dreams.

"I would like to live to see her settled—and Guy. I used to think I would be terribly jealous of the girl who took my boy from me, but now it is my daily prayer that he may find the girl he loves and who loves him before I go."

What did she mean? Could it be that she was willing Guy should marry me, that she was asking me to try and care for him. Something in her voice, the expression of her face told me my surmise was right.

I was unable to control a shudder. Not that poor Guy was distasteful to me; as the son of my employer, I felt nothing but pity for him. But the thought of marrying him! Even all his money could not make him a desirable husband for any girl. Subject to moods of anger over trifles, moody, sullen at times, I could not imagine him as a husband, a constant companion. And—probably I was imagining things—Mrs. Ellwood had been silent for some time, and when she again spoke it was to ask me to read to her.

"What a goose I am," I said aloud as I went to the library to find the book she wanted.

"She probably had no such thought in her mind." Yet even while reading to her the thought persisted. She wanted to be sure her boy would be cared for. His affliction kept him from associating to any extent with his sister's friends. I never had known him to show attention to any girl, and—he had shown a fondness for me.

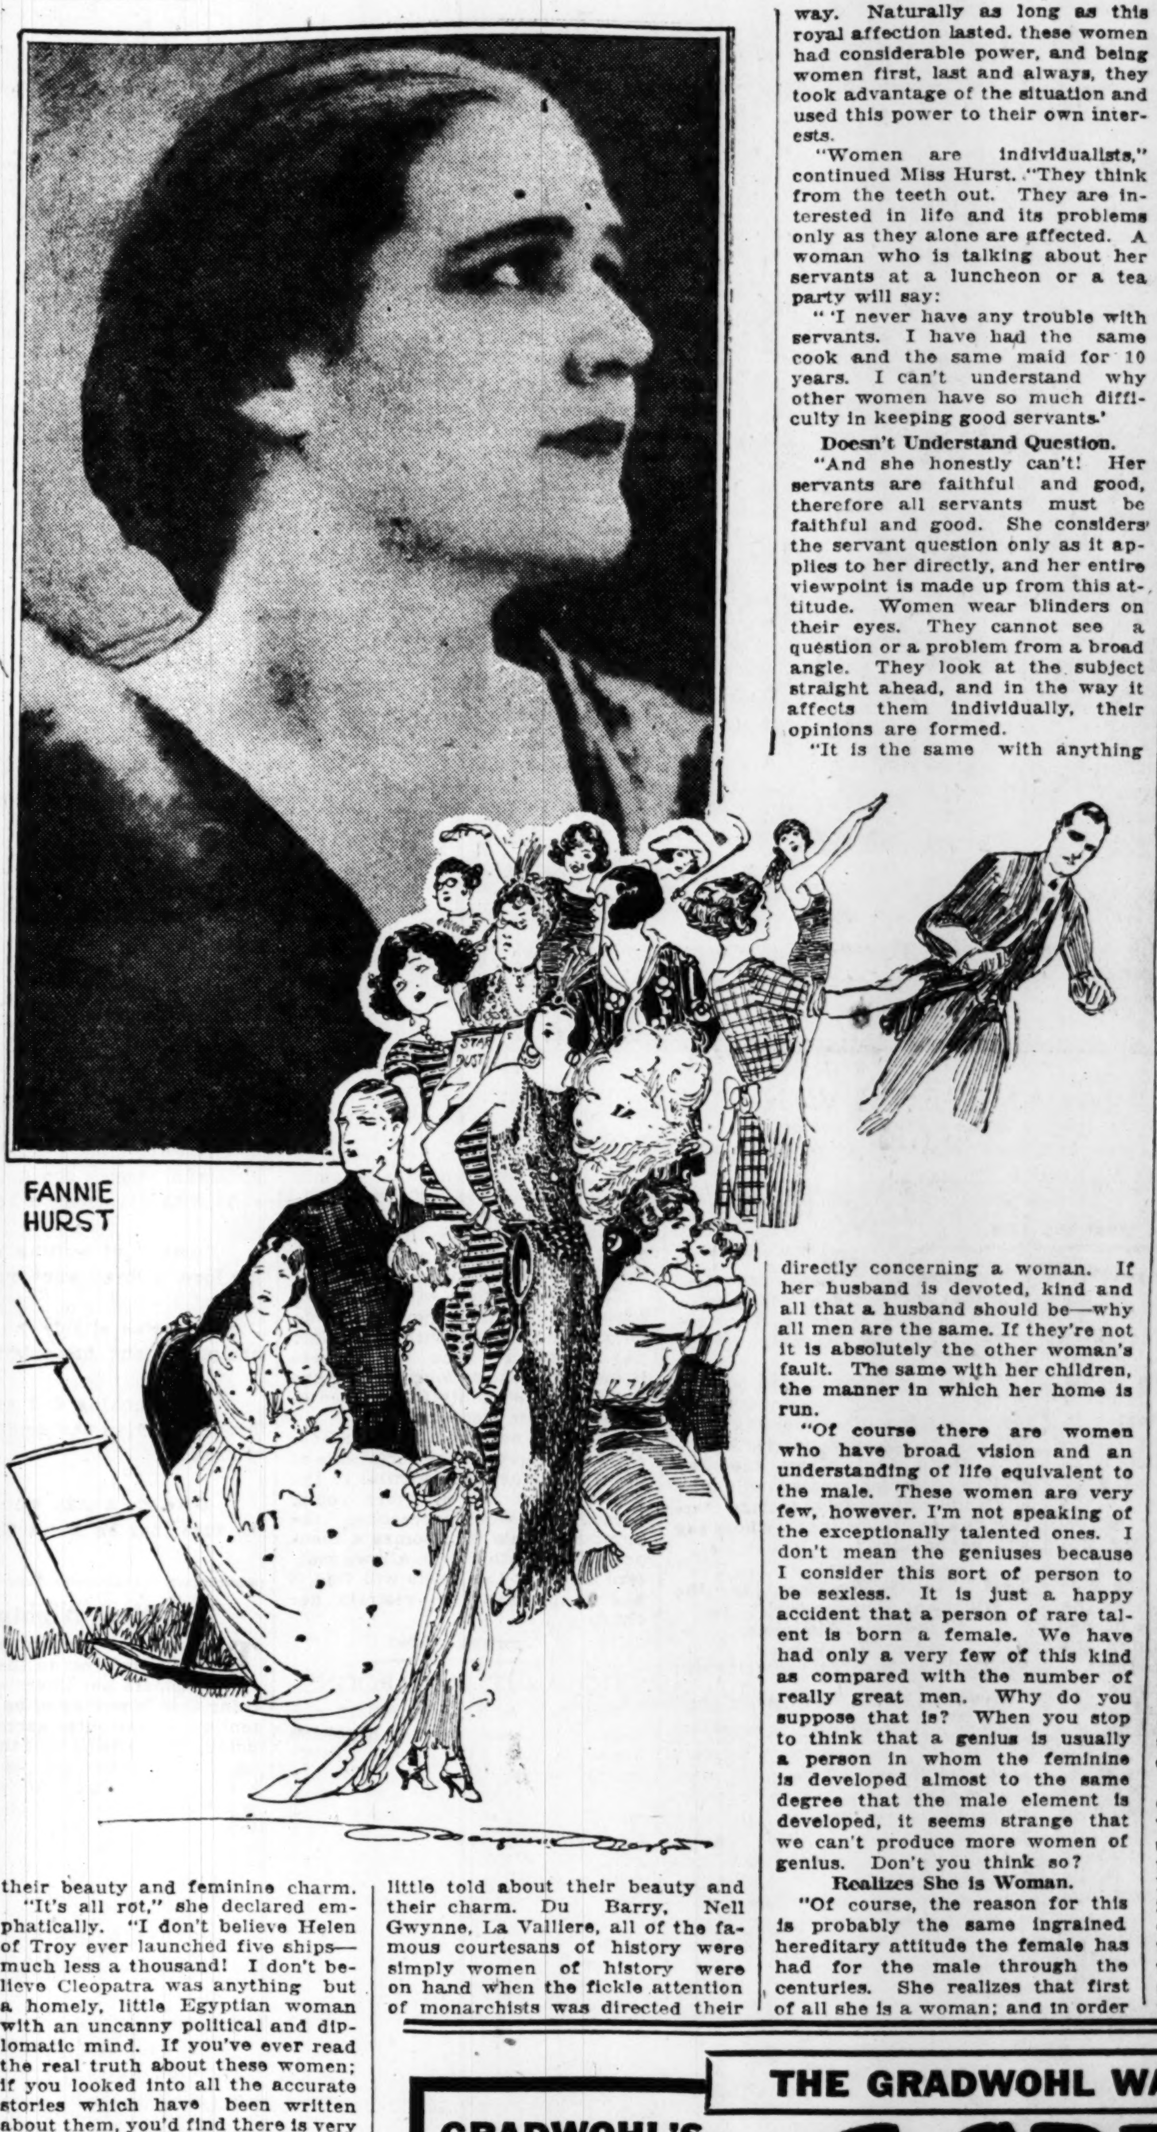
"Women Afraid of Life," Says Fannie H



FANNIE HURST

She Says Cleopatra Was Just Homely Egyptian Woman, in Interview With B. F. Wilson.

"FEAR, fear of life, fear of themselves; that's what has retarded the progress of woman—that's what makes her the inferior sex, and that's what will keep her back as long as she refuses to face it, and to conquer it."

She smote one palm against the other to emphasize the statement. I looked at the well-known author with some surprise. This was a new angle to me, and then as I listened to what Fannie Hurst thinks of her sisters today, and remembered the unusual success of this young woman, and her independent attitude towards life, I became convinced.

"I firmly believe that the old golden-coin attitude of the male towards the female is passing away," she said. "Since the world began, men have been accustomed to looking upon women as a luxury, an entertaining charming relaxation. In former times, when they had finished with the day's work, they ordered the dancing girls and the singing maidens to be brought before them for amusement. The girl who was the best dancer, or had the prettiest face and figure received a large number of golden coins which the lords flung to her as tokens of approval. This attitude has been a characteristic of man ever since, and I doubt if more than a half-dozen or so women have ever gotten beyond the dancing girl position.

Unique in History.

"Those women, by the very fact that they are so few in number have been extraordinary females who by a combination of circumstance, superior mentality, and luck stand out as unique in history. They proved themselves the equal of the best male mentality of their time. Their intelligence was such that it couldn't have been repressed. And the natural part of it is that while they commanded the respect of their contemporaries, they seldom were women with whom men fell in love. Being a genius is considered a male prerogative by the male, and therefore they built up legendary romances about women who were supposed to sway the world with their beauty and feminine charm.

"It's all rot," she declared emphatically. "I don't believe Helen of Troy ever launched five ships—much less a thousand! I don't believe Cleopatra was anything but a homely, little Egyptian woman with an uncanny political and diplomatic mind. If you've ever read the real truth about these women; if you looked into all the accurate stories which have been written about them, you'd find there is very little told about their beauty and their charm. Du Barry, Nell Gwynne, La Valliere, all of the famous courtesans of history were simply women of history were on hand when the fickle attention of monarchists was directed their way. Naturally as long as this royal affection lasted. these women had considerable power, and being women first, last and always, they took advantage of the situation and used this power to their own interests.

"Women are individualists," continued Miss Hurst. "They think from the teeth out. They are interested in life and its problems only as they alone are affected. A woman who is talking about her servants at a luncheon or a tea party will say:

" 'I never have any trouble with servants. I have had the same cook and the same maid for 10 years. I can't understand why other women have so much difficulty in keeping good servants.'

Doesn't Understand Question.

"And she honestly can't! Her servants are faithful and good, therefore all servants must be faithful and good. She considers the servant question only as it applies to her directly, and her entire viewpoint is made up from this attitude. Women wear blinders on their eyes. They cannot see a question or a problem from a broad angle. They look at the subject straight ahead, and in the way it affects them individually, their opinions are formed.

"It is the same with anything directly concerning a woman. If her husband is devoted, kind and all that a husband should be—why all men are the same. If they're not it is absolutely the other woman's fault. The same with her children, the manner in which her home is run.

"Of course there are women who have broad vision and an understanding of life equivalent to the male. These women are very few, however. I'm not speaking of the exceptionally talented ones. I don't mean the geniuses because I consider this sort of person to be sexless. It is just a happy accident that a person of rare talent is born a female. We have had only a very few of this kind as compared with the number of really great men. Why do you suppose that is? When you stop to think that a genius is usually a person in whom the feminine is developed almost to the same degree that the male element is developed, it seems strange that we can't produce more women of genius. Don't you think so?

Realizes She is Woman.

THE MASTER MAN

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

HE is a Master who curbs his anger
When anger would act like a bullet that cannot be recalled.
He is strong who waits until the morning after
To disagree with his friend.
Who fights his foe but fairly
And never fails his friend.
He is big who harbors no petty malice
When others have done him wrong,
But rather looks eastward
For the dawn of a better day.
He is powerful who takes no advantage of the weak
No matter how it may profit him.
Who stoops to laugh with little children,
For the spirit of youth has never left him.
He is Master who seeks not to delve too deep
In the pot of the world's gold,
But rather looks for the golden grain of Things beautiful and spiritual.
Not too much taken up
With the material things of body,
But who seeks solace for his soul,
Who gives ear to the lowly and the struggling.
He is great who does not try to be
But gives of himself and thus brings all unto himself.
He is big who does not lose sight of little things,
Looks for the good in his friends and overlooks the faults.
And one can be master man
Only when he becomes master of himself
By cultivating the spirit of tolerance
So that no one can put hate into his heart
And in this way the great deeds of the world have been done.

In other words, ey want culture, and they will t it.

"Not that I'm against the old-hioned woman who believes the rld doesn't exist outside of her me and children. I think she the backbone of the country.

"At the same time there are en and—women. And I cernly don't believe that all women uld be or are fitted to be the -fashioned type. A good many o claim to belong to this class in reality women who have n afraid all their lives. Afraid not getting married. Afraid to out and face the world alone. raid even to try to earn their n living.

"Some of them are exceptionally d for being captains of indus-y—or good teachers or excellent aders. Yet, this innate fear of life makes them grab the first man that comes along who is willing to provide a roof and a free meal ticket—and drag him to the altar.

"I don't see why a man should be forced to support a woman perfectly capable of supporting herself just because he marries her.

"I think that when the day arrives on which woman will take a stand—and openly declare herself, the truth about the whole sex will be happier."

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

WHO is she?
Who is the prize woman in the United States?
Who will make the greatest contribution to American civili-ation in 1924?
her, by word o' print and word o' mouth and word o' wireless,
For there's a prize awaiting her!
Five thousand dollars' reward will be paid by Pictorial Review
When it FINDS her.
SHE gets the reward—of merit!
Nineteen-twenty-four is young yet—
There's lots of time for the lady to do her stuff.
Today we're just going to suggest a few little things,
Any one of which, if we were on the Award Committee—as we're not—
Would be voted by us as "the greatest contribution to American civilization"
Any woman COULD make!
She might—
Invent a formula for keeping a husband's love—
Invent a silencer for babies—and Pomeranians—
(Which group is more in need of such an article we've never decided)—
Find a charm for keeping a cook—
Perfect a method for reducing without a struggle—
Make rejuvenation a success for somebody besides the author of a best-seller—
Solve the problem of stretching a $50 salary over $75 worth of needs—
Convince employers that women employes doing the same work as men should receive the same salary—onvert her sisters to the belief that it really isn't necessary to wear furs in August and straws in January—ad a crusade against women who ask impertinent questions, who say "Does your husband want you to work?" who talk about their operations or their ancestors, who barber their eyebrows, who weep, or shriek, or nag—radicate jealousy from the human heart—pply chloroform—or at the least a muzzle—to all reformers!
oral: But any woman who could do any one of these things ould come cheap at five HUNDRED thousand—us a halo!

POTATO FLOUR MUFFINS.

Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until thick and light, beat in ½ teaspoon of salt and 1 tablespoon of sugar; then fold in the whites of 4 eggs, beaten until stiff. Sift together twice ½ cup of potato flour and half teaspoon of baking powder, fold into the egg mixture and lastly add 2 tablespoons of ice water. Mix lightly and well and turn into well-greased, hot muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

HELPING THE SCHOOL CHILD

By Emilie Hoffman

A GIRL of 13 sank into the easy chair upon her return from school one Friday and exclaimed, "Oh, I am just dead tired. I could hardly keep awake in school today and now I must go right on and take my music lessons."

This child admitted she had been out every evening that week and had not retired a single night before 12 o'clock. When asked how she managed with her lessons she candidly replied, "Oh, simply awful! I got zero in everything today and so did a few others but, really, we don't get a chance to prepare our lessons and we all were so sleepy today we just couldn't think."

The mother calmly listened; then, with a sigh, remarked, "Isn't that awful? But what am I going to do? These affairs are all part of the school life, but I don't see how she can keep up this pace for four years."

She probably will not; but it never occurred to the mother that she might remedy this.

From the twelfth to the sixteenth year are vital years to the young student. These are the years of budding manhood and womanhood and the mother should not allow her children, especially the girls, to be overtaxed either mentally or physically during this period. Where there is a strain in both, as is so often the case, there is apt to be a breakdown.

The average schoolgirl of this age finds the school clubs enjoyable and she enthusiastically enters upon the various activities of the school. If she plays, sings or dances well or possesses histrionic talent she will be in demand and much of her time will be monopolized in preparation for public school events. It is up to the mother to decide how far her daughter shall go in this line. In the case cited it was decidedly imperative for the mother to intervene.

The wise mother will teach her boys and girls that they cannot do good mental work with exhausted physical energy. She will impress upon them that as long as they are pupils and students the mental work takes precedence.

This does not mean that a school child should evade the social side of life. Enjoyment is essential to the well-rounded life of every young person, but when it reaches the point of excess it becomes a menace. The mother who allows matters to reach this crisis will find it a difficult task to restrain her child.

COCOANUT MACAROONS.

Two egg whites, one-half cup sugar, one heaping cup shredded cocoanut, one dessertspoon cornstarch, vanila.

Stir into the sugar and cornstarch whites of eggs, beaten very stiff. Set over steam of kettle and stir until sugary around edges, which requires about 20 minutes. Then take off and add gradually the shredded cocoanut and vanilla. Drop on buttered paper. Bake in rather quick oven.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMETIMES I wonder how women endured life before men took up smoking—and golf!

Give ME a man who smokes!

I don't care what he smokes—Havanas, stogies, cigarettes, a brier, a meerschaum, or a corn-cob pipe—so that he goes behind a smoke-screen, at least once a day, and leaves the world and the family in peace.

• • •

Take away a man's tobacco and you unloose his untamed, aboriginal nature. No man is quite civilized before breakfast and before his first morning smoke.

Every man MUST have some "escape valve" for his superfluous energy, his grouches and his nervous tension, and nothing else has ever yet been discovered quite so innocent or so effective as smoking and golf.

Smoking is not pretty, it is not particularly healthy, and it does not tend to make a man more kissable. But is has done more than any other one thing to prevent domestic quarrels, fights and even wars and divorces.

• • •

Stick a man's favorite "smoke" in his mouth and, no matter how great his grievance, his worry or his anger, the effect is as magical and soothing as though you had handed a baby its bottle.

Slowly his growls die down, his tautened nerves uncurl, his problems go up in smoke and over his troubled spirit steals a sweet and delicious calm. Five minutes more and a restive animal has been transformed into a nice, tame husband—at peace with all the world!

Before smoking and golf were introduced, murder was the favorite morning pastime and out-door sport.

• • •

When a king's breakfast disagreed with him, he ordered a dozen or so of his subjects beheaded to relieve the tension.

A woman never could be sure, when her husband went off in a huff and banged the door, whether he would return with his head—or with his enemy's head. But she knew there would be a fight.

• • •

Instead of writing sonnets, or buying a girl orchids to prove his love, a lover went out and proved it by killing somebody.

• • •

There was simply no other outlet for a man's inhibitions, his complexes and his original sin, except fighting and drinking.

But smoking and golf — blessed, blessed panaceas! — have brought joy to the souls of men, peace to the world and safety to women!

• • •

Give me a man who smokes—because, if he doesn't, I can never be sure that he won't find some worse little vice to take its place!

The New Nightgown

THE newest nightgowns are of special interest to the girl who considers her lingerie as something that is worthy of as much attention as her outer garments. The details are quite as well thought out and the designs are as perfectly planned as though they were to be worn where all could gaze upon and envy their loveliness. One of pink crepe de chine follows the graceful mode of the flounce, having a curved flare from knee to hem, and a frilled jabot on one shoulder. Another leans toward the tailored mode. It has a tucked gilet and tiny tabs held in place by pearl buttons.

Some of the cotton nighties show a departure from the pink rosebud school of decoration. Vivid cross-stitch patterns and wheels, dots and squares embroidered in bright stained glass colorings are used for trimming.

Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson, daughter of the late Champ Clark, for many years Speaker of the National House of Representatives, is being urged to run for Congress, and, should she accept and be elected, will be the first woman to represent the Democrats in that body.

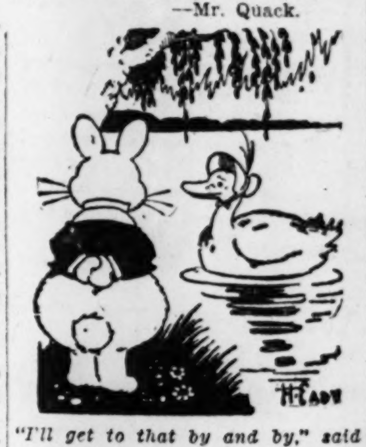
By Thornton W. Burgess

Mrs. Quack Begins Her Story

Oh, would that it could be arranged
That things we love could ne'er be changed.
—Mr. Quack.



"I'll get to that by and by," said Mrs. Quack

PETER RABBIT made himself comfortable under a little brush heap at the mouth of the Laughing Brook where it enters the Big River. He was out of sight there from the eyes of any enemies that might happen along. Mr. and Mrs Quack, the Mallard Ducks, who had just come up from the Sunny South, settled themselves comfortably at the edge of the water just in front of Peter. Then Mrs. Quack began her story.

"You remember when we bade you good-by last fall and started for the Sunny South?" said she.

Peter nodded. "Of course," said he. "You had as fine a family of children with you as I have seen in many a long day."

Mrs. Quack nodded. "Yes," said she, and there was a great sadness in her voice. "We had a splendid family then, but we have none at all now."

"What became of them?" Peter asked.

"I'll get to that by and by," said Mrs. Quack. "Of course when we left here we knew that we had a long and very dangerour journey before us. We knew that all the way along, clear down to our winter home in the Sunny South, we would be in constant danger from hunters with terrible guns. But Mr. Quack and I had learned so much about hunters that we felt sure that we could make that long journey and lead our children safely past all those terrible guns.

"It was as bad as we had expected. In fact, I think it was a little worse. It seems to me it gets a little worse each year. Each year there seem to be more of those terrible guns. I tell you what it is, Peter Rabbit, you haven't any idea what it is like to never feel absolutely sure of getting a meal without running the risk of being killed, or worse still, hurt by a terrible gun. If it were not for the blessed darkness of night we never would be able to make one of those long journeys because we never would be able to get food enough to keep us going.

"It was exciting. Yes, sir, it was very exciting. Those hunters seemed to be hidden everywhere. But you know we were in splendid condition, and Mr. Quack has wonderful eyes. Time and again he saw the hidden hunters and led us safely past them when other Ducks were not so lucky. We saw some dreadful sights, Peter. Yes, sir, we saw some dreadful sights.

"But at last we got down to the Sunny South and made straight for the winter home we had known and loved so long. It was the home where the members of my family and Mr. Quack's family had spent their winters way back in the days of our ever-and-ever-so grandfathers. Very rarely had we ever seen those two-legged creatures called men there. It was a wonderful place for birds that love the water. There were big ponds and little ponds and shallow, winding streams everywhere. There were great marshes."

"What's a marsh?" interrupted Peter.

"It's a place where the ground is wet all the time and the grass and rushes grow with their roots almost in the water. It is full of little pools and winding streams and small ponds. Then there were swamps where trees and bushes grew, but where the water stood all about their roots. Oh, it was a wonderful place, that winter home of ours in the Sunny South!"

"Why do you say was? Isn't it now?" asked Peter.

The Tone of a Room

WHEN choosing the material to decorate your rooms, keep in mind the fact that the texture and pattern of that material will decide what the tone of your room will be. Every degree from the most cozy, cottagy atmosphere to one of strict formality can be achieved in the same room merely by its hangings and upholstery.

Plain checked ginghams and simple, bright blocked cretonne used for slip covers and peasant curtains in a room will produce an effect of easy comfort and modesty.

More elaborate cretonne and the beautiful kinds of printed linen used more carefully will give the informal rich look that goes with studied elegance. Then, for very sedate formality, one would use heavy, deep toned tapestries or if formality of a daintier, lighter quality were desired, there are more sumptuous striped and corded taffetas of silvered colors.

Pieces of stale bread are the bane of the careful housewife, but if she uses them to thicken soups, in place of flour, she will find the consistency of the soup is improved.

FISH PIE.

Put into cold water about two and a half pounds of fresh cod taken from the shoulders of the fish. Add a cut onion, a bay leaf and a few stalks of celery to the water for seasoning. When this begins to boil let it simmer steadily for 20 minutes. Lift the fish with a skimmer, remove the skin and bone. Then cool and flake it. Make a very rich cream sauce, season it and add enough to the fish to moisten it well. Put the fish into a deep pie dish lined with good crust and cover the top with thinly-sliced hard-boiled eggs and a tablespoonful of washed and chopped capers. Add a little sauce, put on the top crust and bake the pie until the pastry is a rich brown. Serve it hot with the remainder of the hot cream sauce in a sauceboat. This is a luncheon dish. It makes a good dish for dinner if preceded by a chowder or raw clam or oyster cocktail.

Carved furniture should not be polished with a cloth, but with a brush of medium hardness on which have been sprinkled a few drops of furniture cream.

And then besides the cars are slow—
Don't tell me for I ought to know.

HOMETOWN STUFF.

I DO not care for Webster Groves,
Where best folks may be seen;
I do not care for Maplewood,
Where everything's so clean.
Sometimes I spend an evening there
Among their wondrous lights,
But when at rest, I want the best,
So go to Clifton Heights.

WHEN I grow weary of the lights
And long for trees and garden,
I'll hie me out to Clifton Heights
And let my arteries harden.

FAVORITE STORIES

A HOT FINISH FOR A WARM PRAYER.

THE late Sam Jones was the progenitor of a large group of pulpit evangelists who employ spectacular methods for converting wandering souls to the better life. Twenty odd years ago, he occupied the place in the public eye which today is so competently filled by the Rev. Billy Sunday.

Mr. Jones had a sincere fondness for the black race. This was only natural. He was born and reared and lived for most of his life in a Georgia town where he had negroes first for his playmates and later on, in his maturer years, for his neighbors, his servants and his friends.

He would take time from a monster revival to slip away to some small colored church on a back street and make a talk to the dark congregation gathered there. He was fond of saying that the most striking and, in some regards, the most eloquent prayer he ever heard was delivered by a colored pastor of an Arkansas community in presenting him to the latter's assembled flock. Mr. Jones, who had a marvelous memory, had brought away with him the prayer, intonations, dialect, and all. It was a treat to watch him as he rolled his eyes and lifted his arms in perfect imitation of an old-time negro exhorter and then poured forth the petition so sincerely delivered by the original.

By his telling of it, the preacher first invoked the divine mercy upon the audience, then upon the nation, next upon the entire creation. He asked help from on high for the President of the United States, for the sick and needy and distressed of all races in all climes, for mankind in every corner of the globe. At length, he approached the climax which, according to Mr. Jones, ran as follows:

"Oh, Lawd, gib Brer Jones de eye of a eagle so he kin spy sin a mile off!

"'Luminate his face wid de blessed ointments of dye favor till 'longside of him de flames of Hell will look lak a tallow candle!

"Glue his yeah 'to de Hebenly telephone an' connect' him wid Central in de sky!

"Naile his hands to de Gospel plow an' drive him down into some lonesome valley whar prayer is want' to be made!

"An', please, oh Lawd, pour all ober him de karosene oil of dye love and set him on fire!"

MEININGER'S PROSECUTION IS HALTED BY COURT RULING

Further Charges Against Former Night and Day Bank Cashier Cannot Be Tried Until Decision on His Appeal Is Made, Supreme Court Says.

JUDGE ERRED IN IMPOSING SENTENCE

Defense Is Granted Permanent Writ of Prohibition on Plea From Action of Circuit Judge Breuer at Union.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 22.—Further prosecution of Arthur O. Meininger, looter of the defunct Night and Day Bank, St. Louis, under numerous indictments, is blocked, for some time at least, under an opinion of the Supreme Court, en banc, handed down today.

Meininger, who took a change of venue, has had one trial, at Union, Franklin County, in which he was convicted, May 31, 1923, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. The fact that Circuit Judge Breuer formally pronounced sentence on him is the stumbling block on which further prosecution was tripped.

After that trial the State prepared to try another charge against the former cashier of the Night and Day Bank, who has been charged with a shortage of about $750,000. Judge Breuer announced that the trial would proceed, believing that his action in sentencing Meininger had not forestalled further trials. Defense counsel obtained a preliminary writ of prohibition, preventing the trial.

Writ of Prohibition Permanent.

The Supreme Court opinion today made the writ absolute, or permanent. It is possible that Meininger might be tried on remaining charges after his pending appeal to the Supreme Court from the conviction is disposed of, or after he serves his penitentiary term, if that verdict should be upheld.

That possibility largely depends on the sttaute of limitations governing embezzlement and assenting to receipt of deposits in an insolvent bank—which are the charges against Meininger.

It was the contention of Meininger's lawyers, and that contention has been upheld by the Supreme Court, that formal sentence should not be passed upon a defendant in one case while other charges against him are pending, if the other charges are to be brought to trial.

Opinion of the Court.

The opinion today said, in part: "Separate sentences can be passed upon the prisoner only in cases and the manner pointed out by the statutes. The limitations upon this power, where separate sentences are to be passed upon the prisoner, which will subject him to more than one term of imprisonment, are that the different convictions upon which sentences are based shall be obtained previously to the sentences."

The opinion was written by Judge Walker and all his associates concurred, except Judge J. T. Blair, who filed a dissenting opinion.

At the time Meininger was sentenced, the opinion was expressed by lawyers that, under the usual delay in getting a decision on an appeal of a criminal case, time for further prosecution would expire under the statute of limitations. Circuit Attorney Sidener objected to the passing of sentence at the time, and asked the Judge to defer this action. Judge Breuer sentenced Meininger within a few minutes after the jury brought in its verdict, which was considered a somewhat unusual procedure.
